

Investments

How to Judge Them

Write Me

LOUIS N. FULLER

INVESTMENTS

Provost St. Phone 90 New Glasgow, N. S.

Securities for all Classes of Investors

We offer for sale in lots to suit purchasers the undermentioned securities. Something to interest all classes of investors.

SEASONED BONDS	Nova Scotia Steel & Coal 5's Stanfield's Limited 6's Trinidad Telephone 6's.
HIGH YIELD SECURITIES	Nova Scotia Car Works 1st Preferred. Nova Scotia Clay Works Preferred. Hewson Pure Wool Textiles Preferred.
SHARES OF SMALL PAR VALUE	Maritime Tel. & Tel. Preferred. Maritime Tel. & Tel. Common. Acadia Sugar Rfg. Co., Preferred.

Price and full particulars will be given upon request

F.B. McCurdy & Co.

Members Montreal Stock Exchange.
Halifax, Montreal, St. John, Sherbrook, Ottawa, Charlottetown, Sydney, St. John's Nfld.

THE EASTERN GUARDIAN

"IT PAYS to buy in this Province."
"F. G. JORDAN is Guardian agent in Souris. His office phone is 5."

"THE MORNING DAILY Guardian can be obtained at H. J. Mabon's Drug Store, Souris."

"T. GORDON IVES is Guardian agent in Montague. His office phone is 18, and residence phone 20."

"THE MORNING DAILY Guardian can be obtained at W. A. Johnston's, Montague."

"SUBSCRIBERS should renew a week or two before the time they have paid for has expired and thus not miss an issue, as all papers are discontinued promptly on expiry date."

"FORTUNE.—The many friends of Mrs. Robert Dingwell will be pleased to learn that she is recovering from her recent illness.—E. S. Johnston is busy preparing to enlarge his lobster business this year.—J.S. Francis and sons of Fortune Bridge are busy building a fox ranch.—Harry Wilt has caught a quantity of smelts on the Fortune River this winter.—Earl Dingwell has his new boat almost completed. This boat will certainly be a credit to the builder.—Wesley W. McKenzie is preparing to go into the poultry business. His many friends wish him every success.—Oscar McDonald has returned home from Scotch-Town, Quebec.—Eastern Light L. O. L. of Fortune Bridge held an entertainment and not supper in their hall on Jan. 21st, 1913, which was a grand success. About 60 ladies and gentlemen sat down to a grand repast prepared by the members of the lodge, in excellent style. Before the supper was partaken of there was excellent music and singing rendered by the Misses Francis and others. Followed by Graphophone selections by Geo. Wood. After the supper Bro. W. R. Webster was appointed to the chair and always gave a pretty and becoming home evening dress, so when the time comes for the guests to arrive you will be able to meet them with a smiling face, instead of being tired and worn out. A kitchen apron is always necessary. It can be discarded at the last moment. When the guests leave they will not only thank you for the delicious dinner, but will wonder how you did it with so little trouble and worry."

"GIVING DINNERS WITHOUT A MAID. Housekeepers who do not keep maids and wish to entertain their friends will find it quite easy if they adopt a little system. First find out just what you are going to serve for dinner, how many courses, how many guests, and at what hour. If possible do your ordering the night before. Go to market and pick out your own material. If grape fruit is to be served prepare it the first thing in the morning and always have a pretty and becoming home evening dress, so when the time comes for the guests to arrive you will be able to meet them with a smiling face, instead of being tired and worn out. A kitchen apron is always necessary. It can be discarded at the last moment. When the guests leave they will not only thank you for the delicious dinner, but will wonder how you did it with so little trouble and worry."

"GOOD CONCERT.—An excellent school entertainment and a successful Xmas dance was held at S. D. No. 1209 near Clarendon in Alberta on the 20th December. Lieut. R.F. Bell of the Alberta Rangers presided. The program consisted of twenty-six numbers and each one gave the audience very real pleasure. The college flag drill, the Xmas carol, the teddy bears drill, the spoon drill, songs by Capt. D. McKinnon of the Alberta Rangers, and the drama in which Sergt. Alex. Bell took the character of "Prof. Pedagogue" were especially appreciated numbers. Santa Claus made his annual appearance in time-honored style and distributed candy, oranges, nuts and presents to all the children. The teacher, W. H. Gordon, formerly of Montague, P. E. I., was presented with much appreciated tokens. Refreshments were served and the evening's entertainment wound up with a Christmas dance. Miss G. Smyth of Calgary presided at the piano, and excellent music was furnished for the dance by the DeForest orchestra.—"L.L."

"A CONSTITUTIONAL. A little 4-year-old girl was walking with her mother, when a caterpillar, the first she had ever seen, crawled in front of them. "Muvver, muvver!" she cried excitedly. "Look! Your muvver's little girl is out taking a walk!"

"DIZZY HEADACHES CURED IN ONE NIGHT. If Troubled With Head-Fullness, Ringing Noises, Specks Before the Eyes, the Stomach is at Fault. Quick Relief and Certain Cure Came From Dr. Hamilton's Pills."

"I had terrible pains in my head. My appetite faded away and when I did eat anything it disagreed and made me very sick for hours after each meal. The pains in my stomach and the dizzy headaches I had to endure almost set me wild. Sometimes attacks came on so severely that I had to go to bed. I would feel so worn, depressed and utterly miserable that for hours I wouldn't speak to my family. My system was poisoned with wastes and nothing helped me till I used Dr. Hamilton's Pills. Without this grand system-cleaning remedy I would be sick, but each day brought me better health and spirits. I was cured and made strong, ruddy and healthy, and will always use and recommend Dr. Hamilton's Pills."

"MRS. B. C. CURRAN, Westport, P. O. Thousands who are in an ailing, low state of health need nothing else but Dr. Hamilton's Pills, 25c. per box, or five boxes for $1.00, at all druggists and storekeepers, or the Catarhazone Company, Buffalo, N. Y., and Kingston, Ont."

"ONE CENT per word each insertion for advertising in this column. Cash must accompany order. Minimum charge twenty-five cents."

"REDUCED SALE.—For a short time only, 20 to 40 per cent off all patent medicines and sundries at Mabon's Drug Store, Souris, P. E. Island."

"WANTED.—Spruce, Fir and Hardwood Logs wanted for which the highest price will be paid. Montague Furnishing Co., Montague. 1-9Mt.

"FRUIT-A-LIVES Saved my Life". NIAGARA FALLS, ONT., JULY 26th, 1912. "For thirteen years, I was a terrible sufferer from the tortures of Sick Headache, Indigestion, Constipation and Vomiting. I could not retain much food, and this, together with the pain, and headaches, was driving me to the grave. Then I used "Fruit-a-lives" and almost at once I got relief. "Fruit-a-lives" stopped the vomiting, relieved the constipation, toned up the stomach, and gave me the first relief in years. I feel that I owe my life to "Fruit-a-lives" and for the sake of other victims of Indigestion and Headaches, I will allow this statement to be published."

"Fruit-a-lives" is sold by all dealers at 50c a box, 6 for $2.50, trial size, 25c, or sent on receipt of price by Fruit-a-lives Limited, Ottawa."

"Mac's Blood Food contains all the good properties of other blood and nerve tonics with other superior qualities all its own. Price a box 50c. The Two Macs. M.B.T.

"THE REAL DISTURBANCE. During sermon time the other day, says a London exchange, a baby began to cry, and its mother carried it toward the door. "Stop!" said the minister, "the baby's not disturbing me." The mother turned towards the pulpit and made the audible remark, "Oh, 'e ain't, 'e ain't!" But you're a disturbin' of 'im!"

"CHARACTER IN LOVE OF OTHERS. Most people do not think of color as revealing character, and yet if one understands the language of color it is very easy to read the character from an individual's favorite shade. Colors are music to the eyes. Some people are greatly affected by them and some are not. Those who are susceptible to color influence will see color in music, in people, and even in the sound of names. "Charles is such a yellow name," some one said, and in the same way the speaker saw color in other words. What are your favorite colors? Let us say orange and old rose. Orange signifies extravagance, deceit, egotism and falsehood. Old rose means sentimentality, love of luxury and refinement. Here are some more meanings:— Applegreen signifies narrow mindedness. Heliotrope signifies love of admiration. Fawn signifies selfishness. Dark Blue signifies honesty and goodness. Crimson signifies self-indulgence, obstinacy. If your favorite colors appeal strongly to other people there is generally a strong sympathy between you."

"MOTHERS. The strength of a nation lies in its mothers. The Spartans recognized this, and trained their girls to be brave, to endure hardships, to be self-sacrificing and pure, and their sons were sent out into life, strong, vigorous, chivalrous and fearless. Behind every invention, heroic deed, poem, or story, stands a great soul, and back of this greatness is the mother who formed the character and was the inspiration and power. The greatest place in the world is not in kings' palaces or in beautiful temples or where the laws of the nations are made, but, in the homes of the people, where, by night and day, women tend little children and train them. Unconsciously we uncover our heads when we meet a mother with her little child. She may be young; she may be poor; she may be inexperienced, but she has power to work mysteries and perform miracles. In sickness, and in health, in toil and in ease, at home and abroad, she lives for the life that is grafted upon her own, scornful of pity, conceiving of no higher honor than by and by to lean on the arm which she has made strong by her strength and to trust to the heart which has been made pure and true by her own purity and fidelity for life. "Drudgery," so she lives for life. "Drudgery," as people call it, but into her who is wise it is a holy mystery. So she lives her life. "In prison house," unknown ones may say; but unto her those eyes have been opened to see mysteries, and far into the future, it is a queen's domain. And then one day, when the world may have forgotten her work, because it was so commonplace, she stands up and puts judges and statesmen, and inventors and poets, to shame, for she has done what they cannot do. She has given a man unto the world, to rule it or a woman unto the world. Her ministry is above ordination. Only Christ's can compare with it."

"MARY'S LITTLE COLD. Mary had a little cold It started in her head And everywhere that Mary went That cold was sure to spread. It followed her to school one day (There wasn't any rule) It made the children cough and sneeze To have that cough in school. The teacher tried to drive it out; She tried hard, but—herch—out! It didn't do a bit of good, For teacher caught it too. —Congregationalist.

"A WEAK, ACHING BACK Caused Her Much Misery. Kept Her From Sleeping Nights. Weak back is caused by weak kidneys and on the first approach or evidence of kidney trouble Doan's Kidney Pills should be used, and serious troubles avoided. Doan's Kidney Pills go right to the seat of the trouble, cure the weak aching back, and prevent any further complications arising. Mrs. W. R. Hodge, Fielding, Sask. writes: "A few lines highly recommending Doan's Kidney Pills. For the past year I have been troubled very much with nasty sick headaches, and a very aching back which caused me much misery for I could not work and had no ambition for anything. My kidney were very badly out of order, and kept me from sleeping at nights. I tried many kinds of pills and medicines, but it seemed almost in vain. I began to give up in despair of ever being well, and strong again, when a kind neighbor advised me to try Doan's Kidney Pills, which I did, and am thankful for the relief I obtained from them, for now I am never troubled with a sick back or sick headaches. I will always use Doan's Kidney Pills for mine and can highly recommend them to any sufferer. Price, 20 cents per box, 3 boxes for $1.25, or all dealers, or mailed direct on receipt of price by The T. Millbur Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont. When ordering direct, specify "Doan's."

"MOTHERS. The strength of a nation lies in its mothers. The Spartans recognized this, and trained their girls to be brave, to endure hardships, to be self-sacrificing and pure, and their sons were sent out into life, strong, vigorous, chivalrous and fearless. Behind every invention, heroic deed, poem, or story, stands a great soul, and back of this greatness is the mother who formed the character and was the inspiration and power. The greatest place in the world is not in kings' palaces or in beautiful temples or where the laws of the nations are made, but, in the homes of the people, where, by night and day, women tend little children and train them. Unconsciously we uncover our heads when we meet a mother with her little child. She may be young; she may be poor; she may be inexperienced, but she has power to work mysteries and perform miracles. In sickness, and in health, in toil and in ease, at home and abroad, she lives for the life that is grafted upon her own, scornful of pity, conceiving of no higher honor than by and by to lean on the arm which she has made strong by her strength and to trust to the heart which has been made pure and true by her own purity and fidelity for life. "Drudgery," so she lives for life. "Drudgery," as people call it, but into her who is wise it is a holy mystery. So she lives her life. "In prison house," unknown ones may say; but unto her those eyes have been opened to see mysteries, and far into the future, it is a queen's domain. And then one day, when the world may have forgotten her work, because it was so commonplace, she stands up and puts judges and statesmen, and inventors and poets, to shame, for she has done what they cannot do. She has given a man unto the world, to rule it or a woman unto the world. Her ministry is above ordination. Only Christ's can compare with it."

"MOTHERS. The strength of a nation lies in its mothers. The Spartans recognized this, and trained their girls to be brave, to endure hardships, to be self-sacrificing and pure, and their sons were sent out into life, strong, vigorous, chivalrous and fearless. Behind every invention, heroic deed, poem, or story, stands a great soul, and back of this greatness is the mother who formed the character and was the inspiration and power. The greatest place in the world is not in kings' palaces or in beautiful temples or where the laws of the nations are made, but, in the homes of the people, where, by night and day, women tend little children and train them. Unconsciously we uncover our heads when we meet a mother with her little child. She may be young; she may be poor; she may be inexperienced, but she has power to work mysteries and perform miracles. In sickness, and in health, in toil and in ease, at home and abroad, she lives for the life that is grafted upon her own, scornful of pity, conceiving of no higher honor than by and by to lean on the arm which she has made strong by her strength and to trust to the heart which has been made pure and true by her own purity and fidelity for life. "Drudgery," so she lives for life. "Drudgery," as people call it, but into her who is wise it is a holy mystery. So she lives her life. "In prison house," unknown ones may say; but unto her those eyes have been opened to see mysteries, and far into the future, it is a queen's domain. And then one day, when the world may have forgotten her work, because it was so commonplace, she stands up and puts judges and statesmen, and inventors and poets, to shame, for she has done what they cannot do. She has given a man unto the world, to rule it or a woman unto the world. Her ministry is above ordination. Only Christ's can compare with it."

"MOTHERS. The strength of a nation lies in its mothers. The Spartans recognized this, and trained their girls to be brave, to endure hardships, to be self-sacrificing and pure, and their sons were sent out into life, strong, vigorous, chivalrous and fearless. Behind every invention, heroic deed, poem, or story, stands a great soul, and back of this greatness is the mother who formed the character and was the inspiration and power. The greatest place in the world is not in kings' palaces or in beautiful temples or where the laws of the nations are made, but, in the homes of the people, where, by night and day, women tend little children and train them. Unconsciously we uncover our heads when we meet a mother with her little child. She may be young; she may be poor; she may be inexperienced, but she has power to work mysteries and perform miracles. In sickness, and in health, in toil and in ease, at home and abroad, she lives for the life that is grafted upon her own, scornful of pity, conceiving of no higher honor than by and by to lean on the arm which she has made strong by her strength and to trust to the heart which has been made pure and true by her own purity and fidelity for life. "Drudgery," so she lives for life. "Drudgery," as people call it, but into her who is wise it is a holy mystery. So she lives her life. "In prison house," unknown ones may say; but unto her those eyes have been opened to see mysteries, and far into the future, it is a queen's domain. And then one day, when the world may have forgotten her work, because it was so commonplace, she stands up and puts judges and statesmen, and inventors and poets, to shame, for she has done what they cannot do. She has given a man unto the world, to rule it or a woman unto the world. Her ministry is above ordination. Only Christ's can compare with it."

"MOTHERS. The strength of a nation lies in its mothers. The Spartans recognized this, and trained their girls to be brave, to endure hardships, to be self-sacrificing and pure, and their sons were sent out into life, strong, vigorous, chivalrous and fearless. Behind every invention, heroic deed, poem, or story, stands a great soul, and back of this greatness is the mother who formed the character and was the inspiration and power. The greatest place in the world is not in kings' palaces or in beautiful temples or where the laws of the nations are made, but, in the homes of the people, where, by night and day, women tend little children and train them. Unconsciously we uncover our heads when we meet a mother with her little child. She may be young; she may be poor; she may be inexperienced, but she has power to work mysteries and perform miracles. In sickness, and in health, in toil and in ease, at home and abroad, she lives for the life that is grafted upon her own, scornful of pity, conceiving of no higher honor than by and by to lean on the arm which she has made strong by her strength and to trust to the heart which has been made pure and true by her own purity and fidelity for life. "Drudgery," so she lives for life. "Drudgery," as people call it, but into her who is wise it is a holy mystery. So she lives her life. "In prison house," unknown ones may say; but unto her those eyes have been opened to see mysteries, and far into the future, it is a queen's domain. And then one day, when the world may have forgotten her work, because it was so commonplace, she stands up and puts judges and statesmen, and inventors and poets, to shame, for she has done what they cannot do. She has given a man unto the world, to rule it or a woman unto the world. Her ministry is above ordination. Only Christ's can compare with it."

"MOTHERS. The strength of a nation lies in its mothers. The Spartans recognized this, and trained their girls to be brave, to endure hardships, to be self-sacrificing and pure, and their sons were sent out into life, strong, vigorous, chivalrous and fearless. Behind every invention, heroic deed, poem, or story, stands a great soul, and back of this greatness is the mother who formed the character and was the inspiration and power. The greatest place in the world is not in kings' palaces or in beautiful temples or where the laws of the nations are made, but, in the homes of the people, where, by night and day, women tend little children and train them. Unconsciously we uncover our heads when we meet a mother with her little child. She may be young; she may be poor; she may be inexperienced, but she has power to work mysteries and perform miracles. In sickness, and in health, in toil and in ease, at home and abroad, she lives for the life that is grafted upon her own, scornful of pity, conceiving of no higher honor than by and by to lean on the arm which she has made strong by her strength and to trust to the heart which has been made pure and true by her own purity and fidelity for life. "Drudgery," so she lives for life. "Drudgery," as people call it, but into her who is wise it is a holy mystery. So she lives her life. "In prison house," unknown ones may say; but unto her those eyes have been opened to see mysteries, and far into the future, it is a queen's domain. And then one day, when the world may have forgotten her work, because it was so commonplace, she stands up and puts judges and statesmen, and inventors and poets, to shame, for she has done what they cannot do. She has given a man unto the world, to rule it or a woman unto the world. Her ministry is above ordination. Only Christ's can compare with it."

"MOTHERS. The strength of a nation lies in its mothers. The Spartans recognized this, and trained their girls to be brave, to endure hardships, to be self-sacrificing and pure, and their sons were sent out into life, strong, vigorous, chivalrous and fearless. Behind every invention, heroic deed, poem, or story, stands a great soul, and back of this greatness is the mother who formed the character and was the inspiration and power. The greatest place in the world is not in kings' palaces or in beautiful temples or where the laws of the nations are made, but, in the homes of the people, where, by night and day, women tend little children and train them. Unconsciously we uncover our heads when we meet a mother with her little child. She may be young; she may be poor; she may be inexperienced, but she has power to work mysteries and perform miracles. In sickness, and in health, in toil and in ease, at home and abroad, she lives for the life that is grafted upon her own, scornful of pity, conceiving of no higher honor than by and by to lean on the arm which she has made strong by her strength and to trust to the heart which has been made pure and true by her own purity and fidelity for life. "Drudgery," so she lives for life. "Drudgery," as people call it, but into her who is wise it is a holy mystery. So she lives her life. "In prison house," unknown ones may say; but unto her those eyes have been opened to see mysteries, and far into the future, it is a queen's domain. And then one day, when the world may have forgotten her work, because it was so commonplace, she stands up and puts judges and statesmen, and inventors and poets, to shame, for she has done what they cannot do. She has given a man unto the world, to rule it or a woman unto the world. Her ministry is above ordination. Only Christ's can compare with it."

"MOTHERS. The strength of a nation lies in its mothers. The Spartans recognized this, and trained their girls to be brave, to endure hardships, to be self-sacrificing and pure, and their sons were sent out into life, strong, vigorous, chivalrous and fearless. Behind every invention, heroic deed, poem, or story, stands a great soul, and back of this greatness is the mother who formed the character and was the inspiration and power. The greatest place in the world is not in kings' palaces or in beautiful temples or where the laws of the nations are made, but, in the homes of the people, where, by night and day, women tend little children and train them. Unconsciously we uncover our heads when we meet a mother with her little child. She may be young; she may be poor; she may be inexperienced, but she has power to work mysteries and perform miracles. In sickness, and in health, in toil and in ease, at home and abroad, she lives for the life that is grafted upon her own, scornful of pity, conceiving of no higher honor than by and by to lean on the arm which she has made strong by her strength and to trust to the heart which has been made pure and true by her own purity and fidelity for life. "Drudgery," so she lives for life. "Drudgery," as people call it, but into her who is wise it is a holy mystery. So she lives her life. "In prison house," unknown ones may say; but unto her those eyes have been opened to see mysteries, and far into the future, it is a queen's domain. And then one day, when the world may have forgotten her work, because it was so commonplace, she stands up and puts judges and statesmen, and inventors and poets, to shame, for she has done what they cannot do. She has given a man unto the world, to rule it or a woman unto the world. Her ministry is above ordination. Only Christ's can compare with it."

"MOTHERS. The strength of a nation lies in its mothers. The Spartans recognized this, and trained their girls to be brave, to endure hardships, to be self-sacrificing and pure, and their sons were sent out into life, strong, vigorous, chivalrous and fearless. Behind every invention, heroic deed, poem, or story, stands a great soul, and back of this greatness is the mother who formed the character and was the inspiration and power. The greatest place in the world is not in kings' palaces or in beautiful temples or where the laws of the nations are made, but, in the homes of the people, where, by night and day, women tend little children and train them. Unconsciously we uncover our heads when we meet a mother with her little child. She may be young; she may be poor; she may be inexperienced, but she has power to work mysteries and perform miracles. In sickness, and in health, in toil and in ease, at home and abroad, she lives for the life that is grafted upon her own, scornful of pity, conceiving of no higher honor than by and by to lean on the arm which she has made strong by her strength and to trust to the heart which has been made pure and true by her own purity and fidelity for life. "Drudgery," so she lives for life. "Drudgery," as people call it, but into her who is wise it is a holy mystery. So she lives her life. "In prison house," unknown ones may say; but unto her those eyes have been opened to see mysteries, and far into the future, it is a queen's domain. And then one day, when the world may have forgotten her work, because it was so commonplace, she stands up and puts judges and statesmen, and inventors and poets, to shame, for she has done what they cannot do. She has given a man unto the world, to rule it or a woman unto the world. Her ministry is above ordination. Only Christ's can compare with it."

"MOTHERS. The strength of a nation lies in its mothers. The Spartans recognized this, and trained their girls to be brave, to endure hardships, to be self-sacrificing and pure, and their sons were sent out into life, strong, vigorous, chivalrous and fearless. Behind every invention, heroic deed, poem, or story, stands a great soul, and back of this greatness is the mother who formed the character and was the inspiration and power. The greatest place in the world is not in kings' palaces or in beautiful temples or where the laws of the nations are made, but, in the homes of the people, where, by night and day, women tend little children and train them. Unconsciously we uncover our heads when we meet a mother with her little child. She may be young; she may be poor; she may be inexperienced, but she has power to work mysteries and perform miracles. In sickness, and in health, in toil and in ease, at home and abroad, she lives for the life that is grafted upon her own, scornful of pity, conceiving of no higher honor than by and by to lean on the arm which she has made strong by her strength and to trust to the heart which has been made pure and true by her own purity and fidelity for life. "Drudgery," so she lives for life. "Drudgery," as people call it, but into her who is wise it is a holy mystery. So she lives her life. "In prison house," unknown ones may say; but unto her those eyes have been opened to see mysteries, and far into the future, it is a queen's domain. And then one day, when the world may have forgotten her work, because it was so commonplace, she stands up and puts judges and statesmen, and inventors and poets, to shame, for she has done what they cannot do. She has given a man unto the world, to rule it or a woman unto the world. Her ministry is above ordination. Only Christ's can compare with it."

"MOTHERS. The strength of a nation lies in its mothers. The Spartans recognized this, and trained their girls to be brave, to endure hardships, to be self-sacrificing and pure, and their sons were sent out into life, strong, vigorous, chivalrous and fearless. Behind every invention, heroic deed, poem, or story, stands a great soul, and back of this greatness is the mother who formed the character and was the inspiration and power. The greatest place in the world is not in kings' palaces or in beautiful temples or where the laws of the nations are made, but, in the homes of the people, where, by night and day, women tend little children and train them. Unconsciously we uncover our heads when we meet a mother with her little child. She may be young; she may be poor; she may be inexperienced, but she has power to work mysteries and perform miracles. In sickness, and in health, in toil and in ease, at home and abroad, she lives for the life that is grafted upon her own, scornful of pity, conceiving of no higher honor than by and by to lean on the arm which she has made strong by her strength and to trust to the heart which has been made pure and true by her own purity and fidelity for life. "Drudgery," so she lives for life. "Drudgery," as people call it, but into her who is wise it is a holy mystery. So she lives her life. "In prison house," unknown ones may say; but unto her those eyes have been opened to see mysteries, and far into the future, it is a queen's domain. And then one day, when the world may have forgotten her work, because it was so commonplace, she stands up and puts judges and statesmen, and inventors and poets, to shame, for she has done what they cannot do. She has given a man unto the world, to rule it or a woman unto the world. Her ministry is above ordination. Only Christ's can compare with it."

"MOTHERS. The strength of a nation lies in its mothers. The Spartans recognized this, and trained their girls to be brave, to endure hardships, to be self-sacrificing and pure, and their sons were sent out into life, strong, vigorous, chivalrous and fearless. Behind every invention, heroic deed, poem, or story, stands a great soul, and back of this greatness is the mother who formed the character and was the inspiration and power. The greatest place in the world is not in kings' palaces or in beautiful temples or where the laws of the nations are made, but, in the homes of the people, where, by night and day, women tend little children and train them. Unconsciously we uncover our heads when we meet a mother with her little child. She may be young; she may be poor; she may be inexperienced, but she has power to work mysteries and perform miracles. In sickness, and in health, in toil and in ease, at home and abroad, she lives for the life that is grafted upon her own, scornful of pity, conceiving of no higher honor than by and by to lean on the arm which she has made strong by her strength and to trust to the heart which has been made pure and true by her own purity and fidelity for life. "Drudgery," so she lives for life. "Drudgery," as people call it, but into her who is wise it is a holy mystery. So she lives her life. "In prison house," unknown ones may say; but unto her those eyes have been opened to see mysteries, and far into the future, it is a queen's domain. And then one day, when the world may have forgotten her work, because it was so commonplace, she stands up and puts judges and statesmen, and inventors and poets, to shame, for she has done what they cannot do. She has given a man unto the world, to rule it or a woman unto the world. Her ministry is above ordination. Only Christ's can compare with it."

"MOTHERS. The strength of a nation lies in its mothers. The Spartans recognized this, and trained their girls to be brave, to endure hardships, to be self-sacrificing and pure, and their sons were sent out into life, strong, vigorous, chivalrous and fearless. Behind every invention, heroic deed, poem, or story, stands a great soul, and back of this greatness is the mother who formed the character and was the inspiration and power. The greatest place in the world is not in kings' palaces or in beautiful temples or where the laws of the nations are made, but, in the homes of the people, where, by night and day, women tend little children and train them. Unconsciously we uncover our heads when we meet a mother with her little child. She may be young; she may be poor; she may be inexperienced, but she has power to work mysteries and perform miracles. In sickness, and in health, in toil and in ease, at home and abroad, she lives for the life that is grafted upon her own, scornful of pity, conceiving of no higher honor than by and by to lean on the arm which she has made strong by her strength and to trust to the heart which has been made pure and true by her own purity and fidelity for life. "Drudgery," so she lives for life. "Drudgery," as people call it, but into her who is wise it is a holy mystery. So she lives her life. "In prison house," unknown ones may say; but unto her those eyes have been opened to see mysteries, and far into the future, it is a queen's domain. And then one day, when the world may have forgotten her work, because it was so commonplace, she stands up and puts judges and statesmen, and inventors and poets, to shame, for she has done what they cannot do. She has given a man unto the world, to rule it or a woman unto the world. Her ministry is above ordination. Only Christ's can compare with it."

"MOTHERS. The strength of a nation lies in its mothers. The Spartans recognized this, and trained their girls to be brave, to endure hardships, to be self-sacrificing and pure, and their sons were sent out into life, strong, vigorous, chivalrous and fearless. Behind every invention, heroic deed, poem, or story, stands a great soul, and back of this greatness is the mother who formed the character and was the inspiration and power. The greatest place in the world is not in kings' palaces or in beautiful temples or where the laws of the nations are made, but, in the homes of the people, where, by night and day, women tend little children and train them. Unconsciously we uncover our heads when we meet a mother with her little child. She may be young; she may be poor; she may be inexperienced, but she has power to work mysteries and perform miracles. In sickness, and in health, in toil and in ease, at home and abroad, she lives for the life that is grafted upon her own, scornful of pity, conceiving of no higher honor than by and by to lean on the arm which she has made strong by her strength and to trust to the heart which has been made pure and true by her own purity and fidelity for life. "Drudgery," so she lives for life. "Drudgery," as people call it, but into her who is wise it is a holy mystery. So she lives her life. "In prison house," unknown ones may say; but unto her those eyes have been opened to see mysteries, and far into the future, it is a queen's domain. And then one day, when the world may have forgotten her work, because it was so commonplace, she stands up and puts judges and statesmen, and inventors and poets, to shame, for she has done what they cannot do. She has given a man unto the world, to rule it or a woman unto the world. Her ministry is above ordination. Only Christ's can compare with it."

DRIVING HIM TO THE GRAVE

"Fruit-a-lives Saved my Life". NIAGARA FALLS, ONT., JULY 26th, 1912. "For thirteen years, I was a terrible sufferer from the tortures of Sick Headache, Indigestion, Constipation and Vomiting. I could not retain much food, and this, together with the pain, and headaches, was driving me to the grave. Then I used "Fruit-a-lives" and almost at once I got relief. "Fruit-a-lives" stopped the vomiting, relieved the constipation, toned up the stomach, and gave me the first relief in years. I feel that I owe my life to "Fruit-a-lives" and for the sake of other victims of Indigestion and Headaches, I will allow this statement to be published."

"Fruit-a-lives" is sold by all dealers at 50c a box, 6 for $2.50, trial size, 25c, or sent on receipt of price by Fruit-a-lives Limited, Ottawa."

"Fruit-a-lives" is sold by all dealers at 50c a box, 6 for $2.50, trial size, 25c, or sent on receipt of price by Fruit-a-lives Limited, Ottawa."

"Fruit-a-lives" is sold by all dealers at 50c a box, 6 for $2.50, trial size, 25c, or sent on receipt of price by Fruit-a-lives Limited, Ottawa."

"Fruit-a-lives" is sold by all dealers at 50c a box, 6 for $2.50, trial size, 25c, or sent on receipt of price by Fruit-a-lives Limited, Ottawa."

"Fruit-a-lives" is sold by all dealers at 50c a box, 6 for $2.50, trial size, 25c, or sent on receipt of price by Fruit-a-lives Limited, Ottawa."

"Fruit-a-lives" is sold by all dealers at 50c a box, 6 for $2.50, trial size, 25c, or sent on receipt of price by Fruit-a-lives Limited, Ottawa."

"Fruit-a-lives" is sold by all dealers at 50c a box, 6 for $2.50, trial size, 25c, or sent on receipt of price by Fruit-a-lives Limited, Ottawa."

"Fruit-a-lives" is sold by all dealers at 50c a box, 6 for $2.50, trial size, 25c, or sent on receipt of price by Fruit-a-lives Limited, Ottawa."

"Fruit-a-lives" is sold by all dealers at 50c a box, 6 for $2.50, trial size, 25c, or sent on receipt of price by Fruit-a-lives Limited, Ottawa."

"Fruit-a-lives" is sold by all dealers at 50c a box, 6 for $2.50, trial size, 25c, or sent on receipt of price by Fruit-a-lives Limited, Ottawa."

"Fruit-a-lives" is sold by all dealers at 50c a box, 6 for $2.50, trial size, 25c, or sent on receipt of price by Fruit-a-lives Limited, Ottawa."

"Fruit-a-lives" is sold by all dealers at 50c a box, 6 for $2.50, trial size, 25c, or sent on receipt of price by Fruit-a-lives Limited, Ottawa."

"Fruit-a-lives" is sold by all dealers at 50c a box, 6 for $2.50, trial size, 25c, or sent on receipt of price by Fruit-a-lives Limited, Ottawa."

"Fruit-a-lives" is sold by all dealers at 50c a box, 6 for $2.50, trial size, 25c, or sent on receipt of price by Fruit-a-lives Limited, Ottawa."

"Fruit-a-lives" is sold by all dealers at 50c a box, 6 for $2.50, trial size, 25c, or sent on receipt of price by Fruit-a-lives Limited, Ottawa."

"Fruit-a-lives" is sold by all dealers at 50c a box, 6 for $2.50, trial size, 25c, or sent on receipt of price by Fruit-a-lives Limited, Ottawa."

"Fruit-a-lives" is sold by all dealers at 50c a box, 6 for $2.50, trial size, 25c, or sent on receipt of price by Fruit-a-lives Limited, Ottawa."

"Fruit-a-lives" is sold by all dealers at 50c a box, 6 for $2.50, trial size, 25c, or sent on receipt of price by Fruit-a-lives Limited, Ottawa."

"Fruit-a-lives" is sold by all dealers at 50c a box, 6 for $2.50, trial size, 25c, or sent on receipt of price by Fruit-a-lives Limited, Ottawa."