WOLVES PLENTIFUL IN MANITOBA

LA PAS, Man., Jan. 1.—Wolves are very plentiful in the north country this winter and are roaming around in bands of from 30 to 40 according to T. H. P. Lamb, the Moose Lake trader. Mr. Lamb interviewed the provincial authorities last spring to suggest a special bounty for the destruction of wolves, and is now again urging the importance of such a measure, which he declares is required immediately for the protection of the moose which form the greater part of the Indians' supply of meat, and for the protection of travellers in the district.

Mr. Lamb says that the fur business is good, but the trade in fish is rather light. This is ascribed to the fact that the camps are always placed in the same spots, and the fish go to other points in the lakes to breed undisturbed. He reports that the dog trails between Moose Lake and Le Pas are good, but not quite safe enough for horse yet.

RESCUES TWO BOYS SINKS WITH THIRD

NEW YORK, Jan. 2.—After saving two boys from death by dragging them from a great hole in the ice of Indian Lake, in Crotona Park, Maurice Berger, who was celebrating his birthday, yesterday lost his life in his vain effort to save another boy. More than a thousand persons, most of them children, saw him drown.

The ice of Indian Lake was dotted with signs of "Danger, keep off!" when a boy, threw the child Herman Zwisigum, the Bronx, far out upon the ice. There was an immediate scramble of other boys in the same group to retrieve the cap. A dozen of them were almost a hundred feet from the shore of the lake, which is a mile and a half in circumference, when their combined weight caused the ice to crack and then sink.

All but four safely scampered for the shore. Berger, who was celebrating the twenty-second anniversary of his birth, was walking around the lake with a friend, when he heard the ice crack and the screams of the children. Throwing off his overcoat Berger ran out on the ice until he felt it soft and give under his weight. Then he stretched himself out on his stomach and crawled and wiggled to the edge of the whole in which the children were struggling.

He first reached the boy whose name was not learned by the police and who was a stranger to the other boys. Berger cautiously drew him upon the treacherous ice and then slid backwards with him to the shore. The screams of the children in the water and of those on the shore had attracted more than a thousand persons. Berger again crawled out to the ice hole, and this time he returned with "Fiddle" Faxon, who was sinking when he reached him in this manner.

FIVE MUST DIE IN CHAIR

ALBANY, N. Y., Jan. 1.—Five murderers must die as a result of decisions handed down by the Court of Appeals to-day. The court upheld convictions in the following cases: Donato Cardillo, who killed Stephen H. Dickson at Ossining, April 7, 1912.

Frederick A. Poulin, who murdered Charles Leonard in Rensselaer county, August 6, 1911.

Joseph Galario, who killed his wife near Patchogue, July 10, 1910.

George Blaup, murderer of Mrs. Margaret Bell in New York, October 18, 1912.

James Roberts, who was found guilty of killing Isaac Vogel, a jewelry peddler, in New York, December 6, 1911.

SMUGGLING CHINAMEN

WINDSOR, Jan. 2.—That there are from six to fifteen Chinese smuggled across the river from Windsor to Detroit nearly every dark night, was declared by a Windsor man convicted recently of smuggling Orientals.

Kennedy Baker, a youth now awaiting sentence in Detroit for trying to bring Chinese across on the guard rail of a ferry, in agreeing adds: "The game is too profitable to be abandoned by those who make an easy living by it. Any Chinese anxious to get into the United States will give from $100 to $500 to be smuggled across. The work is easy, in most cases, and all a smuggler needs is nerve, and all a smuggler needs is nerve."

The Detroit river tunnel is a favorite method of transporting Chinese across the border. The Chinese are sealed in freight cars and shipped across in trains from Canada. Confederates release them at the point where the car is scheduled for delivery.

It is the belief of the authorities that many railroad employes are in league with the leaders of the various Canadian smuggling gangs and receive profitable rackets by closing their eyes to what is going on in the railroad yards at night.

As soon as he landed "Teddy" the young man, who recently was a cavalry trooper, crawled back over the ice for the one remaining lad. Berger's strength was failing. This could be seen from shore as his legs and arms did not have the strength to propel him over the ice as when he saved the other boys. But he kept on until he reached the ice hole.

Hyman Abel was clinging to a cake of ice far from the edge of the hole. He was afraid to let go and swim. The water was not more than five feet deep. When Berger's coaxings failed he plunged in and swam to the boy who immediately threw his arm about Berger's neck in what proved to be a death embrace for both. Berger was too weak to throw him off and both went down.

The crowd on shore held its breath. There was an intense silence for minutes Berger and Hyman Abel did not reappear. Then Eugene S. Bossmann, and George Baratta launched a boat through the thin ice and quickly found the bodies, still with the little boy's arms tightly wound about Berger's neck, apparently choking him.

IN MEMORIAM

Lines written in memory of Mrs. William M. Ward, who departed this life Oct. 26, 1912, at Upton Dundas, Prince Edward Island, Canada.

Once again our hearts are saddened. Once again we bow the head. O're the form of our departed. Numbered with the silent dead.

In the morning's quiet stillness, Just beyond the purled dawn She had calmly, joyfully awakened, Into the eternal morn'.

Through the darkened vale of sorrow Where the ransomed hosts have trod She has passed to realms of glory, To her Saviour, and her God.

Oh, the rapture of the meeting With the loved ones gone before, Where, there is no death, or parting On that bright celestial shore.

Faithful to her earthly duties, True until her course was run, She had heard her Saviour whisper Enter in. Thou hast well done.

Now amid the Solents of glory, And with loved ones gone before, She is resting from her labors And shall rest for ever more.

MEFI. No more sorrow, no more sighing, state whether the item is to appear

All her tears are wiped away— There, there is no morn or evening, But one long and blissful day.

Grant O Lord, that we may follow In the path of faith and prayer, Then when we shall hear the summons, Joyfully go and meet her there.

L. W. WARD, The Retreat, Haverhill, Mass.

ALWAYS CONSULT THE PHONE DIRECTORY.

Almost every day The Guardian receives orders by mail to insert new matter of an advertising nature. In most of these cases the senders, who are frequently not known to any member of the staff and who have no account in the advertising department, writes "Please insert the following and oblige," thus apparently implying that they think the items will be inserted free. Only a few weeks ago a reader wrote asking that his advertisement of Farm for Sale be inserted free from day to day until he cancelled it, as he is a subscriber to the Guardian. In this connection it may be said that the subscription price is not sufficient to even pay the actual cost of paper, ink, presswork, mailing, bookkeeping and other expenses of the Circulation department proper, and thus subscribers have no privilege of free advertising and are on the same footing as non-subscribers. Seldom ever does the sender state whether the item is to appear in the Morning Daily or in the Evening Daily, whether for one or more times in either Daily, or in both, whether as a display advertisement, announcement, business local, classified ad or charitable purpose. When for church or charitable purposes they seldom ever say so, or do not enclose sufficient money to pay for same, all of which will be returned by first mail in the event of the item not being chargeable, or if more money is sent than necessary to pay for the item the surplus will be returned at once, there being a greater discount for cash with order for advertising of churches & than for regular business. In all such cases the Advertising department communicates with the sender as quickly as possible by mail or phone, often paying the messenger's service to get them to the telephone if not too far distant, thus saving all possible time. People write this office to know if News, Letters to Editor, etc., are charged for, and to all such there is but one reply—all items etc., of a money making nature, even though they be somewhat of a news nature, are chargeable. For instance, the advance notice or notices of a concert, lecture, pie social, picnic, etc., are chargeable if there is an admission fee, silver collection, sale of pies or sale of food or refreshments, etc. Advance notices of purely religious services are chargeable. For instance, a silver collection is to be taken up, are not chargeable. The particulars of any of the above, after they have been held, are, however, news and thus not chargeable. The news of any past, present or future business, which is still being conducted, is chargeable, if it is apparent that the object is to make the business more widely known, or thus increase it. Veres accomplishments death notices are also chargeable. Even items which are actual news and not chargeable but once in either Morning Daily or Evening Daily one insertion, as they are thus not news.

The above facts are given for the purpose of assisting persons who have items, etc., to mail to this office, so that delay and disappointment will be avoided.
