...The marriage of Mr. Corbett of Boston and Miss Margaret Nolan of Chepstow took place yesterday morning at St. Mary's Church, Souris.

St. Dunstan's Cathedral was the scene of a pleasing event yesterday morning, when Miss Dorothy Flynn was united in marriage to James Sherry. The bride, who wore a pretty costume of blue broadcloth, with a black picture hat, was attended by her sister, Miss Katie who was attired in a suit of Alice-blue cloth with a white beaver hat. The groom was supported by Albert Wilson. After the ceremony which was performed by Rev. Dr. McLellan, in the presence of many of the girl friends of the bride, the bridal party drove to the home of the bride where a dainty breakfast was partaken of. The bride received many valuable and costly presents.

From a letter received by A. H. Wadman of this city, it is learned that his brother Wesley T. Wadman, a contractor and builder of 20 Waltham St., Lexington, Mass., is improving after being the victim of a very serious accident which occurred on Dec. 18th, 1911. Mr. Wadman while on his way to oversee some houses he was building, called to see some masons who were excavating a cellar nearby. He had only been there about five minutes when some dynamite which was placed over a fire to thaw out exploded and a piece of the pail which contained the dynamite was buried in his neck entering within half an inch of the jugular vein. He was taken to his home by the family physician who summoned two others, the three working over him from ten to three o'clock trying to stop the flow of blood but without success. They then called a specialist from Cambridge who after two hours work finally stopped the flow of blood and removed the piece of tin which was lodged against the windpipe. He was in a very critical condition for several days having lost forty per cent of blood. Mr. Wadman is a native of Crapaud, and his many friends throughout that vicinity will be glad to know that he is able to take short walks outdoors now.

A correspondent in Emerald sends us the following: With very sincere regret I read in your paper a few days ago the death of a highly esteemed friend, Albert Craig, which event took place in Winnipeg on the 6th inst. The late Mr. Craig was born in Middleton, and at an early age entered the employ of the late D. Rogers, Summerside. After serving an apprenticeship in the mercantile line, he spent a number of years in the United States. On returning to this Province he did business in Bedeque and Freetown before removing to Emerald, where he resided for about twenty years. His kindly and courteous business relations with a large number of people in this section of the Province will long be remembered. About five years ago, with his family, he removed to Winnipeg, where and his son Claude carried on a successful business. Many Islanders who have visited that city, and others who reside there, always found in him a warm friend. The deceased leaves to mourn a sorrowing widow (nee Emeline Crosby), one son and two daughters to whom is extended the sympathy of many friends in Emerald and other parts of the Province.—P.F.H.

Rev. A. M. McLeod, the new pastor of the First Presbyterian Church Hyde Park, was installed last evening, the exercises taking place in the auditorium of the church at seven forty-five. Rev. S. W. He devoted a year to the National Sunday School field in Nova Scotia and then accepted a pastorate in Clifton, P. E. I., where he remained until last October, when he came to Hyde Park. On Dec. 27 he married Miss Lena B. Murray, daughter of Rev. John Murray, at Clifton. Mrs. MacLeod is an accomplished singer and in church work will be an able assistant of her husband. Their home is at 10 Thatcher St. Wednesday evening, Jan. 31, they will be tendered a reception by their parishioners which will be held in the church vestry.—Boston Paper.

(Ottawa Citizen Jan. 15)

One of Ottawa's best known civil servants died this morning in the person of Frederick G. Bennett, chief clerk of the statistical branch of the customs department, who passed away at the family residence, 15 Aylmer avenue, Ottawa South, about 11 o'clock. The late Mr. Bennett, who was in his 59th year, had been on duty in the department until last week when he was afflicted with a paralytic stroke. For several days his life had been despaired of. His condition became critical yesterday and members of the family were summoned.

The late Mr. Bennett was born at Tassagh, County Armagh, and was a son of the late Rev. Dr. James Bennett. He came to Ottawa about 40 years ago and had been connected with the customs department for 36 years. He is survived by a widow, five boys and four daughters. The sons are Freeland, Harold, Fred and Leonard, who are all in the west, and Roland of the customs department. The daughters are Miss Kathleen, Mabel; Letitia and Annie.

Mr. Bennett was at one time chairman of the public school board, on which he served for a number of years and was one of the leading figures in the fraternal affairs of the Capital, being past district deputy of the Ancient Order of the United Workmen. He was also a member of the Canadian and Independent Orders of Foresters. He formerly took a prominent part in the municipal affairs of the city and of Ottawa South.

FRIDAY

It is with sincere regret that it is learned that Prof. C. M. Wright, has resigned his position as organist of the First Methodist Church. Prof. Wright is an organist and music teacher of much ability and his removal from this city will be a distinct loss to the public in general and a large circle of friends in particular. It is understood that he has accepted a lucrative position in Nova Scotia and The Guardian wishes him and Mrs. Wright a large amount of success..

A very pleasant social function took place at the home of Thos. and Mrs. Clark, Summerside, on Wednesday night when a large number of friends and acquaintances gathereed at Mr. Clarke's home on the occasion of his 57th birthday and tendered him a surprise party. The visitors numbered about sixty and the evening was most pleasantly spent in dancing and whist. The music for the dancing was most capably furnished by Misses McCoubrey, Minnie Clarke and Doucette on the piano and Mr. Ramsay on the violin. About midnight refreshments were served and dancing was continued until the early hours. Mr. and Mrs. Clarke enjoy a large acquaintance and the happy gathering individually tendered Mr. Clarke good wishes for many more years of health, activity and usefulness. Mr. Clarke is widely known throughout the province and has many friends in Charlottetown and Queen's County.

—Particularly sad was the death of Charles Monkley, of Lot 16, which occurred Friday evening in the P. E. Island Hospital after an operation for a mastoid abscess. Deceased had been ill only two days when on the advice of his physician he went to Charlottetown Thursday, and entered the hospital. The operation was performed Thursday evening and death followed on Friday evening. He was thirty-nine years of age and, until stricken with this last illness, was in robust health. He was a prominent farmer and a highly respected citizen and his untimely death, in the prime of life, has elicited the heartfelt sympathy of the whole community. He leaves to mourn his wife and one son, aged four years, besides his father and mother, two brothers, Edward, Summerside, Oswald, Port Hill, and six sisters, Mrs. John Adams, Lot 14, Mrs. Russel Birch, Port Hill; Mrs. Robert Yeo, Lot 16; Miss Sadie, teacher, Lot 16; and the Misses Annie and May at home. The funeral took place on Monday and was very largely attended. The service was conducted by Rev. Mr. Murray, Bideford, assisted by Evangelist McKay. The pallbearers were William Cotton, Mack McLean, A. E. McLean, Eddie Ramsay, Percy Millar and James Skerry.—Exc.

AN OPEN LETTER

From a Well Known Clergyman Showing How Indigestion Can Be Cured.

Rev. T. A. Drury, Beamsville, Ont., writes as follows:—"For eighteen years I have been increasingly impressed with the wonderful effects for good wrought by Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. For some years I had suffered almost constantly with chronic dyspepsia of the most stubborn type, attended by different other troubles which invariably follow or accompany it as its results, prominent among which were kidney trouble and piles. Against this complication of disease I waged a vigorous warfare for several months, using many different remedies, none of which gave permanent relief. In my discouragement I was about to discontinue treatment altogether when I was advised by a friend to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, the use of which, though under very unfavorable circumstances, soon revived my drooping courage. The medicine struck at the root of my weakness and the different troubles of which dyspepsia was the prime cause released, let go, and disappeared. In one month I increased fifteen pounds in weight, and received a new lease of life. Only six boxes of pills produced this wonderful change in my health, which was miraculously permanent.

Later my sister became so reduced by anaemia (though under the care of our family doctor) that she could scarcely walk. In this dangerous extremity Dr. Williams' Pink Pills were resorted to and in a brief space of time restored her to perfect health.

Being a minister of the gospel many test cases have come under my notice, in all of which Dr. Williams' Pink Pills have fully sustained their world-wide reputation. This is why I can conscientiously recommend Dr. Williams' Pink Pills as being superior to anything known to me in the treatment of the many diseases for which they are recommended."

SAVED FROM THE SURGEON'S KNIFE

"Fruit-a-tives" cured Appendicitis

NEWBURGH, Ont., Feb. 12th. 1910.

"Just about a year ago, our daughter Ella (fourteen years) was taken with terrible pains in the right side. We at once put her under the care of a first-class doctor, who pronounced it a case of Appendicitis and advised an operation. We took her to a Hospital in Kingston where she was again immediately examined by an eminent specialist. He said she had Appendicitis and must be operated on at once, if we wanted to save her life.

"Luckily for us and for her, an uncle came in with some 'Fruit-a-tives' and insisted on Ella taking them. Good results were apparent almost from the first dose, and the treatment cured her.

'Fruit-a-tives' saved our daughter from the surgeon's knife and to-day she is enjoying the best of health".

In the death of the late Mrs. John McLennan, Dock Road, Hartsville, the community loses a good neighbor and friend. Deceased was an unassuming woman, possessed of a wonderful mind and memory and a fountain of knowledge. She was born in Uigg, Isle of Skye, emigrated with her parents to this Province when she was quite a young girl. She was an honorable member of the Presbyterian Church at Hartsville. She lived out the principles of her profession by a life and conversation becoming it. She leaves on the homestead one son and one daughter and another son in the United States.

—The following is from the Winnipeg Free Press News Bulletin, Jany 6th. Bulmer, Martin W. Taylor, E. J. Clark and A. R. Hignell. (Pioneer please copy.)

BOSTON, Jan. 16—What is to be done with Rev. Clarence V. T. Richeson, sentenced to die for the murder of Avis Linnell, depends in a large measure upon the action the governor's council takes tomorrow upon the petition for clemency of Silas N. Phelps, also sentenced for murder.

Should the council commute Phelps' sentence to life imprisonment, it is argued by some that Richeson would have some chance of spending the rest of his life in jail, instead of going to the chair.

There was a conference lasting five hours at the office of William A. Morse yesterday. The counsel for Richeson said that he had not heard from Richeson's people since the pastor confessed the murder, but he does not think that the convicted clergyman's family has completely deserted him. After the conference Mr. Morse visited Richeson in his cell at the Charles Street jail.

BOSTON, Jan. 15—A flood of letters have been sent to the jail addressed to Rev. Mr. Richeson since he was condemned. Some of them are of a sympathizing nature, but the others, most of which are from women, never reach the prisoner.

Denials are made by William A. Morse, counsel for Richeson, that Moses Grant Edmands has abandoned the man who was to have married his daughter Violet. It is understood that following his confession of a week ago, Miss Edmands ceased to write to Richeson and has not communicated with him in any way.

He received one letter from her on Jan. 6, the day after he penned his confession, but the correspondence ceased abruptly when the guilt of the clergyman was acknowledged. All of Miss Edmands' letters sent to Richeson have been postmarked New York city, but it is thought that they were sent to relatives there and remailed so as to prevent the young woman's whereabouts from becoming known by the public.

Richeson's first confession was made to the Rev. Edgar J. Helms, pastor of Morgan Memorial Church in this city. He is a Methodist, but has been acting as the prisoner's spiritual adviser. Mr. Helms admits that he could tell a harrowing narrative, but his lips are sealed. Richeson's conscience troubled him so much that he finally told all to Mr. Helms. It was an emotional recital and came suddenly after a breakdown.

There had been other confidences, but the major topic was avoided until one afternoon when the young slayer's head was bowed in grief and the true story was revealed. Pastor Helms listened with astonishment, but with word and hand he endeavored as best he could to soothe the grief-stricken confessor.

Richeson's lawyers were consulted with the prisoner's consent. He had made it clear that it was not to be accepted as a mere confession to a spiritual adviser, which would have remained inviolate as are the details now. The written acknowledgment followed several days after.

"I'm sorry not to be in a position to discuss the matter," said Mr. Helms. "It is out of the question. I used to run a country newspaper before entering the ministry and I fully appreciate the news value. It would make absorbing reading. I have been carrying many weighty things in my mind, but they are too sacred to discuss.

"I could not possibly say anything without violating solemn pledges and responsibilities."

If Richeson had had his way Avis Linnell would have been dead forty-eight hours before she swallowed poison on the evening of Saturday, Oct. 14. It has just been learned that Richeson telephoned to Miss Linnell at the headquarters of the Young Women's Christian Association on the evening of Thursday, Oct. 12, and urged her to meet him that night. The police say if she had consented she would have received the fatal capsule then instead of the following Saturday afternoon.

Girl friends and attaches of the institution heard Avis exclaim:

"I can't possibly see you this evening. There is a party here and I cannot leave. I shall have to let it go until Saturday."

It was learned today that the Pinkertons were employed to send detectives from their agencies in various parts of the country to gather information about Richeson. The government had no men available for such a search. General Superintendent Leitch, whose office is here, went to Kansas City to direct the search in the cities and towns where Richeson had lived for every scrap of information.

Beginning with Richeson's antecedents in Amherst (Va.) until he settled down to the pastorate of the Baptist Church in Hyannis, the detectives traced their man. Reports of his associations with women were investigated and the women found and the rumors either proved or disproved. As a result volumes of testimony were compiled and were ready for use at the trial.

In all the information gathered the story of Miss Patsy Felts, now dying in Salt Lake City of consumption, aroused the greatest interest. Richeson became engaged to her in 1903. She lent him money when he was a student at William Jewell College, at Liberty (Mo.), of which her father was one of the faculty, helped him out with cash when he was studying at the Newton Theological Seminary, and stood by him to the very end. She advanced him a total of about $700 and the obligation was not discharged until after Richeson was arrested for the murder of the Linnell girl, when she received a cheque for $167.66 from his counsel and a request that she send back a promissory note she held and such letters from Richeson as she had kept.

Miss Feltz was probably Richeson's first sweetheart after he passed beyond the age of "calf love." There were other women encountered in the countrywide search, but she seemed to be the one to whom he constantly held out promises of marriage as soon as he had secured a church. Even on the day after the death of Avis Linnell he wrote a letter at the house of Miss Violet Edmands and told Miss Feltz that soon, in that very month of October, he would be on his way west, where he could seek a church that he might "preach to thousands instead of to hundreds."

The deception of the man was such that it was believed in the east that Patsy Feltz was an elderly person who had befriended Richeson because of his evident desire to become a clergyman. Instead, she is said to be a year or two the junior of Richeson and has been in Salt Lake City for two years at a sanitarium seeking to recover from tuberculosis. Now her condition is such that she will be moved to Arizona soon in the hope of saving her life.

BOSTON, Jan. 16—It was Mr. Edmands who retained the lawyers to defend Richeson, with the exception of Attorney John L. Lee, who was retained by Mr. Richeson's father. But after Richeson was sentenced, Mr. Lee returned to Virginia, and the burden of Richeson's defence was left on the shoulders of William A. Morse. And now it is known that after spending almost $20,000 in the attempt to establish the innocence of the man his daughter loved, Mr. Edmands has withdrawn his support.
