WAR CANNING BULLETIN
Issued by Canada Food Board

PUT IN YOUR RESERVE
In spite of the season's hard work in his war garden this chap has quite a reserve of strength yet and has just been advising his wife to put her reserve into the cellar and pantry—to do it up in jars and seal it tight. In telling her this, he is only repeating what the Food Board and other organizations have been saying ever since the first seed was planted in the war garden of 1918. Even the woman who thinks she knows all about canning can learn something from the booklet issued by the Canada Food Board on the canning, drying and storing of fruit and vegetables. Send to any of the provincial committees for it, enclosing five cents.

DOGS AND OTHER ANIMALS

Sir,—I see in the last issue of your valuable journal a somewhat lengthy article on sheep killing dogs. Your remarks are timely and proper, but what about other animals allowed to roam at large and destroy a man's crop while he sleeps. I have been advocating the keeping in of all domestic animals and I fail to see where the difference comes in as to destroying sheep; or destroying crop;—wheat at present is as valuable as sheep, and under our laws as at present constitutes, a man's wheat field is no more safe than his sheep are. What I contend for is that a man should have power to shoot every and all animals he find trespassing on his property fence or no fence. If a man is compelled to fence his wheat, why not his sheep and his orchard and his garden. I hope to see the day when we shall have a law that will protect the farmer and the gardener from the ravages of worthless animals turned out on the public roads to annoy and destroy. I am Sir, etc.
