Joan Crawford in "I Live My Life" At Prince Edward

Joan Crawford brings a new kind of picture as well as a new leading man to the Prince Edward Theatre yesterday with her new Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer production, "I Live My Life."

He's Hard-Bolled Aherne is an archeologist in "I Live My Life," as hard-bolled and city-biting as they come.

Supporting the leading players is a superb cast. Frank Morgan is at his fumbling, mumbly best as the well-meaning father.

Remember SANTA CLAUS HEADQUARTERS For over FORTY YEARS SANTA CLAUS has made his HEADQUARTERS at CARTER'S TOY and FANCY GOODS STORE, and there will be no exception this year.

There is only one REAL GENUINE SANTA CLAUS, and he will not be coming along a month or six weeks ahead of his usual time.

We are open for business and would strongly advise the public to make their selections at our store as early as possible.

New Trade Pacts Seen as Riddle To U.S. Leaders Time Will Tell, is General Attitude Toward Working Out of Reciprocity From Across the Border Viewpoint

WASHINGTON, Dec. 1—(A.P.)—The new Canadian trade treaty has some of the wisest United States politicians completely stumped. The agreement is far more technical and involves a far greater number of commodities than has been expected generally.

Advance reports were that much political dynamite was wrapped up in the treaty provisions. That still may be true; but it will require the burning out of a delayed fuse to disclose how great the explosion will be.

If the aggregate of trade with Canada increases materially, and no particular group in this country is damaged seriously in the process, Democratic spellbinders may be expected to put the treaty high on their "pointing-wide-pride" list in the 1936 campaign.

It things go wrong, however, if recovery falters and certain classes think their troubles are tied up with their sweeping revision of American trade policy, then there will be plenty of "viewing-with-alarm" among the Republicans.

One of the complications is that the first adverse criticism has come from those sections where Mr. Roosevelt is strongest politically. Various western and northwestern farm leaders and lumber men voice concern over the prospect of increased imports of Canadian timber and agricultural commodities, including cattle and dairy products.

In calculating the net political reaction, however, it must be remembered that the west and northwest also will be reminded by the Democrats of other Roosevelt policies during the coming campaign. It also is possible that Democratic leaders may be able to link together in the public mind the trade treaty and the unratified St. Lawrence waterway treaty.

And it is worth noting that when the waterway treaty failed of ratification last session, it drew its chief support, regardless of party lines, from the west and northwest. Conversely, much of the Republican caution doubtless is traceable to the fact that the trade agreement has been accepted with such equanimity in those quarters where Republicans hope for 1936 as highest. Some of the largest manufacturing industries, centring in the east, see possible benefits from the lowering of Canadian import duties against shipments from the United States.

Altogether, it is a scrambled picture politically. Herbert Hoover, former president, has condemned the treaty unhesitatingly, but most of the others who have been mentioned as possible Republican candidates for president have chosen to wait.

Five rivers of blazing lava surged down the slopes of Mauna Loa in one of Hawaii's most spectacular volcanic eruptions in years. One standing stream a mile wide became for a time a potential menace to this city of 20,000. The tremendous activity later appeared to die down. The photo shows lava pouring down the mountain side in a previous eruption. The volcanic disturbance creates a scene of magnificent color and brilliance which attracts many tourists.
