

DO AWAY WITH SLANG SAYS PROFESSOR

CHICAGO, August 8.—Slang is going to put the everlasting kibosh on your mother lingo. It's gotta be slow, together with a lot of other loose jaw rattle, or it will be as hard for posterity to get up to our English as it would be to translate a gramophone record with a hieroglyphic dictionary.

Professor Lorenz Morshbach, of Georgetown, new professor of English at the University of Chicago, would have it.

Anyhow for years and years Professor Morshbach has studied the English language from the outside. He's never been mixed up with western dialect, southern drawl, New England whines or Chicago slang. He comes to Chicago devoid of linguistic experience. He never has even said: "O you kid."

And by the same token slang and the tendency to attach bizarre and unusual significance to words—to say nothing of a proneness which, it must be confessed, is evident—to originate entirely new expressions, must be deplored.

Just think what's goin' to happen. Professor Lorenz Morshbach has been brought over from Germany to teach English to the students of the university. It must be that he is a parist.

all afflicted anomalies will be annihilated. The student who uses it in any of Professor Morshbach's classes will be canned, ditched, boosted, and if that isn't enough, he may be fired or told to duck his nut.

As the cars go by, University of Chicago students will know as little of slang and loose lingo as lizards know of Reperanto. And then it will spread all over the town, until, when it comes to pure English, Boston will block to a paragraph of Hegel.

It isn't in the use of slang entirely that Chicago threatens to tie up the language. Good words are used in bad places with such a riot of carelessness that Professor Morshbach is dizzy.

The first thing he saw in a newspaper when he came to Chicago was an announcement, "Giants Lambast Pirates," wherein all historical data showing that both Giants and Pirates are obsolete.

He turned over the page and learned that "Atchison" had "slumped." He still is in the dark as to what Atchison is or what he did.

In another column the professor learns that "coal takes a jump."

It pays to buy in this Province. J. Hamill, city, was a passenger west yesterday afternoon.

Chester and Mrs. Gregory, leave this morning for New Glasgow after spending a few days Mr. Gregory's parents, Samuel and Mrs. Gregory, City.

Rev. T. F. Fullerton moderated in a call at Brookfield last night, which came out unanimously in favor of Rev. A. J. W. Bach.

Miss Lottie McAulay, Boston, arrived in the city on the express last evening and leaves this morning for Souris where she will visit at the home of her parents.

A number of riflemen from the western portion of the Province arrived in the city on the mail train last evening to compete in the P.R.A. matches which open today.

Thomas Brazil, Johnston's River, who is now located in Boston, arrived in this city last evening on the mail train and drove out to his home. Mr. Brazil will visit his parents Patrick and Mrs. Brazil.

Mrs. J. F. Duckworth, Central Falls, R. I., arrived in the city on the express last evening and will visit in this city for some time. While here she will be the guest of D. R. H. and Mrs. Mitchell.

A meeting of the Young Liberal Association was held in this city last evening in the Board of Trade rooms. The following officers were appointed: President—F. H. Sellers; Vice President—Sixtus McLean; Secretary—George W. MacLhee. A strong executive committee was also appointed and considerable routine business was transacted. Stirling addresses were delivered by Hon. A. B. Warburton, Dr. E. Prowse, M. P.; and F. H. Sellers.

A pleasing feature of the service in the First Methodist Church on Sunday evening was the vocal number rendered by Mrs. Robert Coffin, who is at present visiting friends in this city and province. She sang "The Homeland" with beautiful effect. Mrs. Coffin is possessed of a particularly fine voice in which a full rich tone is not sacrificed by strength of voice, of which she is also abundantly endowed. Her solo was highly appreciated. The choir, in their anthem were also pleasing, rendering "Now the Day is Over" in a highly effective manner. Miss Hazel Bremner, sang the solo part in her usual splendid voice.

The many friends of W. J. Wright, of Montreal, formerly of this city, are glad to see him home again, and to know that he has been most successful in completing a four year's course in applied optics, with R. N. Taylor, who is a specialist of Ophthalmology, in Montreal and the leading optician of Canada. After rusticing for several years in London, Mr. Wright leaves for Edmonton, Alta., where he intends opening an office, and will be dispensing eye work there. The Guardian extends heartiest congratulations, and trusts that he may be most successful in his new field of labor and that some day, he shall be heard of as being the leading specialist in the "Golden West."

If this hot weather is robbing you of energy and snap you had better get a bottle of Gibson's Hypophosphites. It gives appetite and vim, builds up the body and nerves, and rejuvenates the system generally. Splendid for those who do not enjoy their food and those who feel indolent and without ambition. Price $2.00 per bottle. The MacKinnon Drug Co., Montreal, Que., Sole Agents.

The Benj. Hertz Memorial Hall was comfortably filled last evening when Rev. Dr. J. W. Wadman, a returned student from this province to Hawaiian Islands, addressed the gathering of those islands and their people. Rev. J. Heaney, Pastor of the First Methodist Church presided and in a neat speech introduced the speaker. Rev. Dr. Wadman delivered what was afterwards deservedly commended as an eloquent and highly instructive lecture of the inhabitants of those islands of the Pacific in which he related and worked during the past seven years. An additional interest was lent to the lecture in the presentation of a large number of splendid slides giving a very vivid picture of the country, its towns and villages; its people, their customs, their pursuits and very clearly pictured the splendid work done in the churches and missions there. On the whole the lecture was most entertaining and well received by those who assayed to remain indoors in the warm evening. No formal vote of thanks was tendered but had there been there is doubt but that the audience would have been excessively appreciative.

STIFF FINE FOR ORGANIZER OF THE WIRE TRUST NEW YORK, Aug. 5.—The succession of fines which has marked the progress of the government's successful campaign against the wire manufacturers recently indicted for forming pools in violation of the anti-trust laws reached a climax yesterday when Edwin E. Jackson Jr., the New York attorney whom the federal attorneys termed the "head and brains of the trust," was sentenced to pay $45,000, and costs of $2,500.

District Attorney Henry A. Wise pleaded with United States Circuit Judge Robert W. Archibald to send the wire trust attorney to jail. He said tonight that he would apply for Mr. Jackson's imprisonment. District Attorney Wise told the court that this penalty meant little to the defendant, who made $211,000 from his services in organizing the wire pools in 1908 and $107,000 in 1909. Others who pleaded and were fined were: Hubert L. Satterlee, a son-in-law of J. P. Morgan; William S. Kyle, Wallace D. Ramsey, George E. Holden, Frederick J. Hall, J. B. Olson, James H. Sieberling, Benjamin S. Witt and Eugene R. Phillips.

In his arraignment of Mr. Jackson, District Attorney Wise said the defendant had violated the law for twenty years. "He is not a manufacturer," he continued. "He was not seeking a manufacturer's profit. He was seeking to earn millions. He went after the manufacturers and induced them to come into the pools. In my opinion this man is the worst type of criminal that society has to contend with. He was well versed in the law. He knew he was violating the law and dragging others into it." It is reported that one of the leading Dry Goods men had a thrilling experience last evening at Victoria Park. He is now on the way and a companion were trying to teach a water spaniel to swim. The animal not being accustomed to moonlight bathing refused to take to the water and when it was forced to do so, it immediately took hold of a landfish and started for the deeper water of the harbor. The dry goods man promptly diving headlong into the river without removing even his boots and saved his companion from a watery grave. He is now open to congratulations and it is suggested that a Carnegie medal should be awarded for his heroic conduct. The young man is still wet at the time of writing and declares himself better but wiser for his experience.

Do not weigh anything in a second, but take a second thought when a druggist or dealer asks you to accept a substitute for Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry.

This preparation has been on the market for over 65 years, and so far as we know has never yet failed to either relieve or cure the worst cases of DIARRHOEA, DYSENTERY, COLIC, CRAMPS OR PAINS IN THE STOMACH, CHOLERA MORBUS, CHOLERA INFANTUM, SUMMER COMPLAINT, OR ANY LOOSENESS OF THE BOWELS.

Mrs. A. J. McCallan, London, Ont., writes:—"It is with much pleasure I write to say that I have used Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry with great success. Last summer my little boy, 18 months old, was attacked two or three times with Diarrhoea, but each time, after one day's dose, he was taken bad one night. The next day three doses cured him. I always insist on Dr. Fowler's being given me."

If you want to be on the safe side, ask for Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry, and insist on getting what you ask for.

MONTREAL WOMAN SHOT DEAD IN HUSBAND'S STORE

MONTREAL, Aug. 5.—A fatal shooting tragedy, which has considerable mystery attached to it, occurred in a second-hand store on Craig street at about 4 o'clock this afternoon, when Mrs. Joseph Adelman was shot dead.

The story of Joseph Adelman, keeper of the store, and husband of the unfortunate woman, who was thirty-five years of age, and leaves five young children, two of them, it seems, being witnesses of her death, is that a man entered the store at 141 Craig street, near the corner of St. George street, and asked to be shown some revolvers. Several were produced, but the man said that they were all too dear and that he had a better one in his pocket. Then he fished out, and in exhibiting it to Mr. Adelman, pulled the trigger, evidently in the belief that the weapon was unloaded.

Mr. Zarkman, a clerk in the store next door, rushed in, and grabbed the stranger. It was immediately seen that Mrs. Adelman was beyond all human aid. At the police station the man told Sergeant Lantaigne, who was in charge, that his name was Joseph Charles, 37 years of age, a native of England, who has been working on the Transcontinental in the West for some time and had only returned to Montreal yesterday, locating at the Majestic Hotel. He had gone into Adelman's store and bought a grip and then made enquiries about the price of revolvers. Adelman handed some revolvers to him for inspection, but he objected that one in particular was too dear.
