Annual Meeting

P. E. I. Mutual Fire Ins. Co.

The annual meeting of Prince Edward Island Mutual Fire Insurance Company was held Tuesday at the Town Hall in Summerside.

The following are the directors of the company who were all re-elected: Alfred Simpson, St. Eleanor, president; Walter G. MacKenzie, Summerside, vice president; J. Leland Linkletter, Summerside, secretary-treasurer; Oscar Johnson, Summerside, secretary; William MacKay, Charlottetown, R.R. 6; Gregor MacCallum, Brackley Point; Spurgeon Clark, Summerside; Theophilus J. Inman, Central Bedouque; Major A. S. Robertson, Marmad; John Macintosh, Tignish.

The following was the report of the directors: This year's business shows a considerable increase over the combined premiums for the two former companies for the corresponding premium year 1940.

There have been suggestions and ideas from a dozen different quarters in the last couple of years but the main factor has been the insurance commission paid to agents.

There was much in common in the ideas for fuller Dominion participation in British foreign trade and the view set forth by Lord Halifax in his Toronto address.

The full picture of the Empire as a whole was not clear until after the war has not been put together completely yet.

Respectfully submitted this 26th day of January, A.D. 1944, Alfred Simpson, President; J. Leland Linkletter, Secretary; J. P. MacKenzie, Treasurer; J. P. MacKenzie, Secretary; J. P. MacKenzie, Treasurer.

Empire Moves

Towards More Intimate Links

LONDON, Jan. 27.—(CP Cable)—The British Empire is moving to show the world that its vast, separated components can work as intimately in peacetime as in periods of world upheaval.

Somewhere in soundings being made by various leaders there is a blueprint being evolved for programs in which countries of the Empire will play the fullest part yet in the welfare of the world.

The blueprint is likely to take positive shape when the Dominion prime ministers meet in London within the next few months.

The third in a series of Baha'i lectures was given last night at the Queen Hotel when Willard McKay of 279 Richmond Street discussed the topic, "Prayer, Is It Really Answered?"

"Many people," declared the speaker "find it hard to believe that prayer can be effective because it seems to them that we can see the signs and traces of God's spirit in everything."

"Prayer is the most powerful force in the universe," Mr. McKay continued "Some people find it hard to accept this because they are too feeble to do the wonders that are claimed for it. An answer to prayer interferes with the laws of nature. This is not the case if a powerful magnetic force over some of our fillings will rise upward and attach themselves to the magnet. This does not mean that the force of gravity has been set aside, but that a superior force has been applied to the fillings. It is our belief that prayer brings in to action a higher force on which we can rely—although we cannot explain it. The action appears mysterious because of our ignorance."

Sixty seven per cent of the more than 300 million population of India is directly engaged in or dependent on agricultural production, and the country offers vast scope for the development of agricultural co-operative societies.

The main reasons for the slow development of co-operation in agriculture are the lack of organizing ability among agriculturists, lack of sound business management, and in some cases the tendency of the peasant class to cling to traditional methods rather than trust to any new schemes.
