Three Retire From Sask. Commission

(C. F. By Guardian's Special Wire) REGINA, July 17. - Withdrawal of three judges from the Saskatchewan Government Commission appointed to inquire into the relief camp strikers riot here has been announced by Hon. T. C. Davis, Saskatchewan Attorney General. The move was preceded by lengthy correspondence between Chief Justice J. T. Brown of Saskatchewan, one of the appointees, and Hon. Hugh Guthrie, Federal Minister of Justice, over the legality of the inquiry. The other two who withdrew from the three-man commission were Mr. Justice W. M. Martin and Judge A. E. Doak. Mr. Davis' announcement came on the eve of the Commission's scheduled organization meeting starting today in Regina. The public sessions about Aug. 1. The Government, said Mr. Davis, was considering further action regarding an inquiry into the situation which resulted in the Dominion Day riot during which Detective Charles Miller was killed. Mr. Davis quoted correspondence between Mr. Guthrie and Chief Justice Brown in which the former suggested consideration be given to the propriety of judges acting upon such a commission when it was well known many prisoners eventually would be tried before provincial courts on charges arising out of the riot. Chief Justice Brown, in his reply to Mr. Guthrie, pointed out he had served on both Dominion and provincial commissions before. He was, however, unable to secure the consent of the Dominion Minister to proceed with the inquiry and all three members of the Commission asked Mr. Davis to relieve them of their responsibility on the Commission.

Douglas - Miller Wedding

The home of Mr. and Mrs. L. H. Douglas, of Georgetown, was the scene of a pretty wedding Tuesday afternoon, when their daughter, Grace Amanda, became the wife of Mr. William Francis Miller, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. Arthur Miller of Charlottetown. The ceremony was performed by Rev. John Stirling, B.A., pastor of St. David's United Church, Georgetown, in the presence of immediate relatives.

The couple were unattended. The bride, who was given away by her father, looked lovely in a gown of dusky pink lace. She carried a bouquet of Johann Hill roses. Lohengrin's and Mendelssohn's wedding marches were played by Miss Lillian MacKenzie, Mrs. B.A. of Charlottetown, and Miss Margaret Coffin sang the well known "Wedding Selection 'Because'", by "Ardelot". The living room, where the ceremony was performed, was decorated with a profusion of summer flowers, pink roses, peonies and blue arkspur. A buffet supper was served in the dining room, the table decorations being pink and white snapdragon and green tapers. Mrs. Reuben Macdonald poured tea, and Mrs. W. W. MacLaren cut the loaves. Mrs. R. Edgar Lannon, Mrs. Karl Cameron, and the Misses "Blind" Sterns, Muriel Weeks, Ruth Miller, Marion Douglas, Eleanor Leslie, Jean Macdonald and Doris Macdonald assisted in serving. The bride's mother wore crown lace with corsage bouquet of tall-man roses, and the groom's mother wore green lace with corsage bouquet of pink roses. The bride, who was formerly on the teaching staff of Prince Street School, Charlottetown, was entertained with a miscellaneous shower and other functions in her honor prior to her marriage, and both bride and groom received many individual gifts from relatives and friends at home and abroad. The groom's gift to the bride was a fitted travelling case. After the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Miller left on a motor trip to Quebec City and other points, followed by showers of confetti and congratulations.

Odyssey Starts To Arctic Seas (Canadian Press) VANCOUVER, July 17. - Eighty-five foot long, the "Charles Edvard" cleared the port of Vancouver recently to start another odyssey into the Arctic, taking freight to ports along the way en route to her journey's end, Barnard Harbor, far above the Arctic circle. The boat is loaded down to the plims with the four staple trading items: flour, tea, sugar and tobacco. Among her 80 tons of cargo is a dismantled trading post to be erected at Barnard Harbor for a local trading company. Included in the crew are Don McRae, well-known diamond dealer in the Cariboo, and his brother Jack, an ex-Royal Canadian Mounted Police officer. The sturdy vessel is skippered by Captain Frederick L. Coe who took his ticket in the square-rigged sailing ships. The boat is equipped to meet all kinds of ice conditions with her hull wedge shaped to relieve the impact when cruising through icefields. The hull is sheathed with iron bark as an added protection. Internally there are reinforcements to withstand pressure of crashing ice-floes. A special ram has been fitted to her stern to break up obstructing ice. "We'll be in Dutch Harbor in 15 days and from then on there is no definite sailing schedule. The only thing I am sure of is we will have to beat our way around Barrow before the freeze up the last week in September," remarked Captain Coe. A man may suffer without sinning, but a man cannot sin without suffering. Southern Pacific for the coast. In 1884 he arrived in Vancouver again. Russell took a job driving the stage coach between New Westminster and Vancouver then called Gastown. In those early days he was intimate with such pioneer characters as "Gassy" Jack, William Morton and George Black. Eventually he took up land in the Fraser Valley and farmed.

Landed in B.C. By Pirate Ship (Canadian Press) LANGLEY PRAIRIE, B. C., July 17. - Isaac Russell, who was left stranded on the shores of English Bay by a pirate ship in 1860 died here after 90 years of adventurous life, mostly spent on the Pacific coast. A pioneer of the frontier days in British Columbia, Russell had spent the past 10 years with his daughter, Mrs. W. A. Hoskin, of Langley Prairie. For years he lived as a recluse, telling no one of his exploits and shunning notoriety. One summer day in 1860 Isaac Russell, who had run away from his English home to seek adventure, swam ashore from the smuggling ship on which he was cabin boy and waded to the beach of English Bay. He went to sleep on the sands where the present pier stands. "Black Hawk" the captain who was engaged in running illegal liquor to the Indians, set sail hurriedly fearing an attack by government vessels, leaving his cabin boy on the deserted shore. Young Russell was finally picked up by a band of Indians and lived with the natives for two years at False Creek. He learned to speak the language fluently. The lad was found by William H. Rowling cororal in charge of Royal Engineers engaged in making boundary surveys. He took charge of Russell and enabled him to get to San Francisco where he sailed for England. Rowling's son, Henry S. Rowling, and his grandson William Norman Rowling, who are still living in Vancouver, confirmed this episode. But the life in England did not satisfy Isaac Russell's adventurous spirit. In 1862 he crossed the Atlantic a second time to find railway in the United States. He travelled to St. Paul, working at odd jobs, and finally boarded the

No Interest Cut For This Farmer

(By The Canadian Press) PEACE RIVER, Alta., July 17. - A farmer with $1,700 cash in his pockets and a stack of receipts whose name was not disclosed, appeared before the Farmers' Creditors Arrangement Act Board here. In contrast to others who came before the board with empty pockets and stories of exorbitant land prices and interest rates, this farmer said he was satisfied with the high price he agreed to pay when he bought and that he would pay honestly for his short-sightedness. He did not want the interest rate cut or reduction of the purchase price. He produced receipts for doctor bills, taxes, store accounts, gas, and all bills. "They are all paid," he declared, producing $1,700 in bills. "I want you to make a distribution of this money to my land creditors. I will look after my bank loan in the fall." The board members complimented the man for his integrity. "It is evident you are the paying sort and we are gratified to see you blaming yourself and not the rest of the world for your mistake in buying high-priced land."

FARMERS RETURN TO HOMELANDS

SASKATOON, July 17. - With prolonged drought in southern Saskatchewan at an end, farmers who sought new homes in northern areas during lean years are trekking back to abandoned homesteads. Loading effects into old wagons or motor-cars which carried them to the "promised land," many families have decided the old wheat country is better than the lakes and woods and head'd south. Return to the wheat belt has continued all summer.

Golden Wedding Anniversary

An event of unusual interest occurred in Murray Harbour on July 8, 1935, when Mr. and Mrs. William Keeping celebrated their fiftieth wedding anniversary. Upwards of a hundred relatives of the fifty year bride and groom, gathered at their lovely home during the afternoon and, after congratulating the happy couple, participated in outdoor games. The bride and groom were the recipients of many valuable gifts from relatives and friends, who, later in the afternoon, were entertained to a sumptuous repast by their eldest daughter, Olive, in her beautiful summer cottage, "Resthaven" adjoining the parents' home. The decorations, floral and otherwise, were in keeping with the occasion and even nature smiled on the honored and well-beloved couple with a beautiful cloudless sky. Both Mr. and Mrs. Keeping are enjoying good health and fondly hope that they may live to celebrate many more anniversaries of their exceedingly happy union, were voiced by all present.

THE VITAL ISSUE

Before the electors of this Province is an issue in the present election campaign of greater importance than any raised since Confederation. On the decision of this issue will depend the whole future of Prince Edward Island in its financial relations with the Dominion Government.

We refer to the question of subsidy claims settlement on the basis of the minority report of the White Commission. The Liberal party record in the matter of subsidy claims is a total blank. It achieved nothing in the past. It has no policy for the future. Its platform of sixteen planks holds out no hope whatever to the people of this Province.

What is the Conservative record? The door at Ottawa, declared by Laurier to be locked and bolted against further provincial pressure, was opened in 1912 by the Mathieson Government. This Province obtained as a result a subsidy increase, for all time, of $100,000.

Through presentation by the first Stewart Government before the Duncan Commission in 1926, jointly with the other Maritime Provinces, this Province obtained a further annual subsidy increase of $125,000.

Again through co-operation with the other Maritime Provinces, the MacMillan Government last year obtained, through the White Commission, a further subsidy increase of $150,000.

Three subsidy increases, totalling $375,000 annually, obtained by three successive Conservative administrations in this Province. Capitalized at 5 per cent, this represents recognition of our provincial subsidy claims at Ottawa to the extent of $7,500,000.

But this is not all. The Conservative appeal is not based wholly on its record of achievement. That speaks for itself. Its appeal to the electors today is to the future. The first plank in the MacMillan Government platform is: "Having further established our provincial claims against the Dominion Government to the extent of three million dollars, TO CONTINUE TO PRESS FOR A FULL REALIZATION OF OUR CLAIMS ON THE BASIS OF THE MINORITY REPORT OF THE WHITE COMMISSION."

Which Party Government is best capable of achieving this result? That is the issue, the REAL ISSUE, before the electors today.
