ABOUT STITCHING.

Stitching is to be very elaborate. You remember how carefully all stitching was once made to follow the seams. One row stitching each side of a seam was the acceptable tailor-made finish. Then there came three or four rows. Now there is stitching, but rarely is it put on in rows. In place of the plain row stitching there is a trimming made out of the machine stitch. Machines that will sew a chain stitch are sought and the stitching is done with the chain upon the right side. A very coarse silk, Corticelli Stitching Silk, is chosen and the stitching is done with a big needle and a long stitch. It is put on to follow a pattern, and the most elaborate designs are carried out in the machine stitch. Great scrolls are used for bordering seams. Up the skirt they go in such a way as to form a panel, and around the foot, they are carried, making a deep trimming.

Just a bit of silk thread yet the Corticelli Sewing Silk Co. make 12,000 miles of it every day—nearly half-way round the globe.

There are a hundred strands of "nest" or "cocoon" silk in each thread.

Each cocoon strand is a quarter of a mile long.

Means that 4,000,000 silk worms every day spin their cocoons for Corticelli Sewing Silk—theu die.

Every mile, every yard is full letter A—smooth and strong, spun on machines which stop automatically for the slightest flaw in one of the hundred strands.
