

First Quality, Three Thread
Chiffon Hose
 REGULARLY $1.15
for $1.00

Here is a tempting opportunity which calls for prompt action as the quantity is limited.

First quality three thread chiffon stockings in two shades only, both perfect for summer days . . . CALIFORNIA SUN and CLARION. We have all sizes from 9 to 10 1-2 in this regular $1.15 stocking FRIDAY AND SATURDAY ——— $1.00 Pair

You made it yourself?

Here are the Fabrics You'll Want

"She has such good hands" say they, when they see the clever new dress that you made yourself. And in these days of perfect patterns it's not so much of a problem. Find the design you like in the BUTTERICK or HOLLYWOOD pattern book . . . get the fabric and you're "well away."

American shantung in all colors, spotted and figured 38" wide 98c yd. — Washable the only thing for servicable wearing.

Alpine cloth the best thing for beach suits and slacks 54" wide in soldier blue, turquoise, dusk, rose and white. Yard ——— $1.85

Striped shantung in all colorful stripes for blouses, 38" wide 59c — Printed sheers in every color and design 38" wide 98c yard.

Friday and Saturday bring for you
$1.00 GLOVES at 89c

GLOVES—white and natural in net and silk. Reg. $1.00 for ——— 89c pr.

UMBRELLAS—Pleasheen and silk in white, black navy, wine and green. $3.00. Special Price ——— $2.69

HANDKERCHIEFS—Pure linen initialed handkerchiefs 40c each, special price, 3 for $1.00

COLLARS—in eyelid embroidery and piquet. Peter-pan and sailor style in colors, white, pink, navy and light blue. 25 per cent off.

MOORE & McLEOD limited

CENTRAL GUARDIAN

This column is reserved for news of local interest, but advertising of a newy nati a may be inserted at 5 cents a word, strictly payable in advance.

CRASWELL for Photographs.

CONFEDERATION LIFE INSURANCE. L-9789.

AN EXCELLENT SHOWING ladies spring coats at greatly reduced prices. Kennedy's, 154 Great George Street. L-560-7-19-11.

JUST ARRIVED—A fine assortment of ladies sweaters. Kennedy's Ladies to Wear, 154 Great George Street. L-560-7-19-11.

TRYON BAPTIST CHURCH. Rev. W. H. Johnston will preach at Westmoreland 11 A. M. Tryon 3 P. M. Albany 7:30 P. M. L-566-7-19-11.

BUNTAIL, BELL & Company will be receiving freight between July 21st and 25th for shipment to Montreal. L-560-7-17-31.

REV. I. JUDSON LEVY will conduct service in the Baptist Church at Marshfield on Sunday afternoon, July 20th at 2:30. Standard Time. L-540-7-19-11.

BRADALBANE AND NORTH TRYON. Service at the Presbyterian Churches at 11 A. M. and 7:30 P. M. respectively Sunday, July 20th L-561-7-19-11.

KNIGHTS OF COLUMBUS Members will please meet at the home of the late Brother Ernest Quinn this morning at 9:30 to attend his funeral at St. Dunstan's Basilica. L-552-7-19-11.

ENGAGEMENT ANNOUNCED. Mr. and Mrs. James McCardie, Kinkora, announce the engagement of their daughter Mary Ethel to John Patrick Keefe, of Philadelphia son of John Keefe and the late Mrs. Keefe of Kinkora. Marriage to take place early in August. L-526-7-19-11.

CORNWALL PASTORAL CHARGE. Services on Sunday, July 20th. New Dominion: S. S. 10 A. M. Service 11 A. M. Kingston: S. S. 10 A. M. Service 3 P. M. Cornwall: S. S. 11 A. M. Service 7:30 P. M. Rev. E. R. Woodside, Minister. L-542-7-19-11.

NORTH RIVER BAPTIST CHURCHES. Services, Sunday, July 20th. Fairview 11 A. M. North River 3 P. M. The Kingsmen Service will be conducted by Mr. Stephen Ackland assisted by Mrs. Todd. A. E. Todd, Minister. L-553-7-19-11.

PASSED EXAMINATIONS. The pupils from New London School who tried the Grades VII exams all passed successfully namely, Robert Mayhew, Winnifred MacKay, Norman Dunning, Donald Buntain. Much credit is due their teacher Miss Catherine MacCallum of Summerside.

THE BAPTIST CHURCH. The Rev. I. Judson Levy will take as the subject of his morning sermon "The Still Small Voice". Miss Pearl Burns will sing a selected solo at this service. The Church School meets in connection with the morning service. At the evening service the Rev. on A. Pharisec will deliver a sermon. Roy Smallman will sing a selected solo. In the absence of John Inch, Mrs. Bae, on vacation, Miss Thekla Burns takes the organ.

ENGAGEMENT. Of much interest to friends throughout the Maritime Provinces will be the announcement of the engagement of Miss Evelyn Mildred Conrad, daughter of Daniel E. Conrad and Mrs. Conrad, of Charlottetown, to Lieutenant Charles MacKinnon Galbraith, P. E. I. Highlanders, formerly of Charlottetown, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Edward Galbraith of Arbroath, Scotland. The wedding will take place in the near future.

OFFICERS WANTED
To Adjust
Labor Conditions

In view of war conditions and to take care of future needs, the Civil Service Commission, Ottawa, is advertising a total of seven Labour Relations Officers and three Labour Relations Specialists, for the Department of Labour at Ottawa, who may be appointed from the competition now being advertised. Notice of which has already appeared in the press. The salaries of these positions range from $1920 to $4800 per annum.

The principal functions of these officials will be to act as mediators in industrial disputes. They will also be concerned with the study of industrial conditions and various problems arising in the relations between industry and labour. Men with a broad understanding of labour and industrial conditions, who have shown ability in the conduct of negotiations, are required for this type of work.

The time limit for the receipt of applications at Ottawa is July 30, 1941.

All Sleeping Car Train!
Air-Conditioned Comfort!

A fast, modern train comprising observation-lounge car, dining car, and standard, compartment and drawing room sleeping cars. Morning arrival in Montreal, daily.

Also leaving from Halifax for Montreal are two other fine Canadian National trains: . . . The Scotian and the Maritime Express.

For full details, consult your nearest passenger agent.

CANADIAN NATIONAL

TO MONTREAL
BY THE OCEAN LIMITED

All Sleeping Car Train!
Air-Conditioned Comfort!

A fast, modern train comprising observation-lounge car, dining car, and standard, compartment and drawing room sleeping cars. Morning arrival in Montreal, daily.

Also leaving from Halifax for Montreal are two other fine Canadian National trains: . . . The Scotian and the Maritime Express.

For full details, consult your nearest passenger agent.

CANADIAN NATIONAL

Was It Montelli?

By LESLIE GARGILL

How these women could elongate the suffix of his rightful name, and the one he was inaccurately saddled with, to signify various phases of meaning.

"Well—er—I—er, didn't think it necessary. I mean I forgot."

He took it freely. Mrs. Montelli broke in. "Got my coat if you want to know the rights of it."

Elise smiled softly and nodded approval. A dress which had started to spread in Jerry's throat eased somewhat. He was afraid that some retaliatory mention would be made of Tony's previous night's kiss and, with a slight knowledge of Slim Anne's jealousy complex, dreaded the possible consequences.

"Suppose," he suggested, "we make up a party."

"Ge, I'd like to, but—"

"Please join us," Elise pressed, but the cheery woman flinched.

"Fact is," she said at last, "Tony was meeting me here."

Jerry picked up his ears. "Though you weren't in touch with him," he observed.

"We got in touch to-day. That's why I got all het up when I spotted you two come in. Now I reckon it's all smoothed up. If he saw you as well he'd hon it quick."

"Pity I'd like to meet my double."

Mrs. Montelli chuckled. "You'd not know him to-night," she explained. "My Tony's got a gift for changing his looks and it don't suit him to be himself right now. Not," she concluded looking at Jerry with open approval, "that there's any call for either of you to put on a mask."

"What I can't quite make out," Elise observed, "is how you got mixed up again if Tony is disguised?"

"Yeah! That does want some annerking. I was sure I recognized a bit when I was looking like him—self. Only it wasn't, so that was O. K. You see, I don't trust him and he might have been pulling a fast one."

"I'm afraid it isn't very clear, even now."

"Forget it. It did me no harm to have a root up with your boy friend. Say, I reckon we both like em that way."

A passing gleam that might have been due to the green-eyed monster appeared in the smoky grey eyes of Elise Dallas. Only a momentary spark, which died away when she saw Jerry unwillingly, the young man bore the compliment.

In the interests of safety—first, however, she decided to get him away as soon as possible. There were dangers in this dust even at this stage. And who could tell the further potentialities?

For the time being, at any rate, Elise decided to walk warily and to make Jerry do the same. It wasn't sufficient that he apparently only had eyes for one woman — which was not Mrs. Montelli.

Only once that evening did she gently chide him on having withheld the incident of Slim Anne's visit to the hotel, and that was more in the nature of a quiet warning for him to watch his step in future.

The fact that he did not retaliate and each depicts one of the miracles of healing from the Bible. The artists had a real problem, for the donors wanted the windows to let in light, yet to have rich color and be in the best tradition. There was also to be enough realism that children might learn, from the windows, the Bible stories.

One of the first things an appreciator of stained glass should learn to love is grisaille, or the use of a greyish background for medallions. If it is not good, it is dull. If it is good, as in the Williams and Johnson windows, just completed, it has gentle but more interesting loveliness. In their grisaille they have the cross, the fleur-de-lys and the Canadian trillium as motifs, the trillium adopting itself beautifully to formal design as well as providing, by its three-ness, good ecclesiastical symbol of the Trinity. The medallions themselves are jewels of color, the great number of the pieces of glass breaking the light into a most moving expression.

The central window, with its medallion of the Christ, affords a good example of conveying an idea

Starts another trek Over golden trail

CHICAGO, July 17.—(AP)—Little Ben Hogan, the most consistent money player in the game today, starts another trek over golf's trail of gold tomorrow.

He'll be one of some 200 starters in the $6,000 Chicago open at the Birminghams Country Club. As competitors for first money of $1,200 and 14 other cash awards. Hogan will vie with such stars as Vic Ghezzi, who won the United States Professional Golfers Association title at Denver last Sunday, and Craig Wood, the United States open champion.

Far Eastern Press Comment on Japan

LONDON, July 17.—(CP)—The British Broadcasting Corporation today broadcast excerpts from the Far Eastern press on resignation of the Japanese Cabinet.

The BBC quoted the Shanghai Evening Post as saying: "The resignation of Prince Konoye's cabinet forebodes a change of policy and that that change is going to be still further along the road to stronger measures is more than likely."

The Chinese army newspaper: "The fall of the Japanese cabinet is due to opposition by the army, particularly against its foreign policy."

Art and Artists

The following article from the Toronto Globe and Mail will be read with interest as Miss Yvonne Williams referred to is a sister of Mrs. (Dr.) J. P. Miller, and daughter of Mrs. E. C. Williams of Toronto, at present visiting Dr. and Mrs. Miller.

... (By Pearl McCarthy) ...

One of the most beautiful light shed on Canadian interiors was falling this week into a studio in North Toronto at 69 Bedford Park Avenue. It was the studio of Yvonne Williams and her husband, designers and workers in stained glass, who, in our opinion, produce the most exquisite windows in this country. There are other widely known and fine designers, and other painters, but this team's studio is unique in that they design, do their own cartoons, and their own painting. As a result the original idea is evolved with artistic intensity and rare subtlety of color. Ideas and craft are fused.

The finished product to be seen this week was a set of five windows (or, if you want to be more exact, a window of five lights), just about to be shipped to Edmonton, where they will be installed in the entrance hall to Robertson United Church as a memorial to the late Dr. R. B. Wells. Each window has a large colored medallion in grisaille and each depicts one of the miracles of healing from the Bible. The artists had a real problem, for the donors wanted the windows to let in light, yet to have rich color and be in the best tradition. There was also to be enough realism that children might learn, from the windows, the Bible stories.

One of the first things an appreciator of stained glass should learn to love is grisaille, or the use of a greyish background for medallions. If it is not good, it is dull. If it is good, as in the Williams and Johnson windows, just completed, it has gentle but more interesting loveliness. In their grisaille they have the cross, the fleur-de-lys and the Canadian trillium as motifs, the trillium adopting itself beautifully to formal design as well as providing, by its three-ness, good ecclesiastical symbol of the Trinity. The medallions themselves are jewels of color, the great number of the pieces of glass breaking the light into a most moving expression.

The central window, with its medallion of the Christ, affords a good example of conveying an idea

CHAPTER VI SUPERINTENDENT CLEWETHERS CALLS

There was a visitor at the flat long before Jerry Clitheroe was ready to receive callers, a man whose card was very simply inscribed: "Div. Supt. Clewethers, Criminal Investigation Dept., New Scotland Yard."

Tel. Whitehall 1212.

Mintey made the announcement in a low, steady voice, and he felt that in the face of such an emergency his master ought to forgo his morning tub.

"Tell him to unclue his bowler hat and wait until I'm clothed and in my right mind," he instructed.

"Begging your pardon, sir, but the gentleman isn't got no bowler hat."

"Then he can't possibly be a pukka detective. Heavens, Mintey, don't you ever go to the cinema? The trademark of a self-respecting sleuth is that he never removes his slice-black derby by day or by night, especially when on the trail."

"He's one of 'em," The H'exploits of H'ealpe, sir."

"A dark secret revealed. O faithful servant, but one belonging to the historic H'escape. He's a younger then. He remember 'oiding a young woman's hand at the time H'epside four, it was a very curious case."

"Cur yourself or one of these days I shall resort to blackmail, using the murky revelation as a lever. Don't you ever feel curious as to who was transpired before episode four, or what followed?"

Mintey shuddered. "No, sir," he said fervently. "It was very dark in the H'escape and h'm afraid I proposed matrimony."

"Congratulations!"

"Thank you, sir. It was a very narrow H'escape. He's not been inside such a place since."

Jerry laughed. He was in high spirits. In the middle of brushing his hair Jerry did pause to wonder what could have brought a C. I. D. man to see him. Probably it was a matter of routine, or maybe to establish once and for all his identity.

Meanwhile, Superintendent Clewethers waited patiently. He was a sparely-built man, wearing a Harris tweed sports jacket with grey flannel trousers.

"No hat at all," he greeted Jerry, when that individual finally emerged from his dressing room.

"So you overheard 'em sorry to keep you such a time."

"Quite all right, Mr. Clitheroe. I'm in no hurry. These flats aren't conversational, you know."

"Breakfasted?"

"Two hours ago, thanks, but I'll be glad to join you in a cup of coffee."

The superintendent chatted casually during the progress of the meal, proving himself to be a most interesting conversationalist. Not until they had reached the cigarette stage did he mention the reason for his presence.

Headquarters, it appeared, had found the existence of a double to Tony Montelli decidedly disturbing. It opened up so many possibilities for a versatile crook.

"How come?" Jerry asked.

Clewethers inspected a glowing ash critically. "For instance," he said softly, "Mrs. Cedricson was dining at the Cosmopolitan last night."

"Afraid I've never heard of the lady."

"Wife of the soap-flake king. Cedricson's soap circles — they never fall to sleep."

"On that her diamond pendant is as famous as her husband's soap, and while you can buy the latter for twopenny-half-penny per packet from any grocery store the former isn't to be picked up so easily."

"Sounds to me like a riddle."

"The answer is that someone

Starts another trek Over golden trail

CHICAGO, July 17.—(AP)—Little Ben Hogan, the most consistent money player in the game today, starts another trek over golf's trail of gold tomorrow.

He'll be one of some 200 starters in the $6,000 Chicago open at the Birminghams Country Club. As competitors for first money of $1,200 and 14 other cash awards. Hogan will vie with such stars as Vic Ghezzi, who won the United States Professional Golfers Association title at Denver last Sunday, and Craig Wood, the United States open champion.

Far Eastern Press Comment on Japan

LONDON, July 17.—(CP)—The British Broadcasting Corporation today broadcast excerpts from the Far Eastern press on resignation of the Japanese Cabinet.

The BBC quoted the Shanghai Evening Post as saying: "The resignation of Prince Konoye's cabinet forebodes a change of policy and that that change is going to be still further along the road to stronger measures is more than likely."

The Chinese army newspaper: "The fall of the Japanese cabinet is due to opposition by the army, particularly against its foreign policy."

Art and Artists

The following article from the Toronto Globe and Mail will be read with interest as Miss Yvonne Williams referred to is a sister of Mrs. (Dr.) J. P. Miller, and daughter of Mrs. E. C. Williams of Toronto, at present visiting Dr. and Mrs. Miller.

... (By Pearl McCarthy) ...

One of the most beautiful light shed on Canadian interiors was falling this week into a studio in North Toronto at 69 Bedford Park Avenue. It was the studio of Yvonne Williams and her husband, designers and workers in stained glass, who, in our opinion, produce the most exquisite windows in this country. There are other widely known and fine designers, and other painters, but this team's studio is unique in that they design, do their own cartoons, and their own painting. As a result the original idea is evolved with artistic intensity and rare subtlety of color. Ideas and craft are fused.

The finished product to be seen this week was a set of five windows (or, if you want to be more exact, a window of five lights), just about to be shipped to Edmonton, where they will be installed in the entrance hall to Robertson United Church as a memorial to the late Dr. R. B. Wells. Each window has a large colored medallion in grisaille and each depicts one of the miracles of healing from the Bible. The artists had a real problem, for the donors wanted the windows to let in light, yet to have rich color and be in the best tradition. There was also to be enough realism that children might learn, from the windows, the Bible stories.

One of the first things an appreciator of stained glass should learn to love is grisaille, or the use of a greyish background for medallions. If it is not good, it is dull. If it is good, as in the Williams and Johnson windows, just completed, it has gentle but more interesting loveliness. In their grisaille they have the cross, the fleur-de-lys and the Canadian trillium as motifs, the trillium adopting itself beautifully to formal design as well as providing, by its three-ness, good ecclesiastical symbol of the Trinity. The medallions themselves are jewels of color, the great number of the pieces of glass breaking the light into a most moving expression.

The central window, with its medallion of the Christ, affords a good example of conveying an idea

CHAPTER VI SUPERINTENDENT CLEWETHERS CALLS

There was a visitor at the flat long before Jerry Clitheroe was ready to receive callers, a man whose card was very simply inscribed: "Div. Supt. Clewethers, Criminal Investigation Dept., New Scotland Yard."

Tel. Whitehall 1212.

Mintey made the announcement in a low, steady voice, and he felt that in the face of such an emergency his master ought to forgo his morning tub.

"Tell him to unclue his bowler hat and wait until I'm clothed and in my right mind," he instructed.

"Begging your pardon, sir, but the gentleman isn't got no bowler hat."

"Then he can't possibly be a pukka detective. Heavens, Mintey, don't you ever go to the cinema? The trademark of a self-respecting sleuth is that he never removes his slice-black derby by day or by night, especially when on the trail."

"He's one of 'em," The H'exploits of H'ealpe, sir."

"A dark secret revealed. O faithful servant, but one belonging to the historic H'escape. He's a younger then. He remember 'oiding a young woman's hand at the time H'epside four, it was a very curious case."

"Cur yourself or one of these days I shall resort to blackmail, using the murky revelation as a lever. Don't you ever feel curious as to who was transpired before episode four, or what followed?"

Mintey shuddered. "No, sir," he said fervently. "It was very dark in the H'escape and h'm afraid I proposed matrimony."

"Congratulations!"

"Thank you, sir. It was a very narrow H'escape. He's not been inside such a place since."

Jerry laughed. He was in high spirits. In the middle of brushing his hair Jerry did pause to wonder what could have brought a C. I. D. man to see him. Probably it was a matter of routine, or maybe to establish once and for all his identity.

Meanwhile, Superintendent Clewethers waited patiently. He was a sparely-built man, wearing a Harris tweed sports jacket with grey flannel trousers.

"No hat at all," he greeted Jerry, when that individual finally emerged from his dressing room.

"So you overheard 'em sorry to keep you such a time."

"Quite all right, Mr. Clitheroe. I'm in no hurry. These flats aren't conversational, you know."

"Breakfasted?"

"Two hours ago, thanks, but I'll be glad to join you in a cup of coffee."

The superintendent chatted casually during the progress of the meal, proving himself to be a most interesting conversationalist. Not until they had reached the cigarette stage did he mention the reason for his presence.

Headquarters, it appeared, had found the existence of a double to Tony Montelli decidedly disturbing. It opened up so many possibilities for a versatile crook.

"How come?" Jerry asked.

Clewethers inspected a glowing ash critically. "For instance," he said softly, "Mrs. Cedricson was dining at the Cosmopolitan last night."

"Afraid I've never heard of the lady."

"Wife of the soap-flake king. Cedricson's soap circles — they never fall to sleep."

"On that her diamond pendant is as famous as her husband's soap, and while you can buy the latter for twopenny-half-penny per packet from any grocery store the former isn't to be picked up so easily."

"Sounds to me like a riddle."

"The answer is that someone

Starts another trek Over golden trail

CHICAGO, July 17.—(AP)—Little Ben Hogan, the most consistent money player in the game today, starts another trek over golf's trail of gold tomorrow.

He'll be one of some 200 starters in the $6,000 Chicago open at the Birminghams Country Club. As competitors for first money of $1,200 and 14 other cash awards. Hogan will vie with such stars as Vic Ghezzi, who won the United States Professional Golfers Association title at Denver last Sunday, and Craig Wood, the United States open champion.

Far Eastern Press Comment on Japan

LONDON, July 17.—(CP)—The British Broadcasting Corporation today broadcast excerpts from the Far Eastern press on resignation of the Japanese Cabinet.

The BBC quoted the Shanghai Evening Post as saying: "The resignation of Prince Konoye's cabinet forebodes a change of policy and that that change is going to be still further along the road to stronger measures is more than likely."

The Chinese army newspaper: "The fall of the Japanese cabinet is due to opposition by the army, particularly against its foreign policy."

Art and Artists

SPECIAL

Gillette Razor
 5 Gillette Blades
 and Plastic
 Utility Case — 59c

FOR YOUR MEN IN THE FORCES

Soldiers, Sailors, and Airmen's
 Kitbag Filled
 With Stationery 50c

Complete Line Of Air Mail Stationery
 R. A. F. and Writing Kits

REDDIN BROS.

PHONE 86

L. M. Doucette—R. M. Smallman

Get one of the New Sheers
at $2.95
 in the BASEMENT

A new shipment of Ladies sheer dresses have just arrived. These dresses are shown in several of the newest styles and come in flowered designs, stripes and checks. Colors, Powder Blue, Maize, Pink, Rose, Black, Navy and Turquoise. Sizes 14-20. Each dress has with it a lovely rayon tafeta slip. A wonderful value at

2.95

Ladies brushed rayon Jigger Coats in two styles. Colors, Powder Blue, Beige and White. Price ——— $4.25

Ladies brushed rayon jackets with long sleeves and zippered front. Colors, Rose, Powder Blue and Beige. Price ——— $3.25

Ladies Alpine Cloth Swing skirts in Dark or Pastel colors. Sizes 14 to 20 $2.19
 Price ——— 2.19

Ladies' String Pullover. Sizes 14-20. Colors, Blue, Maize, Peach and Pink, reduced 98c to 69c
 from ——— 98c to 69c

A new shipment of Ladies' Raincoats and Capes have just arrived. Raincoats at ——— $2.00 and $2.95
 Raincoats $1.25 and $1.65. All sizes and several colors.

MOORE & McLEOD limited

Montreal Falcons Made Wrong Move

MONTREAL, July 17.—(CP)—Montreal's two adult falcons who make their home atop the Sun Life Building don't know it yet, but zoologist C. E. Hall has designs on the freedom they have enjoyed for almost six years.

The falcons had the freedom of the city for a long time, but they made the wrong move when they started power-diving attacks against workmen erecting a scaffold near the top of the skyscraper. At least, it looks as though they made the wrong move, although they aren't caught yet and they have a 200-mile-an-hour attack and a strong defence.

It was called in when Sun Life officials decided it was imperative the birds be put in captivity long enough for workmen to complete repairs to the building that can be made only at this time of year. He isn't saying what method he has in mind for the capture.

In DIAMONDS

YOU GET MORE!
AT WELLNER'S
YOU PAY LESS!

SALE

— BUY NOW and SAVE WEAR THIS LOVELY RING ON YOUR VACATION

Perfect Bluebird Diamond $37.50

$1 a Week After Your Vacation

Insured against theft or damage.

New Styles 24.75 up

See the new display of Bulovas.

"Bluebird DIAMONDS We unhesitatingly recommend 'bluebird' diamonds. Greatest value too!" $25.00

W. W. WELLNER LTD.
 JEWELERS SINCE 1868