200 Bombers Blast Bremen; Commandos Land On French Coast Supported By Royal Navy.

By Drew Middleton
Associated Press Staff Writer

LONDON, June 4—(AP)—British bombers have resumed their attacks against the Nazi continent today in 24 hours of ceaseless assault, following their preparations for the attack on the continent of Europe. A force of perhaps 200 big bombers blasted Bremen in the early morning darkness. Commandos landed on the French coast in the very heart of the invasion area, between Boulogne and the German gambling resort of Le Havre.

They brought back valuable information for evaluation by Allied generals here, at a time when Allied plans for the future are being discussed in Washington.

In Wake of Commandos

Today, in the wake of the Commandos, fighters and light bombers attacked targets in the Pas de Calais region, the British sky was filled with the roar of engines and the sound of exploding bombs. The attack on Bremen, although small in comparison with the four-engine "heavy raids" on Cologne and Essen, was called "extremely successful" by an air informant. He said the raid did proportionately as much damage to the crowded North Sea coast as the crowded North Sea coast for Nazi submarine bases and aircraft manufacture as well as the larger Ruhr attacks.

Big Flares Used

The city was brightly lit by flares and incendiary bombs. The R. A. F. lost 10 planes. Bremen, normally a city of 325,000 on the banks of the Weser, is said only to Hamburg as a German port. It is a 30-minute flight from England. The docks at Dieppe, France, and other enemy airbases also were hit.

Information Is Corrected By Minister

Joint Canadian-U. S. Defence Plans Put Into Operation.

OTTAWA, June 4—(CP)—Defence Minister Ralston gave the House of Commons word late today that the Japanese have made only one actual attack on the United States naval base at Dutch Harbor, Alaska, correcting information he gave the chamber earlier that there apparently had been three.

Reports Unfounded

"A message has been received from the Pacific command—and honorable members will be glad to know this—the effect that a further report or further messages which they have received indicates that the reports which came, purporting to be from official sources, regarding the second and third attacks on Dutch Harbor, are unfounded, and that there was only one attack."

Tea Is Rationed

AN ALLIED AIR BASE IN INDIA, May 29—(Delayed)—(AP)—Daily through fair weather and foul, R. A. F. fighters and bombers smash at the salvaged steamers and crude bamboo rafts which bring Japanese troops and equipment up the winding, muddy waters of the Chindwin River, where the Naga footpaths range along the border of Burma and Assam, India's easternmost province.

War Situation Last Night

Japan's air raids on the Dutch Harbor naval base, Unalaska, can be written off as scouting forays on the basis of information so far available from Washington. They had none of the earmarks of an operation of greater scope than to find out what was going on at that potential springboard for American attack on Japan. That appears to be the Washington conclusion. The fact that no bombs were dropped during the second enemy flight over the base tends to confirm it. The six-hour time lapse between the two daylight sweeps also strongly supports the navy conclusion that the planes involved were launched from a small carrier.

Heydrich Dies And Many More Czechs Executed

LONDON, June 4—(AP)—Reinhard Heydrich, scourge of Nazi occupied Europe, died in Prague today while the rifles of his Gestapo took terrible revenge among the populace for his assassination, and tonight the German government prepared to bury him with macabre pomp and ceremony. Twenty-four more Czechs, including three women, were executed in Prague, and Brun, today following the announcement of Heydrich's death, the Prague radio announced tonight. But the bloody terror loosed by henchmen of Hitler's hangman, which already has claimed the lives of 187 hostages in Bohemia and Moravia, was building up its own counter-terror. The German radio itself revealed that Nazis in the protectorate of Bohemia and Moravia were feeling the hand that strikes by night; the revenge of patriot-assassins who come by parachute from abroad to reply with bomb, fire and steel for the subjugation of their homeland. Indeed, a Nazi broadcast this evening, giving what purported to be the details of Heydrich's fatal
