THE Malpeque Presbyterian congregation on Tuesday March 10th, contributed the large sum of $444 00 to the missionary funds of the Church.

BEFORE leaving the City last night Rev. J. L. Miner was presented with a handsome gold headed cane suitably engraved as a token of remembrance

THE regular meeting of Court Mount Stephen, Independent Order of Foresters, was held in Castle Hall last night. There were five propositions for membership acted upon and provision made for a special meeting during the first week in April.

J. F. SWEET, the commercial traveller well known in Charlottetown who was taken to the isolation hospital suffering with smallpox Thursday, is reported as very seriously ill Previous cases discovered in St. John this winter have been of a very mild type.

MARCH opened with the day 11 hours and 11 minutes in length, when it closes we will find an increase of one hour and twenty-seven minutes. On the 21st the days and nights should be equal, the sun rising at 6 o'clock in the morning and setting at 6 o'clock in the evening; but the day may be from four to eight minutes longer than the night.

THE Guardian regrets greatly to learn that the condition of Sergeant Doyle of the Police Force is unimproved. The Sergeant was taken ill about two o'clock yesterday morning at the station and Dr. McLaughlin was called in. After morphine had been used to deaden the pain he was taken to his home and is now under the treatment of his physician, Dr. Kelly.

THE following appointments were made at the District Division meeting held at Mount Herbert on Saturday to exchange fraternal visits: Eclipse to visit Fairplay, Fairplay to visit Eclipse, Holdfast to visit Reform, Reform to visit Holdfast, Prince Edward to visit Victoria, Victoria to visit Prince Edward, Heather to visit Elliott, Elliott to visit Heather, Try Again to visit Heather, Mayflower to visit Heartz, Heartz to visit Mayflower, Ever Onward to visit Mayflower, Refuge to visit Carnegie, Carnegie to visit Refuge, Triumph to visit Lawson, Lawson to visit Triumph.

CHARLOTTETOWN was in holiday attire yesterday. Flags were flying from many buildings and the shamrock was in evidence everywhere. Notwithstanding the rain the procession of the B. I. S. and A. O. H. marshalled by Thomas Campbell with the Fourth Regiment and League of the Cross Bands was a very large one. After Solomn High Mass at the Cathedral celebrated by Rev. Dr. Curran an elcquent sermon was preached by Rev. Dr Sinnott. Owing to the rain the races on the harbor in the afternoon did not take place. The day was brought to a close by the presentation of Faugh-a-Ballaugh at the Opera House of which notice appears elsewhere.

THE marriage of Neil Simpson, third son of the late William J. Simpson, Cavendish, and Miss Sadie Margaret McLeod, eldest daughter of Angus N. McLeod, of Brookfield, took place last evening at the home of the bride. Rev. George Millar performed the ceremony, Miss Katie McLeod was bridesmaid while the groom was supported by his brother. A number of the relatives and immediate friends of the contracting parties were present. After the ceremony an excellent supper was served and the remainder of the evening was pleasantly spent. The wedding gifts were large in number and included sixty-five dollars in gold. The happy couple leave in a few days for the west where they will make their home. The Guardian joins in wishing Mr. and Mrs. Simpson all happiness and a long and prosperous married life.

A SAN Francisco despatch of the 15th says regarding Dr. Seward Webb, of New York, who visited Charlottetown some time ago: Dr. Webb has arrived unexpectedly from Southern California. He was suffering from an attack of gout and came to this city for a few days. Accompanying Doctor Webb was Doctor Brigham, his own physician. Arriving here Doctor Webb's car was hurriedly switched to a side track and a cab secured to carry the travellers to their hotel. Dr. Webb was removed from the car to the cab in an invalid chair, but when he reached the Palace Hotel he was able to get out of the conveyance with the assistance of his physician and an attendant. As he made his way to his room he limped noticeably and had to be supported. That Doctor Webb was anxious to conceal the fact of his presence from former acquaintances was evidenced immediately after his arrival when Doctor Brigham sent word to the hotel office that no notice of the fact that his patient was here should be given out for at least a week. All efforts to gain an interview with Doctor Brigham were futile.

MISS AMELIA DUCHEMIN for almost forty years with the Waverley Magazine in Charlestown, and most of that time its literary editor, died suddenly at her home in Talbot Street Malden at 12.30 o'clock Wednesday March 11 of heart disease. Miss Duchemin was born in Charlottetown, P. E. I., the family moving to Boston when she was quite young. For many years Miss Duchemin resided in Cambridge, afterward moving to Malden, where she made her home with her mother Mrs. Tirrell, and sister, Mrs. Carrie Janssen, both of whom survive her. As editor of the Waverley Magazine, Miss Duchemin had come in contact with many people notable in a literary way, and some of the best known writers and magazine contributors of the present day were first introduced to the reading public through the columns of this magazine by Miss Duchemin who always was keen to note the germ of literary talent in youthful contributors. During her life Miss Duchemin wrote a great many short and serial stories, as well as several plays. The columns of the Waverley were constantly kept interesting through her original stories. She also had established a dramatic department, which was most ably conducted. Her personal acquaintance with old-time players and those of today as well as with writers of note was large. [The above is from a Boston exchange. Miss Duchemin is a niece of Albert Duchemin of this City.]

THE WALL PAPER MEN.

FAUGH-A-BALLAUGH, or The Wearing of the Green, was well received by a crowded house at the Opera last night. Every seat was filled and standing room was at a premium. The leading parts were well taken. Wm J. Brown as Captain Faugh-a-Ballaugh sustained his part with dignity and ease, while Miss Regina M. Flood as Alice Quinlan, his sweetheart might win the heart of any man. Dan Brennan made a typical English Squire, and his spy John Kent could not easily be surpassed in his character of Black Donald. Frank J. McMillan as Myles Griffin never failed to bring down the house and Miss Aggie Carroll as his sweetheart, Kitty Callaghan sustained her part as well as many professionals could have done. The character of the Irish soldier was very falsely represented. No Irish soldiers either in the mountain retreats of Ireland or on the veldt of South Africa, rebel or patriot, ever resembled the character put forward as the Irish soldier last night. It was a serious reflection on the dignity and nobility of Captain Faugh-a-ballaugh to represent him as the leader of such a band of men. The fault is not with those who took the part but with those who are responsible for their direction and make-up. It is a pity that such a blot should be allowed to mar the otherwise good performance. A little thought and consideration would remedy this fault. The dancing of Master Peter Hughes was superb and well merited the encore received. J. Austin Trainor in his two Irish songs displayed a sweetness and compass of voice that is too seldom heard. On the whole the play was a fitting close to the Saint Patrick's day celebration. The tribute to Canada was well received by a patriotic Irish Canadian audience, Vinnicombe's orchestra furnished excellent selections of Irish music throughout the evening. God Save the King closed St. Patrick's Day festivities.
