ENGLISH SWIMMER CROSSES THE CHANNEL

DEAL, England, Sept. 6—After a lapse of 36 years, Captain Matthew Webb's feat of swimming the English channel has been duplicated by William T. Burgess, a Yorkshireman by birth and a naturalized Frenchman. It was Burgess' sixteenth attempt, he having first essayed the task in 1904. Burgess started from South Foreland, Dover, at 11.15 o'clock on Tuesday morning. He landed at Lechat-elet, a little village two miles east of cape Griz Nez, at 9.50 o'clock this morning, accomplishing the passage in 22 hours and 35 minutes. A motor boat accompanied the swimmer, and it is estimated Burgess, owing to the zigzag course he was compelled to take because of the baffling tides, covered sixty miles. Soon after the start a dense fog settled down over the channel and no further tidings of his progress were received until the announcement was made that he had successfully accomplished the task and landed on the French coast.

CALM SEA AND HEAVY CURRENTS.

Throughout the trip Burgess was favored by a calm sea, but a strong tide was running and a severe strain was put on the swimmer to get past the Goodwin sands. Twice he was attacked by sickness and several times was only held to his task by the strongest will power and the encouragement of the men on the boat. He remained on French soil just long enough to telegraph word of his success to his wife and partake of refreshments in a bathing box. Then he returned by motor boat to rest and sleep. When he landed at Deal this evening Burgess received a tremendous ovation and with difficulty made his way through the cheering throng to a hotel. Speaking of his great achievement, he said:

TERRIBLE FIGHT WITH ADVERSE CONDITIONS.

"In the time the swim occupied, I should have been able to cross the channel twice, but for the adverse currents. Against these I had a terrific fight and again came within an ace of falling. When approaching Cape Griz Nez, the strong outward set of the current forced me to alter my course three times. I was held up for some time, but when I had rounded the corner I found slack water and then knew that I was assured of success.

"It was just in the slack of the tide that I got in. If I had not managed it then I might have missed it and drifted to Calais. It took three full tides and two part tides to bring me over.

"I was severely stung several times by jelly fish and while in mid channel, after a sick spell, I felt heart-broken. For a while I was delirious, but my pilots began to sing and this gave me fresh courage to persevere."

"It was seven o'clock in the morning when the swimmer sighted Gris Nez semaphore. He was then two miles to the west southwest. In these two miles it was a battle with the currents, but when Burgess got within the water of the cape he swam easily ashore. He stumbled for two or three steps, then walked steadily without assistance. He looked remarkably fresh considering his long immersion.

CUPID SCORES

ANOTHER WIN

MONTREAL, Sept. 6—A wedding which will be learned with interest in New Brunswick, particularly as there is associated with it more than usual hints of romance, took place here today very quietly, when Joseph P. Wood, of Moncton, N. B., was quietly married to Miss Edith Winslow, formerly of Moncton, but more lately of Calgary, Alberta. Mr. Wood, well known throughout the Province as former Captain of the University of New Brunswick track team and all-round athlete of more than usual ability, is assistant engineer in the Government engineering office at Chatham, N. B., where his bride, a daughter of Warren C. Winslow, belongs. The course of true love followed in their case, its usual rather stony course and the engagement of the young couple known to but a few intimate friends did not receive parental sanction. Miss Winslow left last spring for Calgary, yesterday she arrived in Montreal from the far West on route home, and Mr. Wood arrived on the same day. A few hours later the pair were quietly wedded and left last evening for New Brunswick. Miss Winslow this year won the city tennis championship of Calgary and qualified for the finals in the Provincial championship.
