DRUGGISTS INVENT HYGIENIC WALTZ.

A bacillus grasped a germ by the waist,
And they did a toxin fling
While a plump little animalculus
Played a creepy, woozy thing.
The light burned low and the heavy breath
From a censor they danced was the mortuary hug
At the pharmaceutical ball.

The hygenic waltz was demonstrated in the perfumed atmosphere of the National Pharmaceutical Society an organization of drug clerks, at the Amsterdam Opera House, No. 334 West Forty-Fourth Street, last night, and it lived up to its name. Any germ to become transmitted from one dancer to another in this new form of the art would have to have the jumping powers of an athlete for the dancers at no time were within less than two feet of each other. All around the ballroom the fair demonstrator waltzed with her companion following after, just about to reach her, but even an arm's distance away.

It was a graceful thing to behold, and the two thousand couples who attended the ball looked on in admiration and astonishment. But after it had been demonstrated according to the program, no one attempted to repeat it.

The hygienic waltz was demonstrated by Miss Nora Cretan and L. N. Bliss, an attorney. The society will ask Dr. Wiley to issue a serial number for it under the pure food and drugs act.

Another feature of the pharmaceutical ball was the "hygienic kisser," a contrivance which was distributed to each couple attending. The "kisser" consisted of an oval hoop of wire across which was stretched a thin medicated gauge. It was guaranteed to kill all microbes but the love microbe—the amococcus—and those who received it were admonished to use it at their own discretion.

These members of the State Board of Pharmacy were present at the ball: Dr. W. C. Davidson, J. L. Lascoff and John R. Wall.

Wightman for training the children. She replied by saying it was a work of love, as the children responded so willingly to the training it was only a pleasure to teach them.*

ASKED HER DRUGGIST TO GIVE HER SOMETHING.

She Had a Bad Cold, So He Recommemded

Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup.

Mrs. James Warren, Edmonton, Alta., writes:—"Just a few words in favor of your Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup. A short time ago I contracted a bad cold, and tried several remedies, but had no good results. I asked my druggist to give me some good cough medicine he could recommend, so he told me to try Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup, and I can safely say I have never tried anything like it. The first dose gave me relief, and I was completely cured of my cough before I had finished one bottle. It is the best cough remedy I have ever tried, and I can recommend it to everyone."

Obstinate coughs and colds yield to the grateful, soothing action of Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup.

It is a remedy without an equal for coughs, colds, bronchitis, and all affection of the throat or lungs.

Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup is put up in a yellow wrapper; three pine trees the trade mark; price 25 cents.

MISS KELLERMANN IS TIRED OF BEING "THE DIVING VENUS."

NEW YORK, April 5—Annette Kellermann, variously called "The Diving Venus" and "The Perfect Woman," sailed aboard the Adriatic. In London she will appear in a dancing and singing specialty, and will swim only occasionally. She went aboard the steamship garbed in a green gown that clung to her figure from shoulder to ankle, a green bonnet with streamers of the same color, a white pony coat and cream-colored kid shoes, the whole set off by a large bouquet of pink roses. She begged that no one refer to her any more as the "Diving Venus," for she wanted to do something besides swim to please the public. Neither did she wish to be known as "the perfect woman."

"MY STOMACH IS FINE"

Since Taking Na-Dru-Co Dyspepsia Tablets"

Mrs. J. Merkhuger, Waterloo, Ont., enthusiastically recommends Na-Dru-Co Dyspepsia Tablets. Her experience with them, as she outlines it, explains why.

"I was greatly troubled with my stomach", she writes. "I had taken so much medicine that I might say to take any more would only be making it worse. My stomach just felt raw. I read of Na-Dru-Co Dyspepsia Tablets, and a lady friend told me they were very easy to take, so I thought I would give them a trial and really they worked wonders. Anyone having anything wrong with his stomach should give Na-Dru-Co Dyspepsia Tablets a trial, they will do the rest. My stomach is fine now and I can eat any food."

One of the many good features of Na-Dru-Co Dyspepsia Tablets is that they are so pleasant and easy to take. The relief they give from heartburn, flatulence, biliousness and dyspepsia is prompt and permanent. Try one after each meal—they'll make you feel like a new person.

HUGE OVERSEA TRAFFIC.

There is now prevailing, and in fact has been prevailing for many months, and is likely to continue for many more a most curious commercial phenomenon which economists analyze as one of the pronounced symptoms of recovery from sustained depression, that is the tremendous oversea interchange of the world's goods. The increase in the volume of shipping between the ports of all nations has grown to proportions without precedent in the history of commerce, says the Iron Trade Review.

More and larger ships are carrying goods upon the high seas today than have ever been so engaged. The demand for cargo space of any character is too great for comparison with any other period, and the rate for the transport of freight from country to country or from different ports in the same country are at record figures. Vessels for time charter are very scarce. For the ship broker the period is one of stress and for the ship owner it is the best season in history.

There has never been such a period of maritime activity hitherto. Economists show that in 1881 and in 1896 similar movements were experienced, but nothing in volume comparable to the present. In 1896, following the long period of depression which started in 1893, vessels began to move goods freely, though corresponding activity on land was somewhat later in arriving.

The economist points to this movement as the surest harbinger of a general commercial revival of a permanent character. If general prosperity follows in corresponding proportions to the movement of ocean goods the world is booked for a wonderful revival. Ship brokers are frank to say that they have never seen a condition remotely resembling the present one, and there is no one in the business old enough to remember any comparable state of affairs. The improvement was noticeable as early as September, 1910, but it was not until 1911 was well upon its way that it reached an extraordinary volume. The astonishing thing about it is that it is constantly growing, each succeeding month since September, 1910, being greater than its predecessor, until at the present time the movement is simply stupendous.

Nor is the movement localized. Cargo space is just as difficult to get in the Far East as it is in New York. It is quite as notable in Australia as it is in Great Britain. Ships are in demand everywhere. The volume of freight moved is estimated as being three times that following the period of revival which began in 1881. Not only are more ships employed, but the ships are larger and faster. As for the ship owner, in the coastwise trade of the United States, he is reaping his harvest. Ships that a year ago could be chartered for $6,000 a month now demand $10,000 and are getting it. Notwithstanding the volume the ships appear to be handling the freight promptly, congestion being reported only from Panama, where the dock facilities are absurdly inadequate to the freight offered for transit.

Meanwhile the ship yards are filling up with orders and some of the yards on the Atlantic seaboard cannot promise delivery under two years.

WIRELESS RECORD BROKEN

All records for wireless telegraphy were broken last Saturday when the New York Times exchange messages with London in the remarkable time of ten minutes during the course of a dinner given in the Tower Hall of the Times building to Signor Guglielmo Marconi, inventor of wireless telegraphy.

For the past three months the Times has been receiving practically all of its foreign service by wireless, the messages being sent over land lines from London to Clifden, Ireland, thence by wireless to Glace Bay, Nova Scotia, where they are transmitted direct to the Times office over land lines. The best record for these messages up to last Saturday was fifty-five minutes. —Editor & Publisher.
