Cadets To Engage In Big Battle Tonight On Ordnance Ground

The war comes to Charlottetown tonight on the outside of the city will be heard the shriek of bursting bombs, the crackle of rifle and machine-gun fire while heavy smoke screens drift across the fields. But citizens need not be alarmed. Only dummy ammunition will be used and the bombs will be exploding from thunder-flashes, as members of St. Dunstan's University contingent C.O.T.C., including cadets from the Ordnance Ground, engage in a mock battle. Tonight's large-scale mock battle will be the culmination of a number of days of training, which began on the Ordnance Ground, and will be held during the present camp period. The first with Roman Catholic cadets marching to St. Dunstan's Basilica and the Protestant cadets to Trinity Church, and last Sunday when the Roman Catholics paraded to the same church and the Protestants to St. James Church. In all 110 cadets will be present. Besides Major Macdonald, other officers, and non-commissioned officers of the camp are: Major D. P. Turner, chief instructor; Capt. E. S. Trainor, second in command; Lieut. H. L. Johnson, Lieut. A. E. Russell, Capt. M. J. R. Irlam, Sgt. Donald Collicott and Sgt. Frank McNeill. The camp period was interrupted for four of the cadets when they went on active service leaving the Officers' Appraisal Centre at Three Rivers, Que. They were Lieut. R. G. Macdonald and Cadets W. Higgins, J. Higgins and Gen.

Sun Tanned and Fit Well tanned after 10 days of almost perfect weather, the cadets present a healthy looking picture around the camp. With enormous appetites brought on by the healthful outdoor exercise, the cadets tax the efforts of the cooks to disseminate to provide them with enough to eat.

Many Sugar Canning Coupon Cards Mailed. Twenty-five volunteer women workers, including 17-year-old Miss K. E. Brown, a graduate of John Hopkins Hospital in New York and Mrs. J. McCulligan, a 65-year-old Charlottetown lady who recently placed sixth in Canada in a civil service examination, invaded City Hall yesterday and waged war on piles of sugar canning coupon cards.
