Campaign For Economy Gets Underway In France

(Copyright, 1935, By The Havas News Agency) (G.P.-Havas) (By Guardian's Special Wire) PARIS, July 17.—The French government tonight banned all public demonstrations in a move to permit it to carry through the program of drastic economy measures promulgated by the cabinet early today.

Minister of the Interior Joseph Paganon announced the move after civil servants had called for a mass demonstration Friday in the Place de l'Opera "under any circumstances" and Premier Pierre Laval in public address had warned the nation that it must buckle down to the new drastic economies or "face the consequences."

The Federation of Civil Servants, Railway Workers, members of the General Labor Federation, and postmen meanwhile pledged themselves to turn out by thousands in Place de l'Opera Friday night to make known their objections to the stringent government measures.

The civil servants and labor unions argue that reduction in the cost of living, provided for in the decrees by lowered rents, coal and bread prices, gas and electricity rates was only "symbolical" and did not correspond to the salary cuts that range from three to 10 per cent.

"In five years the debt has increased from 250 to 340 billions. One does not need to be a financier or a technician to understand that in spending more than one possesses one reaches bankruptcy quickly," Laval declared.

He warned that the liberties of the Republican regime could only be preserved by maintaining the independence of public finances.

Negotiations With Japan Proceeding At Ottawa

(C. P. By Guardian's Special Wire) OTTAWA, July 17.—Negotiations with Japan over alleged Canadian trade discriminations against Japanese imports, activities of "on to Ottawa" groups, and the everyday routine of administrative problems, combined again today to so occupy the government that no progress was made with the numerous appointments and other detail to be disposed of in preparation for the general election.

Prime Minister R. B. Bennett had an interview this afternoon with Sotomatsu Kato, Japanese minister, and afterward held a long conference with officials of external affairs—a conference which will be resumed tomorrow—but had no information to make public tonight.

Japanese claims that Canadian dumping and import duties constitute an unfair barrier to imports from that country, and their threats at retaliatory barriers against Canadian commodities have created a problem of long standing and complex nature. Mr. Bennett may issue a statement in a day or two explaining the situation.

A short cabinet council this afternoon was devoted almost entirely to the Japanese question. Later Mr. Bennett conferred with the Japanese minister but it is understood Mr. Kato had not yet received instructions from Tokyo covering the latest Canadian communication to his government.

In the face of slowly increasing numbers of adherents of the "on to Ottawa" movement already in the capital, and the announcement from Toronto that 2,000 left that city this afternoon for Ottawa, the government did not issue any statement today.

Mr. Bennett made it known yesterday that while he realized the futility of men trekking to the capital and appreciating the potential danger of peace and good order engendered by such movements, there was nothing the government could do so long as proceedings were kept within the law. Federal authorities were helpless to prevent movement of these men, he said, so long as they did not trespass on railways nor violate any Dominion statute.

It has been the Prime Minister's intention ever since prorogation, to get away for a brief rest. But so far he has been unable to do so. Practically every day since prorogation Mr. Bennett has been in his office from early morning until nearly midnight. Whether he will leave this week-end in view of the approach of the unemployment is not known. He has already given his answer to their demands, but may remain in the capital to meet the fresh delegations.

Young Heiress Limited To 30,000 Living Expenses

NEW YORK, July 18.—"Tips, 300." "Vacations, $5,250." "Dentist, $3,600." "Frock, $3,600."

These were some of the items approved in surrogate's court recently for necessary expenses during the coming 18 months for the 14-year-old Brenda Diana Duff Frazier, in the upper income class brackets with an annual income estimated at approximately $107,000.

The order budgeted to Brenda, $45,750 for living and schooling expenses during the next year and a half, June 21, 1935, to December 1, 1936.

The order was made at the request of her mother, Mrs. Frederic N. Watris, wife of the late Sir Frederic Williams-Taylor, former vice-president and general manager of the Bank of Montreal, and divorced wife of the late wealthy Frank Duff Frazier, of New York and Palm Beach.

While the heiress is limited to about $30,000 a year for personal living expenses, she gets only $2 a week for pocket money. Approximately half her annual income goes back into principal, after all expenses and taxes.

The child's mother estimated her daughter would require the next 18 months $600 for club dues, $375 each for Christmas gifts and $2,250 for doctors, $2,250 for school, $900 for music lessons and $150 for dancing and skating lessons, $2,250 for a governess and another $2,250 for secretarial and clerical service, $1,800 for amusements and parties, $375 for Christmas gifts and other charitable contributions and $900 for books, toys and school supplies.

Now It's World's Oldest Potato

A potato which has been cured by smoke and heat and kept dry for 83 years has just been discovered at Myrtleford, Victoria, Australia.

It is the treasured property of Walter Munnery. One day his mother, a pioneer in the district who lived in a slab and bark hut, peeled a few too many potatoes for dinner. One of them, out in half, was placed on a shelf over the primitive fireplace. It remained there for 20 years. The smoke and heat hardened it until it became, in substance and appearance, a reddish brown stone. Then it was given as a curiosity to Mr. Munnery, who went on preserving it.

"Tougher than any 'iron ration' it could now be boiled for months and still not be 'done'."—Australian Press Bureau.

LIFE OF MAY YOHE IS AMAZING RECORD

NEW YORK, July 18.—For an amazing life story it is only necessary to think of May Yohe, who once owned the enormous, and fateful, Hope diamond. Only a couple of weeks ago reports had it that May was dying by the minute from a serious illness, but back she came again with a sudden recovery that left everybody, including the doctors, in admiring amazement.

Bouncing back again has been a favorite trick of the beautiful actress of the nineties, who has had more ups and downs than a roller coaster. She went from a childhood in Pennsylvania, as the daughter of a small town dressmaker, to the stage of the Casino Theatre in New York, where she advanced from the back row to the front by means of her increasing beauty and a rich, contralto voice.

Her stage success mounted up, and eventually she was playing in London. Here she captivated and married Lord Francis Hope. Sunday newspaper editors immediately said the Hope family's baleful diamond would put the jinx on her. Strangely enough, subsequent happenings seemed to bear this out. Around the turn of the century the wife of the late money social position, jewels, and Lord Francis were gone. She was unhappily married to Capt. Putnam Bradley Strong, divorced again, and drifted as a singer to the Barbary Coast. During the war she became a nurse in Africa, met and became the wife of Capt. John Smuts, nephew of Gen. Smuts.

They became stranded in the Orient, but finally made their way to Seattle, where he worked in a shipyard and she had to be satisfied as a scrubwoman. She tried afterward to make a career for herself several times, but with no great success. Then Capt. Smuts shot himself, explaining he did it out of remorse for ill-treatment of his wife. He did not die, however, and following his recovery the curse of the diamond appeared to be lifted.

At present the lady is said to be living happily, if not lavishly, in a neat little cottage in a Boston suburb.

English Capital Floods Australia

Very large amounts of English capital are being earmarked for, or are actually in process of, investment in Australia for the development of enormously rich mineral resources which have never been more than "scratched."

Recovery from depression and the difficulties with which Australia is confronted, in the sale of the whole of the exportable produce, including meat, are resulting in greatly increased activity all the continent in mining development. This is being considerably helped in the reduction of transport difficulties and charges by the invention and use of the "road tram," which does not even need a road track.—Australian Press Bureau.

To prevent constipation from lumping when mixing with milk or water in making puddings, sauces, etc., combine it well with a little of the sugar in the recipe before adding any liquid.

HONEYMOON HOME OF AGED COUPLE WRECKED BY MOB

BRIDGE, Pa., July 16.—Julius F. Swetzer, 68, and his 86-year old bride are honeymooning under duress at an Erie hotel, their home wrecked by neighbors and other residents of the town who disapproved of the wedding.

Guy King, 64, son of Mrs. Swetzer by a former marriage is in jail charged with shooting to death Laurence Field, a neighbor, after King had chased Swetzer from his mother's home.

Police said Field, hearing an argument between the two, was seeking peace.

Swetzer and his fifth wife were married at Clymer, N. Y., by Justice of the Peace J. Albert Ackers, Jr., several days after King was arrested for Field's death, which occurred July 3.

About 40 persons, carrying tar and feathers, visited the aged couple's home yesterday. Their tributes consisted of a storm of missiles which broke the windows. They tore the railing from the porch and burnt inside.

Police and firemen forced their way through the crowd, rescued Swetzer and his bride and took them to the city jail for safe keeping. Then they sent the newly-weds to Erie.

ENGLISH PILGRIMS REVIVE OLD CUSTOM

LONDON, July 18.—A party of pilgrims will leave London in August and walk 130 miles across East Anglia to the ancient shrine of Walsingham, Norfolk. Like the pilgrims of the Middle Ages, they will be in devotion at the shrine.

make no plans for eating or sleeping. They will undertake to accept what befalls them.

The party will include a group of Oxford undergraduates, several clerical and four young women. Each day mass will be celebrated at a village church. At Walsingham at a village church. At Walsingham at a village church. At Walsingham at a village church.

Liberal Platform (Final Edition)

- So many editions of the Liberal platform have appeared that the electors and the candidates are equally at sea as to what it means. In every district the Liberal spokesmen prefer to give their own version rather than the barren generalities contained in the text.
- From an analysis of Liberal criticisms and explanations as to how their chief plank—a balanced budget—is to be implemented under present conditions, the following definite policies emerge:
1. Abolition of Old Age Pensions.
  2. Discontinuance of all unemployment relief and undertakings of any importance in the Public Works Department.
  3. Abolition of the Department of Public Health, there being no Liberal candidate qualified to fill the portfolio.
  4. Charging of grave and road machinery to capital instead of ordinary account.
  5. Reduction in all teachers' salaries of $500 or over, in accord with the Liberal amendment to the Estimates in the Legislature in 1933.
  6. Abolition of 3rd and 4th year courses at Prince of Wales College, scrapping of all oilcloth, shower baths and toilet facilities, and rebuilding the institution on a meaner scale in accord with requirements prevailing fifty years ago.
  7. Provision of bicycles for Ministers, nurses, Women's Institute and departmental officials in keeping with pledge to abolish the present system of using motor cars.
  8. Reduction of grants to Hospitals and Sanatorium, which the Conservatives extravagantly increased when in office.
  9. Encouragement of initiative among the fishermen by abolishing the Conservative grant to the Fishermen's Union.
  10. Competition being the life of trade, to establish a Central Jail Farm so as to give our farmers the benefit of competition in their home market by cutting prices through the sale of Jail Farm vegetables.
  11. Continuation of the Liberal policy of RIGID NON-COOPERATION with the other Maritime Provinces, the Maritime Board of Trade and the Transportation Commission in every matter affecting the welfare of the Province.
  12. INCREASED TAXES ALL ALONG THE LINE.

Western Australian Secession Failure

Western Australia, because of asserted unequal conditions of revenue and taxation as compared to the more industrialized states at the other side of the continent, has attempted to secede from the Commonwealth by petition addressed to the British Parliament. This petition recently has been denied by a joint parliamentary committee in London, as something which the British government cannot properly receive, under the terms of the constitution.

The joint committee of both Houses of Parliament in London viewed the issue in the following manner: "Inasmuch as the prayer of petition asks for legislative action which, in its opinion, it would be constitutionally incompetent for the Parliament of the United Kingdom to take, except upon the definite request of the Commonwealth of Australia, conveying the clearly-expressed wish of the Australian people as a whole, and inasmuch as the petition is presented by the Government of Western Australia, which as a State is not concerned with the subject matter of the proposed legislation the petition is not proper to be received."—Australian Press Bureau.

Broadbent took his plane up again and circled the city so that the pictures could be obtained.

He said he had had in mind for some time attempts on three records that round Australia, which he had just secured a second time; the light airplane solo record to England, held by H. L. Brook; and the solo record in a light plane from England to Australia, held by Sir Charles Kingsford-Smith.

ALL FOR NOTHING

(Canadian Press) LONDON, July 17.—It was at the big Queen's club international tennis tournament that J. G. Ritchie and C. Aeschliman were fighting stubbornly in a double match against Gandar Dower and L. de Borman. Dower and his partner won the first set 6-4 and were leading 4-2 in the second. Suddenly it was discovered the pairs were not drawn against one another at all. They walked off the court. Nobody saw the incident on the back court.

JUBILEE GOLD PIECES UP

LONDON—A bid of $1,250 was refused recently when a 235 gold jubilee souvenir piece was being auctioned. Only 25 of these coins were minted, but 1,300 people applied for them.
