COLOR OUT-OUTS

Little Ugly Boy

FACING THE BEAR

This is the next to the last part of the old Indian legend of "Ugly Boy." Children who saved the paper dolls every day will have their sets completed tomorrow.

But little Ugly Boy did not move. He was not afraid. "I am eating your nuts," he said.

"These nuts are mine," growled the old bear. "Run away or I shall eat you up. I am bigger and braver than you."

"You may be bigger," said Ugly Boy, "but you are not braver."

"Yes I am," growled the bear, showing all her big teeth.

"I'll tell you what," said Ugly Boy. "First you try to scare me and then I shall try to scare you. The one who wins gets the nuts and seeds."

"Ho, ho!" roared the old bear. "Do you think you can scare me?" Then she gave a loud roar and rushed at little Ugly Boy. "Woo, woo!" she roared. "I'll eat you up. I'll eat you up."

"Color the grandmother's dress brown and tan with a design in green. Her hair is grey and her feather green. Cut a hole for her face to show."

A Bicycle Built for Two!

Of course, you would not often see a C.C.M. Bicycle carrying two people as shown in the picture.

But it is amply strong enough to do so. A C.C.M. is in reality "A Bicycle Built For Two".

This surplus strength is built into the C.C.M. without adding an ounce of unnecessary weight. It is achieved by the use of the very best materials, by special reinforcements of the frame and by rigidity of construction.

This reserve strength is more important than you might, at first, think. It means safety for the rider and long life for the bicycle. The C.C.M. will withstand unusual strains, sudden jolts, unexpected jars far better than a cheaper machine, while bumping over ruts, railway crossings, stones and rough ground is all in the day's work for the C.C.M.

As an example of the reserve strength of the C.C.M., take the frame. It is not of just ordinary quality. It is of English Seamless Tubing, reinforced at the joints. The forks, too, have a drop forged crown, making them practically unbreakable. The bearings are of flint-hard steel. The spokes of specially-drawn and heat-treated wire. The rims of clear maple, tested for strength.

In fact, every one of the 1,761 parts of a C.C.M. is of superior quality and strength. And when you have

1,761 parts, all of superior quality and strength, the result is a bicycle with a wide margin of safety, superiority and long life—in truth, "A Bicycle Built for Two".

Slip into the C.C.M. dealer's. He will be glad to tell you more about the C.C.M. and show you the new models for men, women, boys and girls.

Prices Again Reduced

This year C.C.M. prices have again been reduced. They are now selling at the lowest prices since pre-war days—$20 to $25 less than the after-war "peak" prices. A Big Dollar's value for every dollar you invest.
