An interesting and rugged game took place at the Souris Arena Wednesday, March 14th and after three hectic periods the Souris team were returned victors by the above mentioned score.

A very large crowd was in attendance due to the prospects going towards a very worthy cause, the new hospital.

The third and rubber game is scheduled to take place at the nearest available date depending on weather and should be the best as Lumber Kings took first place 4-3.

The club team speaks very highly of the generosity of the citizens of this sporty Eastern Metropolis.

Post-Mortems On Canadiens Loss To Maple Leafs; Some Admit Might Happen Again

MONTREAL, March 21 (CP)—The post-mortems flew thick and fast around Montreal today, with some National Hockey League fans saying it should never have happened and others conceding that it could happen again.

The subject of discussion, of course, was last night's 3-0 victory of Toronto Maple Leafs over the N. H. L. champion Montreal Canadiens in the first game of their Stanley Cup semi-final series.

The fans who watched Ted Kennedy break up a hard-fought game with a goaled shot that found the net in the final 22 seconds, described the goal variously as a fluke, a break and a gift. Maybe it was all of those things, but it was also a game-winner that put the Leafs on top and that is what is important in the play-off series.

Canadians pinned their hopes on the fact that a team can't be beaten consistently on breaks alone, and the reaction of Leaf supporters to that was "why not?" Those Leafs supporters in Montreal has some pointed out that while their team got a break in the dying seconds, they had made the break an important one by their play preceding 59 minutes and 38 seconds.

Baseball Gets Another Break

WASHINGTON, March 21 (AP)—Baseball got another break today in a decision by the war manpower commission that players may return to the game from off-season employment, such as war plant jobs.

The W.M.C. said in effect, that baseball is the principal business of these men, in most instances, and that they have the right to work at it.

Under this ruling, most players, coaches and managers may leave off-season jobs and return to the diamond without seeking for a certificate of availability or referral card under W.M.C.'s job program.

Byron Nelson Wins Open Golf Tourney

CHARLOTTE, N.C., March 21 (AP)—Byron Nelson won the Charlotte open golf tournament today by defeating Sam Snead four strokes in a second 18-hole play-off—a 4 grip match played before an almost silent gallery of some 300 persons.

Nelson shot a three-under par 69 to clinch his fifth tournament of the winter tour. Snead, with a conceded putt on 18, carded a 75 in a futile effort to record his fourth consecutive tournament victory and his seventh of the tour.

Pacific Veteran Likely To Land Job With Dodgers

By JACK HAND (Associated Press Staff Writer)

BEAR MOUNTAIN, N. Y., March 21 (AP)—Professional athletes in the services may find the answer to some of their own "come-back" problems in the struggle for a Brooklyn Dodgers job of Eimer (Red) Durrett, a discharged marine veteran who spent "too many months" on Guadalcanal.

Recurring attacks of malaria and the after-effects of shell shock still shadow Durrett's baseball career, but the 25-year-old veteran from Dallas, Texas, has an even-money shot of landing the regular left field berth under manager Leo Durocher.

Leo Galan is moved into center field to replace Howie Schultz at first base. Durrett stands an equal chance with Goody Rosen, Morris Aderholt and French Agan.

The next and last train steamed out at 3:30 P.M. after a street fighting. This time the population was allowed to board it freely because of the life losses and police had vanished. The train was three-quarters full of soldiers who were "evacuating" on their own.

The soldiers and the women in the crowd argued heatedly. The women shouted "deserters".

One incident typifies the chaos of the great retreat.

In a German town which the Red Army captured they found the body of the former German Evangelical Church Bishop of Oslo lying unburied in a cemetery. The Bishop died of a heart ailment while he and his wife were trying to board one of the refugee trains. One who stopped to help the 80-year-old widow, was only after she had promised two old men a suit each from the Bishop's wardrobe that they helped her carry the body to the cemetery where it had to be left unburied on the frozen earth.

conference. In the last two years, instead of seeking a seat in the Commons, Mr. Bracken has travelled up and down the country making political speeches.

"If we mark back to the old days of Woodrow Wilson and the birth of the League of Nations," said Mr. Graydon, "that will be sufficient to banish forever the illusion that there can be a perfect machinery operating perfectly in an imperfect world."

World Of Reality

"This is a world of reality and it won't be put right by people who only talk peace. If it is put right it will be by people working at the job of keeping peace and fighting if necessary to preserve it."

Mr. Graydon said he agreed the Canadian delegation should be broadly representative, but he wanted more details on how the Government proposed to make it so. He expressed resentment at the way the "unprovoked" attack on the Progressive Conservative party when Mr. King at a loss to see why Mr. Bracken ruled out the possibility of Mr. Bracken going to the conference.

"To rule out the possibility of choosing a prospective Prime Minister was going pretty far," he said.

"Or carry now to give and give the right to choose our own delegates by the Prime Minister."

When the delegation would go there would be no parliament. A new parliament would have to approve the delegation's action at San Francisco. There was little possibility of the present government controlling the new parliament.

"I suggest, therefore, that the delegation cannot be confined to representatives of parties sitting in a dying parliament," he said.

"It should be enlarged to give proper representation to such sections of Canada as agriculture, labor, veterans of the last war and sections of this country as well as industry and business."

Mr. Slaght said that "I am at a loss to see why Mr. Bracken should go to San Francisco."

The government had invited Mr. Bracken to seek a seat in the Commons where every party leader should be, but Mr. Bracken had not attempted to obtain a seat. During the last two years he travelled throughout the country, rented halls and made political speeches.

Mr. King, on the other hand, during the five years of war had devoted his every minute to the welfare of the country and the commonwealth. The Prime Minister had not taken time to pay politics and in the words of Prime Minister Churchill he could look back on a war record surpassed by none.

Mr. Slaght was the third to speak after Mr. Graydon. Earlier in the afternoon Mr. Bracken and Philippe Pliard (L.—Bellevue) and Victor Quelch (SC—Acadia) were heard.

hesitation, ineffectiveness and isolation," he said.

Mr. Slaght said the Canadian delegation should go to San Francisco in a spirit of give and take. There were a number of amendments to the charter of the international court of justice which he wished to suggest and he would give the Prime Minister a memorandum on them before he went to the conference.

He said he wondered if it would be desirable for Canada to attempt to obtain representation on the 11-man security council of the world peace organization, and if the representative should be selected before the conference began. He was not certain whether the appointment of members to the council would take place at San Francisco.

Mr. Pliard said that the Dumbarton Oaks may not constitute the perfectly ideal solution that was celebrated here from the fraternity and understanding.

"The will of powerful nations may not yet be such as to lead to the organization on a world scale of an ideal community," he said. "But the proposals appear to me to be the nearest approach to any yet advanced to a solution of the problem of world security, carried on in a proper spirit of co-operation between the greatest powers, supported by all nations of the world."

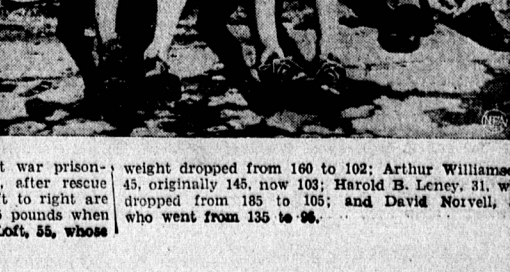

Mr. Quelch said that if the co-operation that existed today between the great powers had existed in the 1800s there likely would not have been another war.

"If peace is to be maintained after the war this co-operation will have to continue because no international organization, at least not of the type now visualized, can maintain peace unless the major powers can agree."
