—PLAY ENJOYED — In Summerside on Wednesday night, Summerside A.Y.P.A. Players of St. Mary's Parish won the 1946 drama festival in competition with Milton. St. Mary's players presented, "Winter Sunset" and the cast was as follows: Mrs. Andrews-Miss Marjorie Newcombe; Dr. Nicholson, Harold Rodd Bill Andrews-Ross MacKenzie; Bill's wife-Helen Mills Directed by Archdeacon G R Harrison. This play of a rather sombre character called for clever acting and Miss Newcombe in the role of a troubled old lady, was superb in her depiction of this, the main role. Milton Players presented "the Sleeping Beauty" and the cast was as follows: Joe Phillips-Rev. S J Davies; Ned Sloane-Alton Rodd; Peg, (Ned's Wife) Edna Rodd; Minnie, (Joe's Wife)-Anna Rodd; Miss Price (a magazine reporter)-margaret Coles. Directed by Rev. S J Davies. The Milton players provided a decidedly enjoyable comedy and all taking part took their parts well. The adjudicators were Mr. Norman McDonald Mrs. J Watson MacNaught and Mr. George Clow. —S.

Anglicans And United Church Discuss Union

HALIFAX, May 31 — (CP) — Real and permanent union is sought between the Church of England in Canada and the United Church of Canada and preliminary conferences seek methodically to establish full understanding, Rt. Rev. George F. Kingston, Anglican Lord Bishop of Nova Scotia, said today.

He was commenting upon announcement in Toronto that a joint committee of the two denominations, which met in Toronto last week, will report on findings to the General Synod and General Council of their respective churches.

"There is no thought of rushing into church union in any kind of a partially considered plan," Bishop Kingston said in a statement. "That would set back real and permanent union rather than advance it.

Stalin Turns Down Invitations From Truman

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, May 31—Premier Stalin has turned down two invitations from President Truman to visit him in Washington, Mr. Truman unexpectedly disclosed today.

Diplomats scanned the revelation for signs that it was a move in the current diplomatic contest with Russia, but the White House said Mr. Truman had no such purpose in mind—that he merely reported the fact in response to press-conference questions.

In saying Premier Stalin had twice expressed his regrets and said his doctors would not allow him to make long journeys Mr. Truman did not foreclose the possibility that he might some time go abroad himself again to meet the Soviet leader and presumably Prime Minister Attlee. However, he said no plans were under way for such a meeting.

The President recently has been under some political pressure here to meet Premier Stalin.

great increase in beer drinking he considers an aid to temperance. He says: "This will make for more overall consumption but less over-consumption at one time by individuals' Thus, if Mr. Taylor is to be believed, the way to decrease drunkenness is to have people drink more.

"Mr. Taylor says: "The trend in Canada is, in the interests of temperance, to relax the conditions surrounding the sale of all alcoholic beverages.' Strictly in the hard liquor is also to be consumed in greater quantities. The distillers will expand as well as the breweries.

"More beer and hard liquor is to be sold; more, therefore, will be consumed. And how that will promote temperance the ordinary mortal cannot see." (Excerpts from an editorial in "Toronto Daily Star," April 30, 1946.)
