Dieppe Story Told In Detail

By GILLIS PURCELL (Canadian Press Staff Writer)

The first studied story of the "reconnaissance in force" at Dieppe last August, which claimed 9,350 Canadian casualties in an eight-hour attack on the German-held French coast, is published today in "combined operations" the official story of the Commandos. More than one-fifth of the 155-page book by Hilary St. George Saunders, currently the world's best-selling author, is devoted to a recital of the Dieppe operation. He outlines the military objectives of the attack in far greater detail than ever before made public. Like "battle of Britain," "bombing command" and the rest of the war-time booklets which have pushed Saunders' sales-record close to the 12-million mark, "combined operations" does not bear the name of the author's assistant, but is the work of the British House of Commons he is fully occupied these days with the duties of his official authorship.

For the first time, Saunders lists the exact objectives which each component of the attacking force at Dieppe sought to achieve. Unfortunately only one of the 10 major units engaged—seven of them Canadian—was able to carry out its assignment with complete success. This was No. 4 Commando. Saunders' book is chapter after exciting chapter of the achievements of the Commandos at Lezard, Vaagso, Bruneval, St. Nazaire, Diego Suarez. He fills it with maps and photographs which, with his simple, unadorned writing, resolve the confusing news-stories of the war into the calmer perspective of history. But Canadians will read his book because it tells the story of Dieppe. Speaking of the results of the Dieppe operation, the 45-year-old veteran of the First Great War says: "Two (results) were outstanding. In the first place we learnt much about the German defences in the area. In the second place, and of still greater value, was the first-hand experience we acquired of the conditions which may be met with in a large-scale assault on a strongly-held channel port. The details of these experiences must not be revealed. The enemy will know in due course how we have profited by them. "While the Dieppe raid was an indispensable prelude for what was to take place later, in a sense it was also the culminating point in the series of reconnaissances of which some account has now been given. In the past, these results achieved became visible later when a combined operation on a much larger scale was successfully launched. Others will appear in the major assaults to come.

London Has Three Air Raids

LONDON, May 18 — (Tuesday)—(CP)— Nazi raiders attacked London three times during the night, starting fires in at least one city area. One of the alerts came just before midnight and the others in the early-morning hours. Other German planes attacked a southeast coastal town. A single bomber was reported dropped in a suburban area during the first raid, but there were no immediate reports of any damage or casualties. German bombers gave London three alerts early Monday but the number of planes crossing the coast was estimated at no more than 20.

ANNUAL MEETING MONTAGUE SUB-DIVISION C. W. L.

The annual meeting of the Montague Sub-Division C. W. L. was held in the league rooms on May 13th. The president, Mrs. Lannon, occupied the chair. The secretary, Mrs. Coyle, gave a summary of the year's work. When all reports were presented the president addressed the members briefly on the work accomplished during the year. The election of officers then followed: Mrs. F. L. Coyle, President; Mrs. D. Power, Secretary; Mrs. L. Power, 1st vice-pres.; Mrs. Jos. Collins, 2nd vice-pres.; Mrs. Jos. Lanigan, 3rd vice-pres.; Mrs. F. McCarron, Secretary's Report. Madam President presided over the meeting. This being the eleventh annual meeting of the Montague sub-division C.W.L. I hereby submit the following report. During the year we held seven regular and one special meeting, with an average attendance of 11 members. We have an enrollment of 30 members and three new members have been enrolled since our last annual meeting. On April 26th the feast of our patron, high Mass was offered for our living members. Deceased members were also remembered by a Mass in November. The high Mass was also offered for the souls in purgatory. Since our last annual meeting we have been called upon to mourn the loss of two valued members. Masses have been offered for the repose of their souls and letters of sympathy forwarded to their families. A Mass has also been offered for the deceased parent of one of our members. We can only say of those who have passed away that all rest grant to them O Lord and let perpetual light shine upon them. The social service committee have provided for a parishioner, visited the sick and sent fruit, etc., to sick members on several occasions. The study club met on Thursday evenings during the fall and winter months. Their activities consisted of teaching catechism to all the children of the preparation of small children for first communion, in an effort to help the pastor, who has so much catechism to teach in his parishes. Blackboards were purchased and erected in league rooms to help the different classes. In order to stimulate attendance, free bingo for juniors was held immediately after catechism, prizes given and results in attendance were good. Bible history was studied during the year and an hour's entertainment held during evenings for members, which resulted in revenue being able to have a Mass offered weekly for the protection of soldiers, sailors and airmen of the parish. Our church committee has carefully performed the duties of sweeping and cleaning the church, washing linens, decorating at seasons, Sundays and during festival seasons. A number of beautiful flowers for easter were obtained by members and the appearance of the altar and vestments credit on the church committee. A new tabernacle veil was purchased. On Nov. 3rd our annual benediction bingo which was very successful. Thanks are extended to all members and parishioners who so kindly contributed. Several bingo and card parties were held during the winter which afforded much enjoyment as well as a substantial increase in revenue. A large box of provisions was furnished to the sisters of the Precious Blood by members, which was gratefully acknowledged. The following donations were also made:—$5 Sisters of St. Martha; $5 Red Cross drive; $3 Aid to Russia fund; $2 t. b. league. Prizes were also donated to the Montague
