The laying of the Atlantic cable is regarded as one of the boldest engineering feats ever attempted and at the time it was carried out was looked upon with derision.

The language of the Berbers who inhabit almost all of Northern Africa has linguistic connection with the Semitic group, although Arabic is spoken along the coast.

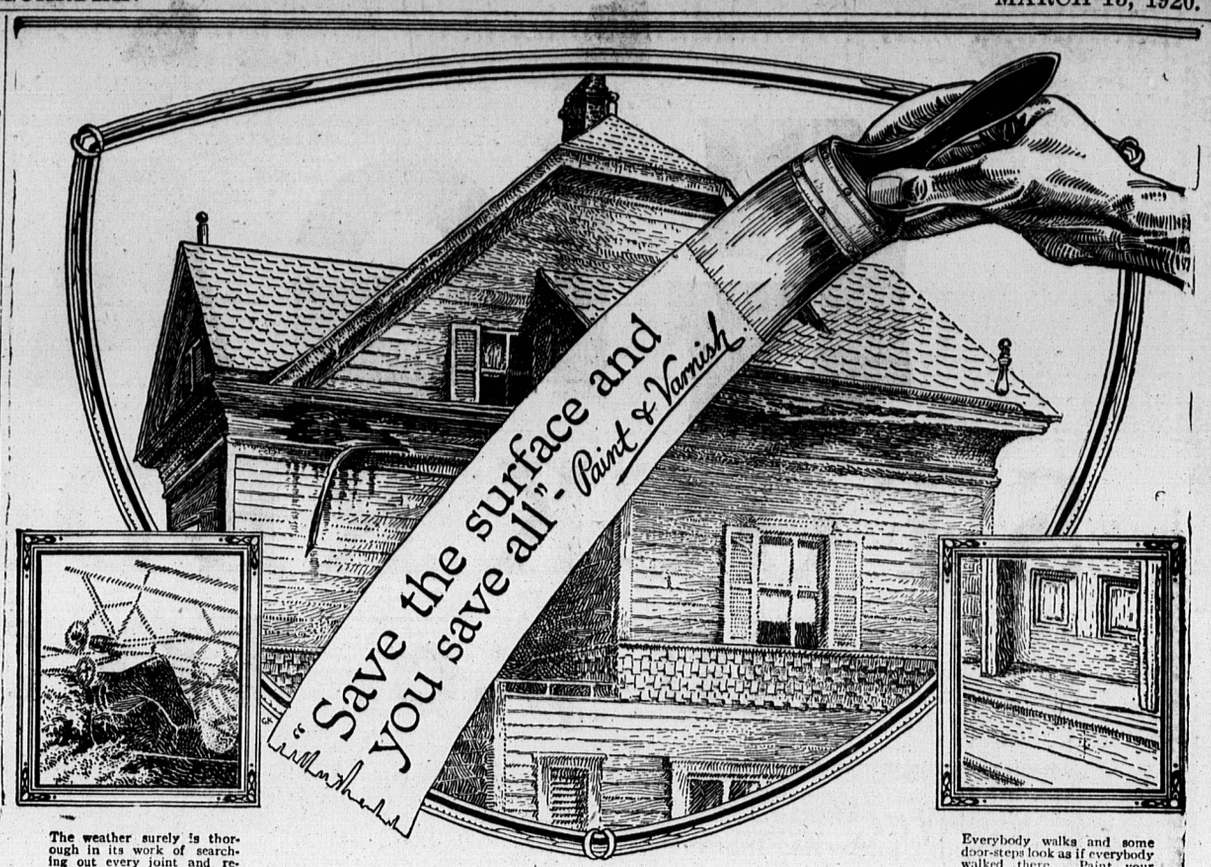
OF TWO EVILS.

The little boy was evidently a firm believer in the old adage, "Of two evils choose the least." Turning the corner at full speed he collided with the minister. "Where are you running to, my little man?" asked the minister. when he had regained his breath. "Home!" panted the boy. "Ma's going to spank me." "What!" gasped the astonished minister. "Are you eager to have your mother spank you that you run home so fast?" "No." shouted the boy over his shoulder, as he resumed his homeward flight. "but if I don't get there before pa he'll do it!"—Minneapolis Journal.

The annual production of Redwood in California is about 320,000,000 feet and at the present rate the timber is being destroyed, it is estimated that enough standing timber reamins to last for 150 years.



The weather surely is thorough in its work of searching out every joint and remote place in farm machinery. Paint and varnish, however, are equally searching and prolong the life of implements wonderfully. Is your machinery protected?

Everybody walks and some door-steps look as if everybody walked there. Paint your door-steps for protection as well as looks. Keep a coat of surface protection spread on them to take the rough service. Save the surface.

Somebody Blundered!

THIS house is not old, but look at its condition! Anything but an actual photograph from which this drawing was made might be considered an exaggeration.

Note the way the building has rotted away under the eaves owing to neglect.

Paint — surface protection — would have prevented this ruin. The unpainted metal eave troughs rusted through, water got into the eaves and decay did the rest. Repairing will be expensive business.

This extreme case points an example which any property owner will admit is impressive. Any waste through lack of surface protection is unnecessary waste. Damage has to start at the surface. If the surface is undamaged the property lasts—repair bills are avoided—money is saved.

Your house may or may not be well protected—it will pay to make sure. And remember that surface protection is vital to everything you own—to all wooden and metal property, to outbuildings, to machinery, to furniture, to everything exposed to weather or wear. A thousand and one things grow old before their time simply through lack of surface protection.

Examine your property as closely as you would expect some one else to do it to whom you had entrusted its care. Save the surface and you save all.

SAFETY IN OIL-BURNING SHIPS

(From the Manchester Guardian).

The announcement that a Board of Trade Committee has been appointed to inquire into the question of fire dangers attending the use of oil fuel in ships must not be taken to indicate that there is any doubt about conditions in liners burning oil fuel. It simply means that the use of oil is now spreading so quickly owing to the high price of coal that other ships besides the carefully contructed, well-equipped passenger liners will soon be using oil, and that a complete system of regulations has to be formulated. As regards the ships with Diesel engines, there is no danger of fire through the escape of oil, but of course they are only a small number. Oil is used on the liners for firing boilers, and the only danger is in leakage into crank pits or the like, but that has been carefully guarded against. When oil tank ships were first on the seas the builders could not make the tanks oil-tight but now that is ancient history, and tanks do not leak at all. The question of danger of fire as the result of collision, however, is one that affects all ships using oil and the benefits of expert advice will be felt by the best companies, while the necessity of new regulations for oil carrying in the new class of ship affected is an urgent one.

OLDEST TUNE IN THE WORLD

"For He's a Jolly Good Fellow," is said to be the oldest tune in the world. The origin of the air is lost in antiquity but it is supposed to have been learned from the ancient Babylonians by the Egyptians, who popularized it in Africa, and Asia Minor Arabs still sing it. The Crusaders caught the tune from their Saracen enemies, and sang it under the walls of Jerusalem. The air was ultimately carried into Europe, where it survived, in various forms, among the folks songs of the different nations. In 1709, after the defeat at Malpaquet, the French, following a false rumor of the Duke of Marlborough's death in battle composed as tatric lament, "Malbrook Is Off to the War." Like most topical songs, this one was of short-lived popularity, but in 1781 it suddenly echoed from one end of France to the other. The young Marie Antoinette gave birth to an heir and the baby prince's nurse used to put her royal charge to sleep with the old song of her village home, and as if by magic the song became the craze of the day.

LAUGHING MATTER

The sessions in a certain town were in full swing. On the third day a dreadful calamity occurred—the court crier was absent.

"Well, we must find a substitute," remarked the Judge.

Just as they were in the middle of an exciting case, a breathless messenger boy came in and handed a letter to the Judge. The latter read it, and then announced to the court:—

"I have a message from our court crier. He says: "Wife's mother died last night. Will not be able to cry today.'"—London Tit-Bits.

SUBLET

The restless individuality of the American soldier, who was always seeking a shorter way to do things, made him appear to the French and British as hopelessly undisciplined. Even in battle the doughboy hated to follow precedent.

A unit of the 78th Division, pressing on under shell-fire in the battle of the Meuse-Argonne, finally stopped under orders to dig in as fast as possible. In a few moments dirt was flying along the whole line.

Out in front, however, just behind a slight natural mound, one doughboy lay motionless with his rifle slanted toward the enemy.

"Make a hole! Make a hole!" yelled the lieutenant, coming up.

"Sh'h don't excite my contractor," the doughboy replied.

Over the edge of the mound the lieutenant saw a German prisoner feverishly digging almost at the end of the doughboy's gun.
