A HAPPY CHRISTMAS

To every reader of The Guardian and to everyone who borrows a Guardian from a subscriber, and also to all who have not the privilege of reading The Guardian, we wish a very happy Christmas.

CHRISTMAS, 1927.

As the birth of Christ, twenty centuries ago marked the opening of a new chapter in the history of the world, so each recurring anniversary indicates the opening of a new chapter in every individual life. Christmas marks a beginning, not an ending; it is but a milestone showing the beginning of another mile on the road we are travelling. Let us not count it ruefully or complainingly because it indicates the shortening of the road before us. All possibilities are before us, all the good we can do, all the service we can render lies before us. The past with its joys and sorrows, its errors and achievements, is gone, nothing can be recalled, nothing wiped out, nothing undone that has been done. We may look backward reminiscently at the hilltops of happiness and achievement, gilded with pleasant memories like peaks tinged with the golden rays of the western sun. We need not look into the shadowy valleys, at the crags over which we may have stumbled, or at the precipices over which we may have fallen. Christmas is a time for forward-looking and join-girding for what lies ahead, be the road long or short, level or rugged. There may doubtless be hills to climb, difficulties to surmount, work to be done. Others are travelling with us, some may need a helping hand, some may be discouraged and need the kindly word of friendly cheer. We may have grown weary with the long journey we have accomplished, our young feet may be weary with the hills we are climbing, but let us all, young and old alike, remember that all our opportunities for duty and service are before us and that it is only the coward who quits because the road is steep and rough.

We may have made mistakes, let us forget them and avoid similar ones in future. We may not have done our whole duty in the past, let us resolve to do better on the new stretch of road we are entering upon today.

Let the dead past bury its dead; let us act in the living present with all its opportunities, its blessings, its friendships. Let us enter upon the new mile with glad hearts and firm resolves, live while we live and act while we live. Whether we shall finish this mile or add other miles to it is not what matters, but how we do the duty that lies before us, how we overcome our difficulties, how we traverse the mile upon which we have entered—on this depends our happiness and our worthiness. A paragraph in one of the Odes of Horace bears this translation:— "He will live a joyful man and his own master who can say at the end of the day, 'I have lived, whether the Father of all chooses, on the morrow, to fill the sky with black clouds or whether with pure sunlight.'"

PSYCHOLOGY.

The Board of Governors of McGill University has announced that a series of lectures will be given early in the new year by Dr. W. D. Tait, Professor of Psychology.

The series will open with a talk on "Fact and Fiction in Psychology." The second lecture is named "Psychology Gold Bricks," and an examination will be made of the claims of those who sell so-called "psychology secrets." The meaning of the psychological underworld will also be explained in this lecture.

Measurements of the mind, handwriting and phrenology will be dealt with in the third and fourth lectures under the title "Character Reading." A lecture on how special talents are measured and the value of such measurements in vocational advice will follow.

These and kindred subjects will make a most interesting course of lectures as psychology is now known to be one of the great driving forces and hitherto little study has been given to it, particularly in the schools. Our extramural relations are as yet but little understood and it is gratifying to note that one of Canada's leading educational institutions has taken up the subject seriously.

POLITICS IN ONTARIO.

ANNOUNCEMENT having been made that the Ontario Legislature is to meet early in February, says the Montreal Gazette, political prophets in the neighboring province are engaged in the pleasant and, at this distance, perfectly safe pastime of forecasting. Premier Ferguson has given plenty of notice to his opponents, so that they may enter the Assembly armed and well prepared. Mr. Ferguson can well afford to give his opponents all the time for preparation that they desire. If usually dependable indications are to be trusted, his Government enjoys the confidence of the people of Ontario in an exceptional degree. That confidence has been increased rather than diminished by the conduct of provincial and inter-provincial affairs since the general election that swept the U. F. O. Administration out of office. Mr. Ferguson and his colleagues have to their credit a number of important achievements. The list includes the substitution of a sane and sound system of liquor control in place of the extremely creditable conditions that prevailed under the prohibition law; it includes a very marked success in the rehabilitation of the provincial finances, something that required no small effort and no mean administrative capacity, having regard to the character of the legacy inherited from the Farmer Government; it includes a far-seeing policy for the conservation of provincial timber resources, by reforestation and otherwise; it includes hydro-electric energy for use in the Toronto district and in Eastern Ontario; and it includes, last but by no means least, the solution of the old and difficult bilingual school problem. In addition to these accomplishments, Premier Ferguson, in co-operation with the Premier of Quebec, Hon. L. A. Taschereau, has succeeded in putting the relations between the two provinces upon a much more friendly footing, to the advantage of both Ontario and Quebec, and to the sincere gratification of the people in them. Indeed, the common cause that has been established between Quebec and Ontario in regard to matters affecting provincial rights and safeguards has become a factor of major political significance in Canada, and has made, as it was bound to do, a profound impression upon other provinces and in the federal field as well.

EDITORIAL NOTES

It is your duty as well as your privilege to be as happy as you can today and to keep it up to the nearest point to next Christmas that you can haul it to.

The dietetic problem of "how to remove the goosey taste from a goose" has been solved by the Toronto Mail and Empire, which recommends the device of the hotel man who announced that, "in order to prevent guests from taking fruit from the table, no fruit would be put on the table."

Notes by the Way

WIRELESS telegraphy has saved countless lives of passengers and crews at sea and would have been the means of saving thousands more had all the ocean-going ships been equipped with the appliances of this marvellous invention. Its adoption by ships on the high seas has been very widely extended and wireless, which called forth wonder when first made known has now become a recognized necessity, especially on those which carry passengers.

In the vast area of water transportation which we speak of as the Great Lakes there has been very serious disasters and heavy losses of life in recent storms. Unfortunately the vessels which sail the lakes are by no means so generally equipped with wireless as those which ply upon the oceans. In the night and storm they have no means of summoning help, making known their peril, or their need of assistance, or their exact position. Thus the steamer Kamloops and others disappeared beneath the waters with all the people on board, leaving no trace.

The cost of installing, maintaining and operating a wireless outfit accounts for the lack of this equipment on many large vessels that traverse the Great Lakes. Disastrous storms are frequent as long as the waters, and especially during the cold weather and long dark nights which prevail in November and December as navigation is about to close. It is at that period also that lake captains leave port in risky weather to escape the greater peril of being frozen in for the winter. More general wireless equipment is loudly called for and will no doubt be supplied during the coming year.

That the Dominion treasury is "not a grab-bag" is a warning sent out from Liberal headquarters. So much about the overflowing treasury, the coming surplus and the boundless prosperity of the country has been broadcast over the land that we are told demands are "piling up" at Ottawa for new public expenditures and improvements sufficient to empty the Dominion strong box to its bottom. This is not surprising in view of the extravagant expenditure and commitments of the Government and the C. N. R. outside and in advance of what was authorized by Parliament. In face of this prodigal example it was but natural that corporations and individuals supporting the Government have pushed their purpose of exploiting the Treasury.

How alien migration may unsettle the resident Canadian population was told by Dr. George H. Wade at the recent annual meeting of the Union of Alberta Municipalities. Dr. Wade is Mayor of the town of Hanna in that prosperous province. He pointed out that about thirty Rumanian families had settled around that town during the past summer. Six-tenths of them, he said, "purchased farms from good Canadian citizens, thus only replacing a Canadian with a Rumanian. This did not add to the farming population of the province, but merely released an equal number of good Canadians who would drift to the United States. When we consider where many of our immigrants are coming from, said Dr. Wade, "we must inevitably be forced to the conclusion that the Anglo-Saxon strain in our present population is on the decline."

So far it is only the Liberal papers in Canada that challenge Maritime rights to the full quota of the recommendations embodied in the Duncan report. It is true that a number of prominent Liberal journals are heartily with us, but others are inclined to discount, belittle and even oppose our claims as exorbitant. The Manitoba Free Press is conspicuous among the leading journals that evince open hostility. We fail to find any leading Conservative newspaper that assumes a like attitude.

The Christmas season of 1927 has been marked by peace, happiness and good cheer throughout our City and Province in a measure seldom, if ever, exceeded. There was last week something more than the usual activity and bustle of prosperous trade and the post office was thronged with eager citizens dispatching and receiving letters, cards, parcels and messages of affection, and goodwill which went and came to and from far and near. The telegraph and express offices shared largely in these activities. To the great majority of our citizens it was a cheerful and joyous Christmas, looking forward confidently to a Happy and Prosperous New Year. So may it ever be!

THE USE OF SALT

You and I like to use salt on our food, or have it used during the cooking process, and this is only a natural and wise desire on our part. Every animal needs the various mineral salts, and the ordinary table salt, and baking soda, which are called sodium chloride and sodium bicarbonate respectively, are two that are most useful and enjoyable.

However as we grow older it has been found that too much of these salts has a tendency to raise the blood pressure, and experiments would tend to prove that high blood pressure, and the symptoms of high blood pressure, can be reduced and controlled by watching the salt intake with our food.

Dr. E. R. Blarsdell, of Portland, Me., reports 35 cases in which the blood, although the pressure was reduced to normal in but a small number, there was a marked lowering of the blood pressure in practically every case.

"Also there was a decided relief from symptoms in 'all' cases." Although under observation for a comparatively short length of time, the high blood pressure was reduced within the first month, and did not go up again as long as the patient remained faithful to his diet.

The patients went about their ordinary work, and were able to do it with greater ease. Salt was not used in preparing the food nor was it permitted at the table. Baking soda also was not used during the cooking process.

Of course the hard part of this treatment is not being permitted to use the table salt. Now, as mentioned above, the common salt is especially useful in the body, as it stimulates appetite and aids stomach digestion by helping to form the digestive juice itself. It comprises 60 per cent of all the salts in the blood.

Remember the suggestion to cut down on salt intake, applies only to those individuals with high blood pressure. Cereals contain most salts, vegetables next, meat next, and fruits and nuts last of all.

FAVORITE HYMNS AND THEIR WRITERS

By New Archer Wallace

No. 20 "IF YOU CANNOT ON THE OCEAN"

This hymn will always be a favorite with many for no other reason than that it made a profound impression on Abraham Lincoln, and became one of his favorite hymns.

The author was Ellen Huntington (later Mrs. Gates), author of many hymns of charm and simplicity. She wrote this hymn one stormy afternoon during the winter of 1861-2. She was sitting near a window watching the whirling snow, when she felt to muse and, scarcely realizing what she was doing, she wrote the lines of this poem on her slate. "It wrote itself," she said later, "I knew then, as I know now, that the poem was only a simple little thing, but somehow I had a presentiment that it had wings, and would fly into sorrowful hearts, uplifting and strengthening them."

Miss Huntington sent the poem to a newspaper in Cooperstown, New York, and to the New York Examiner, and it appeared in both publications. Soon after it was set to music by Sidney N. Grassini and published.

At the close of the Civil War during the storm of enthusiastic applause which followed, Lincoln handed a hastily scribbled line on a piece of paper to the chairman, ward was chairman and among those present was Mr. Lincoln. During the exercises a popular singer, Mr. Phillips, was called upon to sing and he responded with a song which was cherished through the coming years.

STAR OF BETHLEHEM A Christmas Hymn O wondrous Star of Bethlehem, Shine on our darkened ways, As forth we fare in quest of Him To whom we bring our praise.

Let gladness be in every heart, That Thou dost on us shine To bless this pilgrimage of life And make our ways divide.

Lead us into the ways of love, Where unity may be, Where, one in heart with all who seek, We may be one with Thee.

Lead us into the ways of peace, Where war shall be no more, And might to Right allegiance bear On ocean and on shore.

Lead us in ways of helpfulness, To joy in service done, To cheerfulness in ministry, That so new hope be won.

Lead us in deep humility, To know the maner best, And paths where tread His feet Who had No place to lay His head, And when our faltering steps are led Unto our cross-crowned hill, O wondrous Star, make us to see The light that shines there still!

The Land We Love By Frank Yelgh Reciprocity Treaty

Q. Was there ever a reciprocity treaty between Canada and the United States? If so, when? A. A reciprocity treaty was in force between Canada and the United States from 1855-1866, arranged by Lord Elgin in 1854, the terms of which were that the products of forests, fisheries, mines and farms should have free entrance, and that both should have free use of each other's canals.
