

Have You Thought of Your Liver

When your head is heavy, have you ever stopped to think that it might be the result of a torpid, lazy liver. The next time you are troubled in this way, try two teaspoonfuls of

Foster's Liver Saline

in a half glass of water and drink just before breakfast. This will work wonders for you without any harmful effects.
35c large bottle.

E. A. Foster

CENTRAL DRUGSTORE

You Need Not Worry About Chapped Skin

If you are one of those who use

British Almond Pink

This is an excellent lotion delicately perfumed and keeps the skin smooth and free from wind burn and sun. It dries quickly without sensation of stickiness.

It dries quickly without sensation of stickiness.
25c bottle.

The Central Guardian

IT PAYS to buy in this Province.

ST. PAUL'S CHURCH.—It is expected that the Rev. Dr. John Antle, of the Coast Mission, will be the special preacher in St. Paul's Church, on Sunday morning. Dr. Antle is famed for his work among seamen and lumbermen of the Pacific Coast.

ST. PETER'S CATHEDRAL.—Rev. John Antle of the Columbia Coast Mission will preach in St. Peter's Cathedral tomorrow, Sunday evening.

PERSONALS

Mr. H. H. Acorn, Souris, was in the City yesterday.

Captain Belyea, City, has returned from a trip to Halifax.

Mr. Walter Lea, M. L. A., went to St. Peter's on business yesterday.

Mr. John Walker, Cape Traverse spent Sunday in Victoria the guest of Mr. Wesley Myres.

Messrs Gordon Harvey and T. B. Gillespie, Cape Traverse are spending a few days in the city.

Misses Annie and Florence Jordan of Murray Harbor have returned from a trip to Boston.

Mr. George Williams has arrived from New Glasgow, N. S., to spend a few days at his home in Charlotte town.

Many friends of Mr. Frank E. Martin, who was confined to his home with second attack of la grippe.

Q.—And you say he is one of those causing trouble, and yet he is in this petition. You are getting the man to commit himself.

A.—Well, he is at liberty to deny it. I sometimes feel sorry for involving him in it. It is only damaging him, I am sure he would not like to hear that.

Q.—This original letter was headed "Hon. J. J. Johnston, M. P. P." The new one is headed "Hon. Mr. Bell and the members of the Liberal Party of P. E. Island." Who changed that?

A.—I was specially told to copy that. I admit that.

Q.—Did Mr. Johnston tell you to leave his name out and put the other?

A.—Well, I must admit that, Mr. Bell.

Q.—Never mind Mr. Bell. You are on your oath. Answer me. Never mind Mr. Bell or anybody else. Tell the truth.

Q.—Would it do to say—

Q.—I will do to say the truth. Who directed you to leave Mr. Johnston's name out?

A.—Someone directed me.

Q.—Was it Mr. Johnston?

A.—It was Mr. Johnston.

Q.—Did he write the change on a piece of paper?

A.—He did not write it.

Q.—Did he dictate it?

A.—He dictated it in that way.

Q.—While you were in the office?

A.—While in the office.

Q.—Did you go into Charlottetown in March?

A.—I got in by the ice, I was able to get in.

Q.—Did you tell anybody where you were going?

A.—Exactly. I certainly did.

Q.—Where did you say you were going?

A.—I asked permission of the supervisor to go to town. There were services in the Church at that time.

Q.—The services came in handy?

T.—They do come in handy.

Q.—You went to service?

A.—By people attending their services occasionally, it helps to make a success of an undertaking of this kind.

Q.—Did you make any of those crosses opposite those names on the petition? Consider what you say.

A.—The persons whose names those marks are made opposite, they were a lot of them feeble and shaky about stupid.

Q.—Those crosses are all exactly alike as if they were made by the same man.

A.—My hand was controlling the hands of those that made it.

Several of them could not hold the pen. Where there's a will there's a way.

Q.—How many of those people did you read the document to?

A.—None at all.

Q.—And then you took it to Mr. Johnston. What did he do? What did he say?

A.—He said he would submit it that afternoon to the Opposition members; certainly not to the Government members.

Q.—This had rather a political cast, the first letter until Mr. Johnston changed it?

A.—It was political. It was reflecting on the Government members.

Q.—You say here: "We understand Dr. Goodwill was a Liberal and that fact may have some bearing on the matter."

A.—It is a pity to have produced that letter at all. I will be stamped as a Liberal after this. That was not the document submitted by Mr. Hughes.

Q.—Do you know where Mr. Hughes got the document?

A.—I have an idea. We have it from the paper that Mr. Hughes said the document was placed in his hands. I am able to read the Patriot I read all the proceeding in the House. He said it was placed in his hands. I don't know who placed it.

Q.—Campbell is one of those mentioned in the petition?

A.—Yes.

Q.—Then you were two old men paying attention to her.

A.—Webster was giving her candy and so were you, and you were a bit jealous of Webster. You would like to get her affections yourself?

A.—Or perhaps he might be jealous of me.

Mr. McKinnon proceeded to examine the witness in regard to the writing of the petition, as follows:

Q.—Come down to the document now. You don't mean to say you made that up yourself without assistance?

A.—Well, it was directed to— Mr. Johnston. Did he compose it? Is that your question? I say Mr. Johnston had nothing at all to do with it.

Q.—Who made the composition, yourself?

A.—Yes; I felt I was equal to the task of putting it together.

Q.—It is very well put together. It is no discredit to any man.

A.—Well, it is without assistance from any man. It is quite private. I never showed it to anybody till I handed it to him.

Q.—Didn't you show it to anybody here at all before handing it to Mr. Johnston?

A.—Not at all. I was to keep it quite secret. I was not inclined to let others know what was going on. I intended to keep it secret.

Q.—Didn't you give any of the other inmates any inkling of what was in it at all?

A.—I wrote that in October in the fall and submitted that on Christmas.

Q.—And between October and Christmas didn't you go over with anybody?

A.—No sir. I had that in a secure place. No one ever looked at it. I had it enclosed in an envelope directed to Mr. Johnston and no one saw the contents of that letter until Mr. Johnston saw it.

Q.—It was presented to Mr. Johnston?

A.—Yes; it was submitted to Mr. Johnston.

Q.—When—in December?

A.—At Christmas.

Q.—Who submitted it to him?

A.—I went to his office with it myself.

Q.—Weren't you talking to different men in the institution, trying to influence men to do something against the institution for a long time?

A.—I tried to persuade some of them on some occasions to seek redress.

Q.—This document was given to Mr. Johnston, and those people whose names are here never saw the letter until it went to Mr. Johnston's hands?

A.—Exactly. I will hold to that, I won't deny that.

Q.—And you put all those names on it yourself; not one of them put their names to it? You put them all yourself?

A.—I admit that instantly.

Q.—When you went to Charlotte town did they know where you had gone—those in the institution?

A.—Yes. They knew I went to the Christmas services.

Q.—That was what you told as an excuse?

A.—It was more than an excuse, for I was really there. It was a good excuse.

Q.—Then you went from there to Mr. Johnston's office?

A.—The following day.

Q.—I suppose Mr. Johnston read this over?

A.—He read every word.

Q.—And this portion here was scored out. Who did the scoring out?

A.—Mr. Johnston himself.

Q.—With his own pencil?

A.—Yes.

Q.—This original letter was headed "Hon. J. J. Johnston, M. P. P." The new one is headed "Hon. Mr. Bell and the members of the Liberal Party of P. E. Island." Who changed that?

A.—I was specially told to copy that. I admit that.

Q.—Did Mr. Johnston tell you to leave his name out and put the other?

A.—Well, I must admit that, Mr. Bell.

Q.—Never mind Mr. Bell. You are on your oath. Answer me. Never mind Mr. Bell or anybody else. Tell the truth.

Q.—Would it do to say—

Q.—I will do to say the truth. Who directed you to leave Mr. Johnston's name out?

A.—Someone directed me.

Q.—Was it Mr. Johnston?

A.—It was Mr. Johnston.

Q.—Did he write the change on a piece of paper?

A.—He did not write it.

Q.—Did he dictate it?

A.—He dictated it in that way.

Q.—While you were in the office?

A.—While in the office.

Q.—Did you go into Charlottetown in March?

A.—I got in by the ice, I was able to get in.

Q.—Did you tell anybody where you were going?

A.—Exactly. I certainly did.

Q.—Where did you say you were going?

A.—I asked permission of the supervisor to go to town. There were services in the Church at that time.

Q.—The services came in handy?

T.—They do come in handy.

Q.—You went to service?

A.—By people attending their services occasionally, it helps to make a success of an undertaking of this kind.

Q.—Did you make any of those crosses opposite those names on the petition? Consider what you say.

A.—The persons whose names those marks are made opposite, they were a lot of them feeble and shaky about stupid.

Q.—Those crosses are all exactly alike as if they were made by the same man.

A.—My hand was controlling the hands of those that made it.

Several of them could not hold the pen. Where there's a will there's a way.

Q.—How many of those people did you read the document to?

A.—None at all.

Q.—And then you took it to Mr. Johnston. What did he do? What did he say?

A.—He said he would submit it that afternoon to the Opposition members; certainly not to the Government members.

Q.—This had rather a political cast, the first letter until Mr. Johnston changed it?

A.—It was political. It was reflecting on the Government members.

Q.—You say here: "We understand Dr. Goodwill was a Liberal and that fact may have some bearing on the matter."

A.—It is a pity to have produced that letter at all. I will be stamped as a Liberal after this. That was not the document submitted by Mr. Hughes.

Q.—Do you know where Mr. Hughes got the document?

A.—I have an idea. We have it from the paper that Mr. Hughes said the document was placed in his hands. I am able to read the Patriot I read all the proceeding in the House. He said it was placed in his hands. I don't know who placed it.

Q.—Campbell is one of those mentioned in the petition?

A.—Yes.

Q.—Then you were two old men paying attention to her.

A.—Webster was giving her candy and so were you, and you were a bit jealous of Webster. You would like to get her affections yourself?

A.—Or perhaps he might be jealous of me.

Mr. McKinnon proceeded to examine the witness in regard to the writing of the petition, as follows:

Q.—Come down to the document now. You don't mean to say you made that up yourself without assistance?

A.—Well, it was directed to— Mr. Johnston. Did he compose it? Is that your question? I say Mr. Johnston had nothing at all to do with it.

Q.—Who made the composition, yourself?

A.—Yes; I felt I was equal to the task of putting it together.

Q.—It is very well put together. It is no discredit to any man.

A.—Well, it is without assistance from any man. It is quite private. I never showed it to anybody till I handed it to him.

Q.—Didn't you show it to anybody here at all before handing it to Mr. Johnston?

A.—Not at all. I was to keep it quite secret. I was not inclined to let others know what was going on. I intended to keep it secret.

Q.—Didn't you give any of the other inmates any inkling of what was in it at all?

A.—I wrote that in October in the fall and submitted that on Christmas.

Q.—And between October and Christmas didn't you go over with anybody?

A.—No sir. I had that in a secure place. No one ever looked at it. I had it enclosed in an envelope directed to Mr. Johnston and no one saw the contents of that letter until Mr. Johnston saw it.

Q.—It was presented to Mr. Johnston?

A.—Yes; it was submitted to Mr. Johnston.

Q.—When—in December?

A.—At Christmas.

Q.—Who submitted it to him?

A.—I went to his office with it myself.

There was an objection by Mr. self.

There was an objection by Mr. self.

There was an objection by Mr. self.

There was an objection by Mr. self.

There was an objection by Mr. self.

There was an objection by Mr. self.

There was an objection by Mr. self.

There was an objection by Mr. self.

There was an objection by Mr. self.

There was an objection by Mr. self.

There was an objection by Mr. self.

There was an objection by Mr. self.

There was an objection by Mr. self.

There was an objection by Mr. self.

There was an objection by Mr. self.

There was an objection by Mr. self.

There was an objection by Mr. self.

There was an objection by Mr. self.

There was an objection by Mr. self.

There was an objection by Mr. self.

There was an objection by Mr. self.

There was an objection by Mr. self.

There was an objection by Mr. self.

There was an objection by Mr. self.

There was an objection by Mr. self.

There was an objection by Mr. self.

There was an objection by Mr. self.

There was an objection by Mr. self.

There was an objection by Mr. self.

There was an objection by Mr. self.

There was an objection by Mr. self.

There was an objection by Mr. self.

There was an objection by Mr. self.

There was an objection by Mr. self.

There was an objection by Mr. self.

There was an objection by Mr. self.

There was an objection by Mr. self.

There was an objection by Mr. self.

There was an objection by Mr. self.

There was an objection by Mr. self.

There was an objection by Mr. self.

There was an objection by Mr. self.

There was an objection by Mr. self.

There was an objection by Mr. self.

There was an objection by Mr. self.

There was an objection by Mr. self.

There was an objection by Mr. self.

There was an objection by Mr. self.

There was an objection by Mr. self.

There was an objection by Mr. self.

There was an objection by Mr. self.

There was an objection by Mr. self.

There was an objection by Mr. self.

There was an objection by Mr. self.

There was an objection by Mr. self.

There was an objection by Mr. self.

There was an objection by Mr. self.

There was an objection by Mr. self.

There was an objection by Mr. self.

There was an objection by Mr. self.

There was an objection by Mr. self.

There was an objection by Mr. self.

There was an objection by Mr. self.

There was an objection by Mr. self.

There was an objection by Mr. self.

There was an objection by Mr. self.

There was an objection by Mr. self.

There was an objection by Mr. self.

There was an objection by Mr. self.

There was an objection by Mr. self.

There was an objection by Mr. self.

There was an objection by Mr. self.

There was an objection by Mr. self.

There was an objection by Mr. self.

There was an objection by Mr. self.

There was an objection by Mr. self.

There was an objection by Mr. self.