Congratulates P. E. Island On Red Cross Drive

During the course of the Red Cross campaign Mr. Robert Cotton, chairman of the local publicity committee, has been sending each evening a short progress report to Mr. J. N. Kelly, chairman of the National Publicity committee at campaign headquarters in Toronto.

On Friday evening Mr. Cotton wired to Mr. Kelly that Prince Edward Island had that day surpassed the objective of fifty thousand dollars set for this Province. Saturday forenoon Mr. Kelly wired back as follows:

"Congratulations: I knew you would do it. Can you double it."
(Sgd.) J. N. Kelly

Doubling an objective of this type and size is a pretty tall order. However it is now apparent that the total subscribed by Charlottetown and Summerside alone will exceed by a very considerable sum —perhaps five thousand dollars— the original objective for the province. To double that objective would mean that approximately forty-five thousand dollars would have to be subscribed by the fourteen or fifteen thousand farmers and fishermen of the Province and the combined residents of all the smaller towns and villages.

Will they do it? Are the rural areas well enough organized and will the canvass of the homes be sufficiently thorough to attain the result which Mr. Kelly has suggested. Certainly there seems to be a stern determination throughout the Province that no stone be left unturned in order to provide the Red Cross in this Invasion Year with funds sufficient so that the society may be in a position to provide against every contingency — no matter what the casualties or misfortunes may be. And the stream of loaded cars of potatoes and turnips and live stock crossing from Borden to Tormentine each day of late would seem to indicate that the receipts from the sale of such may be ample to enable this Province not only to be the first in Canada to attain its objective but to have the rare distinction of doubling it.

Mr. Kelly throws out quite a challenge. The next two or three weeks will indicate what the result will be.

THE BAPTIST CHURCH

The morning worship was a Boy's Service in which members of the Tuxis and Trail Ranger groups took part, with members of these organizations forming a large part of the notably large congregation. The boys assisting were George MacDonald, Jack Proud Gerald MacAulay, and Maurice Brehaut. The Rev. Allan Gibson Secretary of the Maritime Religious Education Council was the preacher. Mr. Gibson's eloquent message was addressed in part to the older members of the congregation and finally to the boys present. His theme was "preach the gospel." Referring briefly to the threat to society in the increase of juvenile delinquency he submitted the only cure in the gospel of Jesus Christ, presented in the homes, in the church in the community. We look forward to a better world. For such a new and better world we must find a sure foundation, for such a foundation sure and strong and steadfast only the principles of Jests will suffice. The building of a new and better world brings a hard road, but trusting in God we shall richly succeed.

The Junior Choir led in the music of the service. The anthem was Humperdinck's "A Prayer."

The Church School met at 2.30 p.m. with large attendance for this service of Bible Study.

Evening Worship was held at 7 p.m. with sermon by the minister, the Rev. I. Judson Levy who took as his theme "An Invitation to Rest." The communion of the Lord's Supper followed the evening worship. John Inch, Mus. Bac., organist and choirmaster was in charge of the music of the day.

PARCELS SENT FROM CANADIAN HOMES PROE BOOST TO OVERSEAS MORALE

Despite the fact that there are some three hundred odd shopping days before Christmas, the men and women in the Canadian forces overseas will welcome parcels from home, not because their rations are inadequate, but like other mail, parcels are a boost to morale. "Keep them small, but keep them coming," is the theme of many letters arriving from the United Kingdom.

What to send is the question in the minds of many Canadian families. Chocolate bars rich will cocoanut, raisins or nuts if available here are very acceptable, particularly as plain chocolate only is available in England. Dried fruits are also welcomed by soldiers and civilians alike.

If home-made candy is sent (this means saving up some of the sugar and butter ration belonging to the family) it should be poured directly into a cardboard or tin container lined with wax paper. As it travels better whole, it shouldn't be cut into pieces.

Fancy cheese, well wrapped in wax paper, is another welcome suggestion. Plain cheese is plentiful in rations so should not be sent.

Hard cookies and fruit cakes are favorites among the forces. The cookies sent should only be the kinds that will keep well and do not crumble easily.

All the the foods should be packed carefully. In packing cookies, for instance, the box should be lined with wax paper, and thin cardboard should be placed between each layer of cookies.

In sending parcels overseas, sturdy lightweight containers and stout wrapping paper should be used. All parcels should be very securely wrapped and tied.

ST. PAUL'S CHURCH

At yesterday morning's service, the sermon was delivered by the Reverend J. M. Murchison, Secretary of the British and Foreign Bible Society for the Provinces of New Brunswick and Prince Edward Island. Basing what he had to say on words to be found in the 1st Chapter of The Revelation, verses 9 and 10:— "I . . .was in the isle called Patmos; I was in the Spirit on the Lord's day", Mr. Murchison said that trouble is inevitable. We cannot escape from it. And he quoted biblical experiences and other more recent examples showing that the saints of God never have an easy life. The words of Jesus Himself—"In the world ye shall have tribulation; but be of good cheer; I have overcome the world"—these give expression to that truth.

Though we cannot escape tribulation, yet there is a guarantee of grace in trouble. What is the message that God has for us? We can read many of them in the Bible. "Fear thou not, for I am with thee." "Abhor that which is evil, but cling to that which is good." The Voice of God rings out to us through the smoke of battle, through the loneliness of grief and sorrow, in adversities of all kinds. For He has not abdicated. He must reign til He hath put all enemies under His feet.

Reminding his congregation, in the Church and over the air of the sufferings which the people in Britain are called on to bear, Mr. Murchison then spoke of the work that they are doing to spread the Gospel. The Bible, he said, has been published in 37 new languages since the war began. Forty million copies of it had been published; and last year 8,000,000 copies had been published in 751 languages. He called on the people here to relieve and assist more vigorously the work that is being done in Britain; and he asked Prince Edward Island to raise $6,000 for the work of the Society. "My word shall not return unto me void, but it shall accomplish that which I please, and it shall prosper in the thing whereto I sent it."

Pastoral Letter Stresses Value Of Lenten Observance

"In the recognition of the royal prerogatives of Christ, and in the return of individuals and of society to the law of His truth and of His love, lies the only way of salvation," stated His Excellency Rev. J. A. O'Sullivan, Bishop of Charlottetown, in an impressive pastoral letter read in all the Roman Catholic churches of the diocese yesterday.

The Letter emphasised the dangers of sin and the necessity of a "well-organized plan of campaign, the same as in any other type of warfare," in fighting the spiritual battle. "Lent is set aside, as it were, for our basic training in this struggle. It is a time when we are summoned to put aside the manifold distractions of this world, in order to review our lives in the illuminating light of Christ's teachings. From Ash Wednesday to Easter, the Church would have us carefully examine, once more, the blue prints of our Redemption, that we may discover causes of our past failures and defeats, and may derive courage to apply fitting reinforcements for the conflicts which still await us."

Emphasis is placed on the discipline of self-denial in all things which endanger the soul's salvation. The weapons which strike effectively at these enemies of the soul are prayer, fasting and almsgiving, "the three allied forces of all spiritual progress."

The Letter then deals in detail with the laws of the Church regarding the observance of Lent, "in a holy manner, as a public act of faith in God and repentance for our sins," and in keeping it both as individuals and as a community.

Truths of Salvation

The Letter concludes:

"What a changed life we would lead, and what a happier world this would be, if all Christians would reflect earnestly, for a few minutes every day, on the eternal truths of salvation! 'With desolation is the world made desolate, because there is none that considereth in the heart". (Jerem. XII, 11.) Lent gives us the opportunity to "consider in our hearts" all that God has done for us to win our love and grateful service. Those, especially, who are entering the dangerous, formative years of manhood and womanhood, need to think more seriously than ever before, for they are facing the bewildering temptations of a world upset by war, and young people are naturally prone to forget the higher claims of God, if they ever rightly understood them.

"Deep in our hearts must be registered the conviction that Christ is the Son of God, Who came into this world to save us, and "There is no other name under heaven given to men whereby they must be saved". (Acts IV) 12) No matter what this world can offer in the way of any 'new order' for social reform and welfare, it will still be only a human, and therefore an imperfect, solution of life's problems. Such plans are useful if they are governed by Christian principles, and we well know that there are many social injustices which cry aloud for correction. But as St. Paul warns us, "Beware lest any man cheat you by philosophy and vain deceit; according to the tradition of men, according to the elements of the world, and not according to Christ: for in Him dwelleth all the fulness of the Godhead corporeally". (Colossians II. 8-9)

"In the recognition of the royal prerogatives of Christ, and in the return of individuals and of society to the law of His truth and of His love, lies the only way of salvation, as the Holy Father reminded us in his first encyclical. "Thus saith the Lord: Stand ye on the ways and see, and ask for the old paths which is the good way, and walk ye in it and you shall find refreshment for your souls". (Jeremias VI. 16)

"In the name of God, we earnestly exhort you, one and all, to observe this year the very best Lent you have ever made. The war is bringing danger and peril nearer to our homes. In conformity with the teachings of sacred scripture, it has always been a Christian belief that calamities may be averted, or at least mitigated, by a return to God in penance and humble sorrow for sin. In the midst of such a tragic war, in which our future happiness, our future freedom and security will be measured according to our victory, we must take to heart the admonition of Christ's first Vicar on earth: "Be you humbled under the mighty hand of God, that He may exalt you in the time of visitation, casting all your care upon Him, for He hath care of you". (1st Epis., St. Peter V. 6-7)

"The grace of our Lord Jesus Christ be with you all."

THE KIRK OF ST. JAMES

Preaching yesterday morning on the text "There hath no temptation taken you but such as is common to man: but God is faithful, who will not suffer you to be tempted above that ye are able: but will with the temptation also make a way of escape, that ye may be able to bear it." (I Cor. 10:13), the Minister of the Kirk said, "The secret of escape, you will find when you have explored it a little way, lies in getting that whole self of yours up somewhere on some higher level. The one sure sign of progress is to discover on looking back that the ground is higher than it was before. Perhaps you used to lose your temper when someone hurt you; let's say that now you lose it when somebody hurts somebody else. That's higher ground. It may be that formerly there wasn't nearly so much struggle going on in your soul as there is now; but suppose that's because your ideals are loftier than they ever were. Then you're on higher ground. Ten years ago you did things to get out of trouble that you wouldn't think of doing today. The ground is higher. From a person with a mind full of self, let us say that you have become a person mindful of others; from a person with a mind full of expediency you have become a person with a mind full of principle; from a person with a mind full of things you have become a person mindful of God! And you see where it brings us: it brings us to this inevitable Christ whom we have to know better and love more. You realize, don't you, that it isn't our conduct that needs changing, its our desires. And that's precisely what He promises to do for us—do it by His own amazing presence in our souls if we will let Him come there. All we have to see to is that we're getting farther and farther along in knowledge and in faith and in the experience of His friendship: He'll equip us with resources at our command we've never even dreamed of. He will lift us so steadily that what we used to want shall let go its restraining grip and we'll stand as soon as we wish on the summits with Him, in the clean air of a new world! That's God's way of escape.

In Memoriam

In loving memory of our dear Grandpa, Jacob Corney, who passed away March 7th, 1941.

Two years have passed since that sad day
When one we loved was called away
We loved him then, we love him still
Forget him no we never will.

You are not forgotten dear Grandpa
Nor ever shall you be
As long as life and memory last
We will remember thee.

Inserted by His Granddaughter Ruth and Family.
