Mildred Bennett Names Greatest Woman Of Day

(Special to the Guardian)
TORONTO, Feb. 20.—That Miss Margaret Bondfield, English woman Labor member of Parliament had made the greatest impression upon her and that she was one of the cleverest women of the day, was the opinion expressed by Miss Mildred Bennett, sister of Rt. Hon. R. B. Bennett, Prime Minister of Canada, who was guest of honor of the Women's Canadian Club at luncheon in the Royal York today. Miss Bondfield has a man's mind and the power to cut deeply into any problem, stated Miss Bennett. Among the women of England who came in for a share of her admiration were, Mrs. Philip Snowden and Miss Isabel MacDonald. In my various journeys across Canada when I have visited most of the Womens Canadian Clubs in all the cities, I must confess that I have been overwhelmed with the great service they are doing for Canada and to which they are dedicated of un' this great country of ours, con. The British Air Ministry Comes In For Attack

Demands For Thorough Inquiry Into Efficiency Of The Administration Coming From All Quarters—Many Incidents Cited.

(British United Press)

LONDON, Feb. 20.—Heavy attacks are being made upon the conduct of the Air Ministry, and today demands for a thorough inquiry into the efficiency of the administration were coming from all quarters. Ever since the disaster to the R-101, politicians have felt that the Ministry should be overhauled and made the subject of a Parliamentary investigation. The recent inquiry into the R-101 crash revealed how it is possible for experts to be overruled, and now the ineptness of the administration was being pointed out by the flying boat Iris III has strengthened the conviction that something is seriously wrong with the present administration of the air force. The heavy losses sustained by the force last year when sixty five persons were killed, not counting the R-101 death toll, and the twenty three killed already this year, have also stirred public opinion. In the case of the Iris III, the loss of nine lives was attributed to the senior officers refusal to allow a subordinate officer, who was a more competent pilot where flying boats were concerned, to resume control at the critical moment. It was also revealed that this senior officer was appointed to command a flying boat squadron, although he knew little or nothing about this type of aircraft, all his previous experience having been with land machines. It is recognized that British pilots and airplanes are the finest in the world, and the charges are not against them, but against the Air Ministry, which is declared to be incompetent. Another demand is that the system of court martial, which exists in the navy when a ship is lost, should be instituted in the air force instead of the present method of inquiry.

Will Provide 75 Million Dollars Of New Employment

Change In Automobile Discounts For Duty Purposes Will Be Great Boost For Canadian Workers And Canadian Industry.

(Canadian Press)

TORONTO, Ont., Feb. 20.—The Mail and Empire says today: "Behind Ottawa's brief official announcement last night of a change in automobile discounts for duty purposes, lies an enormous plan which its advocates declare will, in normal times, provide $75,000,000 of new employment annually for Canadian workers and Canadian industry. Reached by long distance telephone in Ottawa last night, N. A. Brown, Vice President and General Manager of General Motors of Canada, disclosed this information. "The plan has opponents among manufacturers of imported cars who have fought it with zeal and bitterness, threatening in some cases to hang out the to let sign and in others to build new factories here to make the cars at present being imported or assembled. "The order in Council is based upon a definite plan, having as its objective the exclusion, in normal times, of some $40,000,000 worth of automobile imports annually, mostly from the United States, and the replacement of that volume of vehicles manufactured within the dominion. "Every automobile manufacturer in Canada for Canadian consumption," declared Mr. Brown in conclusion, "or exported to an export market from Canada, entails $604 worth of work for Canadian labor. The new plan adopted by the government creates work for thousands of Canadians."
