In Memoriam

MR. J. W. LING

The following clipping of the death of Mr. J. W. Ling, taken from the Hannibal Newspaper, will be regretted by relatives and friends who knew the late Mr. King.

"Beloved by thousands to whom he had made the character of Santa Claus more real by his enactment of the role for 17 years in the Hannibal Merchant Bureau's pre-Christmas activities and in many community events, John William Ling, 77, passed away at 8.30 o'clock this morning at his home following an illness since June 23.

Mr. Ling, a prominent Hannibal resident since infancy, was a retired machinist at the C.E. and Q. railroad. He retired in 1921 following 38 years of service in that capacity with the railroad.

He was born in Summerside, Prince Edward Island, Dominion of Canada, April 5, 1865, the son of John and Margaret Stevenson, Ling. He was a direct descendant of Robert Louis Stevenson and the grandson of the first Camolite pastor who built the first Christian church in Prince Edward Island.

BIG CHANGES

The most important, the industrial and commercial system, which is the keystone of the Empire has changed and will change more.

But the damage to Britain's world trade system will extend into the post-war years. For great factories built to make plows for the army, similar hundreds of other factories are making war products of little value in post-war trade.

The lease-lend program and the full realization of what total war means have combined to weaken Britain's export position, according to economists.

Expansion of industry for war cannot be reversed overnight, and Britain probably would not be able to reintroduce export trade on a large scale immediately after the war even if all the world clamored for her products.

Political, Social

This prospective change in Britain's world economic position probably will be accompanied by political and social changes just as deep and far reaching.

People seem tired of the social inequalities which they claim limit opportunity. A reform of the educational system is the remedy most people advocate, and they are watching R. A. Butler's planning on the board of education carefully. They have seen so many fine plans go awry.

20 Viewpoints

I asked 20 people at random what change they wanted most in post-war Britain. Fifteen said "equal opportunities through equal education for all." Three said a general election, although most included this as a second choice (there hasn't been one since 1935), and two wanted nationalization of all heavy industry.

These people believed equal education would end the great inequality and powerful oligarchy which, linking men through public schools, families, clubs and universities, contrives to perpetuate the main government offices.

The system was held responsible for many of the weaknesses of the government, especially what they called its "inability to see this as a modern war, and fight both from a political and military standpoint."

NAVY MINISTER IN SYDNEY

SYDNEY, N. S., Aug. 5 (CP)—Navy Minister Angus L. Macdonald arrived here today from Halifax, carried out an inspection of navy facilities in Sydney and then left by motor for a visit to his home in Port Hood, N. S.

The former Nova Scotia premier will be in Cape Breton Friday night, when he leaves for Ottawa. He will attend a Scottish gathering at St. Ann's, N. S., on Friday.

FILMS OVER GERMANY

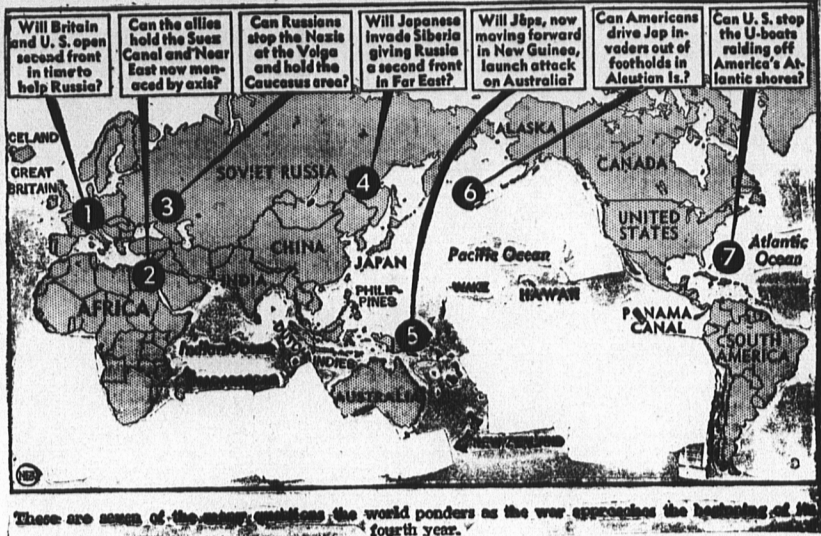

LONDON (CP)—The moving picture public soon will see a film of a real bombing raid over Germany. The cameraman, Fil-Lit, E. P. Moynie, went on three R.A.F. raids on Bremen to get the pictures.

RATIONING AT HOME

If members of the household are apt to put most of one week's sugar ration on the morning cereal, leave their whole week's supply approximately one large cup, better after eating at table when they use it, up don't give them any more.

Borden Women's Institute held their regular meeting in the town hall on Thursday, July 22nd. The president was in the chair and the meeting opened by repeating the Club Women's Creed in unison. It was decided to send $5.00 to the Spitfire Fund. It was moved and seconded that the delegates expenses to the annual convention be paid. It was decided to hold the institute picnic at Westview Lodge, Darrach. Members were invited to the home of Mrs. Reshald Rogers for next meeting. Lunch committee appointed were Mrs. MacPherson, sandwiches and Mrs. Sutherland, journal.

Seven Questions of the World

These are some of the major questions the world ponders as the war approaches the fourth year.

Must Report Over Two Weeks' Supply of Tea or Coffee

OTTAWA, Aug. 5 (CP)—Persons with more than two weeks' supply of tea or coffee on hand when the new rationing regulations became effective Aug. 3 must report their total quantity to the nearest ration office, the Wartime Prices and Trade Board said today, along with coupons to cover the difference between the amount on hand and the amount allowed under rationing regulations.

If the coupon value of the surplus exceeds the coupons attached to the temporary ration cards of all members of the household more than 12 years of age, the report should contain an undertaking to surrender the appropriate number of additional coupons when received, the board said.

Tonight's order, applying to any consumer, boarding-house operator and persons more than 12 years old, obligates persons holding two ration cards to return one of them immediately.

IRISH SANTA CLAUS

LIMAVADY, Northern Ireland (CP)—John Lynd, a blacksmith so long children that he left part of his life savings of $6,000 to provide an annual tea for them at Christmas.

INDIANS GIVE RUBBER

Indians of Canada's far North are playing their part in the National Salvage drive. Their principal contribution so far has been old rubbers.

As soon as the oven is cool enough clean up any fat over burned food. This will help prevent stale odors. Leave the door open until oven is well dried and aired. A well-cared-for oven will do efficient work.

Navy taffeta with pink embroidered dots is another variation of the dressy afternoon type, with "visor" peplum at front only. Coral necklace, flower hat, and navy taffeta gloves complete the costume.

An ingenious orchid crepe dinner gown is tied at the neck and about the waistline with gold sequins. The buttons are sequins, too. The dress is delightfully plain at front, the deep square décolletage, at back adds slightly to its informality. It's a formal, informal dress to take the character of the wearer. The skirt drips fullness from the hips.

104 Magdalen Islanders Go To New Home

MONCTON, N. B., Aug. 5—A second party of Magdalen Islanders is being transplanted to Northern Quebec to be settled on land in the Abitibi district. The party which numbers 104 and includes thirteen families passed through Moncton today via the Canadian National Railways enroute to Lasarac, Que., via Quebec City. The largest family in the group is that of Avila Tudey in which there are twelve children. The average size of each family is eight children. A similar sized party moved from the Magdalen Islands to the Abitibi District of Quebec where they are reported as making satisfactory progress.

Most of the women and children have never seen a train. Several of the men have worked in the lumber woods on the mainland during the winter season and others have been employed as stevedores in eastern Canadian ports.

Due to economic reasons it was decided to transplant some of the surplus population of the Magdalen Islands to Quebec under a colonization project which is the responsibility of the Quebec government and in which the Colonization National Railways is cooperating.

Accompanying the party is Eugene Gagne, chief of settlement branch and R. Dorval, home investigator of the Provincial Colonization Department, Quebec, along with Miss Dolores Delaney, nurse employed by the Colonization Department of the Quebec government. They are native of the Magdalen Islands, and C. E. Couture representative of the Colonization Department of the Canadian National Railways, Montreal.

TO SURRENDER JEWS?

LONDON, Aug. 5 (CP)—Fighting French headquarters tonight reported receipt of word through underground channels that Pierre Laval, chief of government, had agreed to Germany all Jews of "so-called foreign origin" in occupied France and 10,000 Jews from the unoccupied area.

WOODSTOCK, N. B., Aug. 5 (CP)—Billie Fortune, two and a half-year-old son of Pte. John William Fortune, now overseas with the Canadian army, and Mrs. Fortune of Grafton, was burned to death when fire destroyed the home of Mr. and Mrs. John MacLaughlin at Grafton. The child's mother suffered bad burns. The fire was attributed to children playing with matches.

These Are the Allied Bomber Targets in Germany

Already heavily raided or potential targets of British and American bombers in the round-the-clock summer air campaign are these key industrial sites and bases of western Germany.
