concentrated our efforts. I am glad to say that in a large measure we succeeded. Canada has suffered and suffered severely from the uncertainty and haphazard, downward revision of the last four years. These dire consequences had come into every province, in most parts of the Dominion we found the Government and Government speakers striving desperately to confuse this issue and to divert the public mind from the results which had flowed from their own drift and folly. In Ontario they failed. In British Columbia they failed. In the Maritime Provinces they failed. Only in the Province of Quebec did they succeed."

the accident occurred and pitch dark. No one had seen the accident and the cries of the victims did not carry far in the gale that was blowing over the harbor. At nine o'clock the drifting craft had reached a point fifty yards from shore and Taylor was the only one left. Half crazed with horror at the loss of his eight companions and fearing his own ability to keep his hold until help reached him he decided to strike out for shore. Being a strong swimmer he finally succeeded in reaching land at 11:30.

SHIPMENT OF POTATOES
STILL GOING AHEAD

Seed And Table Stock For The Southern Market Has Been Exceedingly Heavy This Season.

The potato business this season has been exceptionally active and a much larger quantity than ever before has been shipped and the business is by no means over yet. The crop throughout the province was exceptionally large, although the marketable surplus is not as large as had been expected owing to rot during the wet harvesting season. Up till now the following steamers have loaded and left port: S. S. Bueland from St. John, N. B. 88,060 bushels seed; Norfolk, Virginia, sailed October 22nd. S. S. Bessenger from St. Johns, Nfld, 60,063 bushels seed; 27,737 bushels table stock; Norfolk Virginia, Sailed November 4th. S. S. Jelling from Montreal, 50,979 bushels seed; 1899 bushels table stock Norfolk Virginia. Sailed November 11th.

The Stowing Of A Potato Cargo

To the average citizen not familiar with the work of loading a large steamer with produce, general cargo or potatoes, the system and efficiency in the way which it is done is interesting to say the least. For instance, a Guardian representative visited the "Orkild" yesterday, which is loading 30,000 bags of potatoes for Rhode Island, and was greatly surprised in the manner with which this large shipment is being handled on the transfer from the cars to the hold of the Steamer.

There are four "gangs" comprised of twenty-two men to each hatch, eighty-eight men in all, including four winchmen. Each hatch has eight men stowing the potatoes as they come aboard; the men are divided to the port and starboard side of the ship thereby alleviating any undue "list" as she is being loaded; in other words the steamer is on even keel all the time. To stand on the combing of a hatch and look down into the huge hold of the steamer makes one wonder and imagine how a space so large can be stowed to the top deck in such a comparatively short time by the thirty-two stalwart working boys.

Working a ship does not mean merely throwing the cargo into the hold, it takes ingenuity and skilled workmen around in order that the valuable cargo may not become lost when the ship is leaving far out at sea. The cargo must be stowed with the shear of the ship from stem to stern, and every bag placed so as to occupy just a bag space, and stowed tight at that. If a cargo is not properly placed in a vessel it is hard to realize what may happen in the extreme—a loose and poorly stowed cargo before now has been the loss of many a good ship. But thank goodness such is not the case with steamers leaving this port as the ability of the local men is known far and wide for their thoroughness and experience they show in handling freight. Therefore the Labourers' Protective Union is to be congratulated on the capable and efficient body of men which represent this city. Their work may be hard at times, exposure and loss of sleep may be experienced, but this does not seem to bother them in the least—the work goes on amid good natured chaffing and joviality which appears to prevail throughout the entire working hours. All hail to the Labourers' Protective Union.

Mr. Wallace McDonald is the stevedore in charge of loading the steamers.

Public Conventions
(Historical)

There is more to be learned from holding public Conventions than appears on the surface. The mode of conducting them is part of an education, and how to set forth the object of such a gathering so that the general public will become interested and help digest the reports that appear in the press.

There is also the matter of saving time and the classification of the subjects it is intended to submit for discussion.

Some person has remarked, or written—it must be a long time ago—that "brevity is the soul of wit." This can be also applied to conventions. As a rule the ordinary convention is held for the purpose of exposing grievances and proposing remedies through delivering speeches and passing resolutions setting forth the views of those who attend as delegates.

It is not our purpose to criticise or even refer to any particular convention. What is said of one can be applied to conventions generally. There is no doubt out much good has been derived from such assemblies. Great reforms in public affairs have been achieved by means of conventions and promiscuously attended public meetings; and what was accomplished was largely due to the methods pursued by such meetings.

To our mind the first thing necessary is the classification of the subjects to be discussed and the selection of speakers who can give expert opinion on the different subjects, also men who can speak from accurate knowledge and personal experience. The next consideration should be the subjects and the length of the speeches. And above all such speakers should be advised to come to the convention with one or more remedies. It is a common and true saying that "Any person can find fault, but few who can propose good remedies."

Let us give a case in point. A few months ago Sir Henry Thornton, President of the C. N. R. met a number of men, (we just forget whether it was at a Lunch or a Convention) and had occasion to address the gathering. One of the subjects referred to the C. N. Railway System and some allusions were made to its deficits and its future. Sir Henry gave a very trite reply, one that must have woken up his audience, but it was a whole volume of sound doctrine and suggestion. "There is not enough traffic at present to make the system pay," said Sir Henry. He did not tender any advice as to how the traffic was to be increased, that was a matter for the country in general to remedy, but his remark furnished a world of suggestion. No doubt he had done his utmost to work up traffic but it's not for him or his assistants to create traffic, they are there to handle all that ofers, not to manufacture goods, catch fish or cure them, grow grain or harvest it, this is the business of the public. Never was a better reply given to an audience who needed a lesson. The point we wish to make is that Sir Henry knew his business and had attended to it, it was the business of the Government and the audience to trot out the traffic. Then he and the System would solve the problem or their deficits.

It may be remarked that the System is still going strong, but there is a noticeable diminution of the blame and anxiety of the alarmists who had no remedy to offer themselves but did not see that the remedy was in their own hands. We have sought to emphasize the value of expert advice at conventions, and we have endeavored to emphasize the value of Sir Henry's expert opinion. It would be well for others who contemplate holding conventions to air grievances to see beforehand where censure will fall and where advice is most needed. These comments were suggested by the proceedings of the recent convention of the Maritime Board of Trade held in this city. Those in charge of the arrangements appear to have had clear ideas of what constituted the business and made very good selections of speakers. The speakers, too, did not deal in "glittering generalities" but confined themselves to the subjects in hand. The reports which appeared in the press were also creditable to the reporters. Among the reports we were particularly impressed by the speech of a Mr. F. M. Schlenders of St. John, N. B., who gave a clear cut address and made excellent suggestions which were embodied in the resolutions adopted. Our own Mr. W. F. Tidmarsh also contributed practical opinions on the subjects that were taken up and showed that he is well up among the experts.

Others might also be included if time permitted.

Cried Self to Sleep Called "Pimple-Face"

Brooklyn, Mrs. Elsie Fels writes:—"For months I tried in vain to clear my face of horrible pimples. Once I overheard my dearest friend refer to me as 'pimple-face' and everyone laughed. I cried bitterly. I read about Carter's Little Liver Pills being used successfully to clear complexions and finally tried them. Well, my picture tells its own story, doesn't it?"

Carter's Little Liver Pills in many cases will do more to encourage a healthy complexion than all the known beauty treatments. They cause the bowels to move in a gentle manner relieving the intestines of their poisonous matter.

MONTHLY REPORT Y. M. C. A.

REPORT OF THE GENERAL SECRETARY FOR THE MONTH OF OCTOBER, 1925.

To the Board of Directors and Visitors,
Sirs,—It gives me great pleasure to bring before you at this time a summary of the work and activities which took place during the month of October in our building. October as a rule is the month for setting up our fall and winter program and this year it has been no exception, although there are yet several special clubs and classes to be organized.

General Activities.
The repairs and improvements which were sanctioned for the year have about just been completed, we are very thankful to report that we are now in a better position than ever before to handle the ever-increasing membership and the program for them, although at times our facilities are taxed to the utmost.

Students Work.
October 3rd, saw the re-opening of student work, when the S. C. M. re-organized for the season and now have about 200 students enrolled in that movement. Special programs are arranged for each Saturday which night our association is thrown open to the students. The programs consist of talks, lectures, contests, socials, musical numbers and an hour spent in games for all on the gym floor. Monthly social average attendance 150 to 175.

Boys Work.
So far the special work for boys has been through the Physical Department, all boys are now organized in special groups according to age and weight. Program at present consists of gym classes two days a week, and also two special periods a week for group games, checkers, ring toss, billiards and bowling, and a monthly social.

Young Mens Work.
Program for this group of men from 18 to 30, consists of graded gymnastium classes two nights, basketball one night a week, social every Friday night and a bowling league for all those who bowl.

Bowling.
This game is more popular than ever this year and already six leagues are in operation with 23 teams competing with over 200 men and women enrolled. Our new alley is proving to be a wise investment and enables those not enrolled in league to enjoy a game whenever they desire. New lights were installed free of charge to the association by the earnest endeavours of the chairman of the games committee.

Billiards.
Owing to so much bowling going on our billiard tables are not so busy. They are all in a good state of repair and with winter weather coming they will be used to a large extent.

Meetings.
Ten various meetings were held in our building during the month by the following organizations:—Ladies Auxiliary, Fox Companies, Student Cabinet, Bowlers, Basketball players.

Socials.
One Junior Hallow'een Social with 50 boys attending, one students social attended by 175, and four Senior fireside socials with about 15 attendance each.

Visitors.
Mr. J. H. Crocker, Toronto, Director of Physical Education and Mr. T. D. Patton of Toronto, were two National Council visitors for the month. The time these national men spent with us was very helpful indeed and it is always with pleasure that we look forward to the visits of outside Y. M. C. A. Secretaries.

Several committees will need to meet this coming week, namely, Religious' Boys Work and Foreign. Can't we make these meetings mean something vital to our membership?
