Seek Forfeiture Of Recognizance

At a special sitting of the Supreme Court in Summerside on Saturday, Chief Justice Thane A. Campbell presiding, an application was made by the crown for the forfeiture of a recognizance in the case of Pte. George Albert MacLean, Bedeque.

MacLean originally pleaded guilty before Judge C. Gavan Duffy to the offence of theft from a person and was sentenced to two years in Dorchester Penitentiary. He appealed from this sentence to the Supreme Court en banco and the court reduced the penalty to fifty days in jail and ordered him to enter into a recognizance to the sum of $1,000 to keep the peace and be of good behavior. Good behavior in his case was to include immediate return to the proper command of the Army. The application made on Saturday was on the grounds, as stated by the crown, that he did not return to the Army and was posted as a deserter. Court adjourned till February 6th and the court in the meantime asked to have a record of an appearance before any military tribunal by this man.

Mr. J. Watson MacNaught, K.C., represented the crown and Mr. T. L. Compton the defendent.

RED PRESS—

There was no indication yet of the extent of Russian casualties, but the basic design of Marshal Ivan Konev was to achieve a break-through by massed firepower at a minimum cost in lives. Front dispatches hinted that the bag of German prisoners might reach a sensational figure.

Pravda declared "a new victory has been won," but cautioned that "the enemy has not been defeated yet." It forecast increasingly stiff resistance with every additional mile won. The initial successes prompted Russian hopes that the battle soon would be carried to the banks of the Oder 90 miles westward (in Germany proper).

Pravda also declared the German withdrawal from the Belgian bulge was proof to the German people that "the moral victory pretended by the German Command has been converted into a moral defeat."

Commenting on Poland, Pravda said:

"Reactionary elements in the west extremely disliked formation of the Polish provisional government. We hear the barking of pro-Fascist dogs in and out of the western press. Let them bark. They will cease at last."

Hog Tattooing To Be Demonstrated At Meeting Here

Attention is being called to announcement elsewhere in this issue of a very important livestock meeting that takes place in Charlottetown Wednesday afternoon January 17th, and everybody called upon to wield a hog marking machine should make it a point to attend. Expert advice will be given on how to do the job properly, and it is anticipated the information given will be of great value to all persons engaged in assembling, tattooing and transporting hogs. Proper marking of farmer's hogs when they are picked up at the farm, delivered at packing plant or shipping point, is most essential to correct identification of the carcass at time of slaughter.

At the conclusion of the afternoon lecture, which will commence at 1.30 p.m. a practical demonstration will be given at the Livestock Marketing Board Stock Pens on the water front, when live hogs upon which to demonstrate will be supplied. It is expected that Mr. J. W. Graham, Maritime Field Supervisor of the Dominion Livestock Branch, Moncton, will be the chief speaker, and all interested parties are cordially invited to attend.

P. E. I. Produces High Quality Vegetable Seed

(Experimental Farms News)

With other provinces of the Dominion, Prince Edward Island is now producing vegetable seeds in commercial quantities. The demand for such seed, due to war conditions, is good and farmers have had no difficulty in disposing of all the seed they could produce, says Dr. J.A. Clark, Superintendent, Dominion Experimental Station, Charlottetown.

It is almost certain that, just as soon as the war is over in Europe, quantities of vegetable seeds of all kinds will again be imported into Canada. Imported seed in the past has been available at low prices and it is doubtful if local growers can hope to compete with such seed on the home markets. While it is true that European seed can usually be obtained cheaply, it is equally true that such seed has been of poorer quality and decidedly inferior to the best seed developed in this country.

Most of the seed produced in Prince Edward Island has been grown from selected seed produced by the Dominion Experimental Farms, or similar institutions, and is outstanding in type and quality. The growers' stocks are regularly inspected by the field staff of the Plant Products Division. The growers themselves are members of the Canadian Seed Growers' Association and adhere closely to the rules and regulations of that organization. Seed produced in this way is bound to be of superior type and should be worth more than imported seed of unregistered quality.

In 1944 seed growers in Prince Edward Island grew some 3,500 pounds of Hollow Crown parsnip seed as well as smaller quantities of radish, beet, beans, carrot and cabbage seed. The future of seed growing on the Island and elsewhere in Canada, lies in the strict adherence of all growers to the ideal of quality and its acceptance by the distributor and consumer alike. If the distributor and consumer are willing to pay a little more for quality so that the grower can produce such seed at a reasonable margin of profit, then seed growing can move forward on a sure foundation. If, however, seed growing is again relegated to its pre-war status, it is not likely that our farmers can again be persuaded to carry on this work under any consideration.

Permit Teachers Helping To Keep Rural Schools Open

Answering complaints that incompetent teachers have been appointed to teach in various schools throughout the Province, Mr. L. W. Shaw, director of education, made it clear to a Guardian representative that he was not at all satisfied with either the competence or the experience of many of the teachers whom the Department of Education has found it necessary to engage. He maintained, however, that a poor teacher was better than no teacher at all and that if the Department had not lowered its standards of competence for teachers to meet the exigencies of many school districts, possibly one-third of the country schools would now be closed.

Mr. Shaw admitted many persons with only a grade 10 certificate and no college or normal school training were now teaching in certain rural schools. But where a grade 10 teacher has been given a permit by the Department to teach, it insists such a teacher shall have no pupils taking any higher than grades six or seven work, Mr. Shaw said. There are at present between 50 and 60 such teachers now employed throughout the Province and many of them have shown a decided aptitude for teaching and are doing well, Mr Shaw stated.

THE KIRK PULPIT

Preaching last evening on the text, "Wilt thou be made whole?" (St. John 5:6) the Minister, the Rev. T. H. Bussell Somers, said: It is the thought of Christ's Godhead, and the omnipotence we associate with Godhead, that makes the question sound a little oddly. Why should He not act without asking this man anything? He had all power in Himself. What had this poor creature to do with the exercise of it? Of what consequence whether he really wished to be made whole or not? But it was of consequence, obviously, to Jesus. And it is still of consequence to Him, and for ever will be so, in your case and mine and every man's. Certainly He has all power to do as He wills to do. But we are not understanding rightly what omnipotence means, if we do not realize that it has its conditions of working—almost, you might say, its limitations.

I am not going to venture into metaphysics. But it is a known and a basic fact of Christian experience that omnipotence must always stand fettered before a human soul; and no saving health will come to me until in some form that question is answered, and answered satisfyingly, — "Wilt thou...?" God may move the stars out of their courses without me. He may lift my brother without me. But He will not lift me without me, and He does not lift my brother without the surrender and consent of my brother's will. How wonderfully man is made, how God-like he is, so God-like that God Himself may not take him and do this or that with his soul, as one would work upon an animal or a stone, but instead pleads with him, reasons with him, woos him, even sacrifices for him, to gain his cooperation. When God made man like Himself, He made him not a passive object to be handled at will, but a personality, with a mind of his own, to whom even his Creator comes, saying..."Wilt thou...?"

THE BAPTIST CHURCH

The morning service of worship was directed by the Rev. I. Judah Levy, B.D. and the Rev. J. Fraser who delivered the sermon of the morning. Dr. Fraser took as his text the words of Saint Paul "I fear that your minds should be corrupted from the simplicity that is toward Christ," taking as his subject "The Simplicity of Religion." Religion is not learning or intellectual acumen, it is possible to love God even if one is unable to read the Bible or to know the catechisms. Great men are simple. Someone has said that a demagogue says nothing with a loud noise, a mystagogue one who declares nothing, in big words. One of the greatest utterances in history is Lincoln's Gettysburg address, in its utterly simple forthright words. How simple were the words of Jesus, life, hope, joy, peace, trust, so full of meaning so easy of understanding.

The story of the cross is to be told to all...let us make it plain and simple. Religion is not theology, people say there are difficulties in the Bible, it is true, but there are no difficulties in religion. Religion is faith, not a faith, but faith, vision, when the soul looks through the eye of faith, it sees God. Religion is hope, again, not a hope but hope which if we lose we are lost indeed. Religion is love. "Thou shalt love" is still the greatest of commandments, do not obscure it, do not miss the priceless values by digging too deep!

The anthem of the morning was "Gently, Lord, O Gently Lead Us."

The Church School met for its Bible Study period at 2.30 under the direction of the Superintendent, Mr. Ralph J. Rupert.

The service of evening worship was conducted by the Rev. I. Judson Levy whose sermon was "A Vision of the World's Need." Handel's "A Prayer' was the evening anthem.

Mrs. G. Elliott Full, organist and director of choir was in charge of the music of the day.

WELL BABY CLINIC — Miss Bessie Beer of the well baby clinic reports there is a satisfactory response on the part of young mothers to have their babies' physical condition checked at the clinic. Miss Beer states, however, there are many mothers who are not taking advantage of the free and worthwhile benefits which the clinic is able to give. She finds that wives of members of the armed forces who have come with their husbands from the mainland, where the work of baby clinics is better known, make much more use of the clinic than the local mothers.

IN MEMORIAM

DAISY ADELADE THORNE

In the early morning of Dec. 13, 1944, in the P.E.I. Hospital, the angel of Death claimed for its own Daisy Adelade Thorne, daughter of the late Alfred and Elizabeth Thorne, Charlottetown. She will be greatly missed by all who knew her and came to love her, especially Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Mutlow, Parkdale, Mt. Edward Road, with whom she made her home, and her adopted son, L-C Frank Thorne R.C.E. whom she adopted at the age of five weeks, and who was able to be present at his mother's funeral. Daisy was a great lover of children and loved to be among them and care for them. She was a staunch member of St. Paul's Anglican Church and truly of great Christian faith. Although she suffered much she was never known to complain and had a smile for everyone until the last.

There are left to cherish her memory the following brothers and sisters: George F., and Stephen W. Thorne, Mrs. Wm. Dalziel, Mrs. Thos. Mills, Mrs. John Beaton, Mrs. Gordon Mutlow and Mrs. Wm. Whitlock, all of this city.

A private service was held at the home of her sister Mrs. F. Mills, 41 Prince Street, thence to St. Paul's Church, where the service was conducted by the Rev. J. T. Ibbott. The hymns sung were "Peace Perfect Peace" and "The Lord's My Shepherd." The interment was in the People's Cemetery, the service being conducted by Rev. Mr. Ibbott.

The pall bearers were Mayor J. E. Blanchard, Henry Lapthorn, Henry L. Mutlow, Joseph W. Younker, Frank McKay and Harold McInnis.

God has promised a home for his faithful,
In a land where there's no pain or care,
And because she was one of the faithful,
We know she is resting up there.

Major A. W. Boulter Returns to Canada

Many P.E. Island friends and relatives will be pleased to learn that Major A.W. Boutler, Indian Head, Saskatchewan, a former P.E. Islander, has returned to Canada after over three years service with the Canadian Army overseas. Major Boutler has been posted to Regina, as Occupational Counsellor in the Dept. of Veterans Affairs. Major Boutler went to Petawawa from Saskatchewan in the early part of the war in command of the 60176th Field Battery of the 17th Field Regiment, Canadian Armored Division, and after intensive training there, went overseas in 1911 as second command of that Regiment.

Four Steps To A Better World

sary public services. But to levy taxes solely for the purpose of redistributing wealth is nothing more or less than dishonesty. It is the duty of any Government to employ the unemployed in social improvement works, in such social undertakings as education, health, old age pensions, rental purchase, housing, to be paid for by taxation of those most able to pay.

The last step that will lead to a better world is—Thrift. I know it's an unpopular word nowadays. The popular attitude is that nobody needs to be thrifty any more because the Government will take care of us from birth to burial.

However I wasn't thinking of thrift that way — I was thinking in its relation to the production of capital. To understand what I mean take the case of a carpenter. If a carpenter were to spend all the money he earned, saving nothing for the replacement of his tools, it wouldn't be long before he was out of business. That explains the whole reason for thrift. If the people of a country devote their whole income which means all their work and productivity — to goods for consumption, then the nation cannot progress. Here in Canada your railways, factories, roads, farm buildings, tools and other possessions which are useful for producing goods or services, are the result of thrift. They constitute capital—and the production of capital, when it is later used intelligently, is the only road to increased wealth.

Take the case of Russia.—Before the war 1-2 the national income of Russia was taken by the Government, in enforced thrift and put into the capital equipment of the nation. Some of us will now say: "That's it—Russia has a plan and that's what we need." I don't quite see what that's got to do with it. My point is simply this: that capital can be accumulated only by thrift whether thrift is forced or voluntary. It cannot be created by a stroke of the pen.

I am not a socialist because it seems to me that the best Government you can have is one under which there will be as few Government servants as possible and not any more regulations than are necessary to see that individuals practice the four simple virtues — ambition, energy, honesty and thrift.
