Thrift does not mean saving for a short period and then spending the amount on some fancied extravagance.

Success is attained by saving and investing in some security which will return the money at a given date and pay interest or rent for the money in the meantime.

The Dominion Trust Company invites those who seriously mean to save and succeed, to open accounts here, and promises to aid by suggesting sound investments whenever requested.

The man who merely desires a safe depository for funds, without intending to have those funds grow for use in old age or under trying circumstances, will not be a successful man, and we can not make him so.

We will be glad to discuss this important subject at any time with those desiring to save or those who have already developed this excellent habit.

He is now busily preparing for the season's work.—A visitor to Bay Fortune reported the condition of the roads on Wednesday as very dangerous. Unless the greatest care was exercised there was a danger of capsizing a sleigh. He also remarked upon the roads through Rollo Bay and said that commendatory improvements have been made in many places, the short cut at Rollo Bay Cross Road is a great convenience to the public.

Dickson Brothers, the enterprising millers of Fortune Bridge, kept busy lately.—A very enjoyable basket social and dance was held in Bay Fortune Pond school on Tuesday night, February 10th. On account of the inclemency of the weather, a great many people were unable to attend, the committee, at one time having serious intentions of postponing the entertainment until a future date. An excellent program of singing and music was given. The proceeds which amounted to $19, goes towards getting new seats for the school. The trustees and all concerned are to be congratulated for the good order and excellence of the entertainment.

THE BREED TO KEEP.

How to Choose a Breed.—The old question often arises, which is the best breed? Various answers are given. It is often said that the one you like best is the one for you. Others will say that it does not matter, what breed is chosen, the whole thing is in the strain. Both of these replies are more or less correct, but neither answers the question. The breed for which one has a preference is not always the best and there is something in breed as well as strain. There are breeds entirely unsuited to farm conditions, to the local climate, and to the local market. There is a right breed for the farmer, though it may not be the same in every case. He should however, be able to choose intelligently by considering his locality and his markets.

The Hardier Breeds for the Colder Climates.—Where one has not given the breed question serious thought, it is well to consider what has given good results in one's own locality. As a rule the breed that is most popular in a farmer's neighborhood will be the best for him. It is never good to choose a breed just because no person in the locality has it. It would be better for everyone if only one breed was kept—not only each farm, but every farm at the shipping point, should have the best breed. It may be that there is no good breed in the section, then it will be necessary for the farmer to get something different. In that case, get a breed that does well in a like climate under similar conditions. It is well to take into consideration market and its demands. The average farmer cannot always cater to a special market, but there are few who get as much out of market as they might.
