League of Nations To Investigate Conditions in Rusias

(Special to The Guardian.)

LONDON, July 21—Investigation of the Russian problem has been decided upon by the Council of the League of Nations, which is in session here. As a preliminary set up, the Council directed the Secretary of the League to collect from various government, relief agencies and other sources all available information which might throw light on the actual situation in Soviet Russia. If this information justifies it, a Committee of experts will be appointed to examine the material and draft a set of conclusions showing the effect of conditions in Russia upon the rest of Europe, thus establishing a connection between the Russian situation and the problem of the European reconstruction.

Grave Charges Against Canteen Management

(Special to The Guardian.)

LONDON, July 21—Amazing charges of waste and fraud are being made today against the Army and Navy Canteen Board and it is openly stated that at least four million pounds Sterling, which ought to be available for social welfare work of all kinds among ex-soldiers has been frittered away. When the Expeditionary Force canteens, which had a monopoly for the supply of such things as canteens supply in the overseas areas during the war, came to cast up the cash balances it was found that there was a profit of fourteen million pounds sterling on the workings. This sum was spoken of as available for distribution among the various Veteran's Institutes and Lord Byng was Chairman of the United Services Fund until he left for Canada to assume his new duties as Governor General. Lord Byng fought very hard to get this whole sum from the War Office, but he was continually met with procrastination and evasive replies. Eventually barely four millions Sterling was handed over to the United Services Fund for distribution and the remainder is now shown to have been muddled away and lost by the Army and Navy Canteen Board after this body took over the canteens.

Romantic Opera is Enthusiastically Received

Fra Diavola Adds Another Success to the Boston Opera Company's Performances Here. Members Receive Unstinted Applause Last Night.

The Boston English Opera Co. made another brilliant hit last evening in their superb performance of Fra Diavola, Auber's romantic opera, which is somewhat of the style of Carmen, with charming music plenty of action and color, and a dramatic finale. The members of the Company were in splendid form and their rendition of this masterpiece delighted the large audience present. Miss Helena Morrill's Zerlina was fully in keeping with the various other roles in which she has been seen here. it was another tribute to her remarkable versatility, as she has now appeared with great success in leading parts from the lightest of comic operas to the highest standard of grand operas. Her rendition of "On Yonder Rock" was superb, particularly with the expression which she added thereto, but it was the same throughout in every number in which her magnificent voice was heard. But where her audience marvelled at her work was in the sextette from Lucia de Lammermoor, with her high notes ringing so clear, and fairly captivating all present.

Norman Arnold again scored, as Fra Diavolo; with his fine manly appearance, he looks the part of the bandit chieftain, acted with vigor, while he rendered the vocal numbers with splendid voice. It is one of his finest performances. Henri Ralff had a greater opportunity than at any time in this engagement as Lorezo, giving a fine portrayal, and his solo in the third act is one of the gems of the opera.

Edward Orchard and John Pritchard are decidedly good as the two bandits, introducing their comedy in a most clever manner. Mr. Orchard's acting, where he is forced to betray his chieftain, displayed his dramatic ability to great advantage. Martin Albright and Lillian Chapdelaine, as Lord and Lady Allcash, respectively, added to the success of the presentation. They, with Miss Morrill, Messrs. Arnold, Orchard and Ralff, rendered the Lucia sextette in superb style.

Marguerite Porter only has a small role as Roberto, but she looked so pretty and dainty that she made it most prominent. Leonard Cowley was particularly good as Mateo, giving a most creditable portrayal.

The choruses are again to be commended for their excellent work; the orchestra likewise, with Howard Cook again leading in a manner such as might be expected from a man of his great experience, and the stage direction of Jos. Monahan was also a big factor.

The company closes its engagement today giving as the afternoon matinee Girofle-Girofla and tonight the ever popular opera "The Bohemian Girl," when it is expected packed houses will greet the performers.

This session was presided over by the Most Worthy Patriarch, Emil G. Hoenthal of South Manchester, Connecticut. His report was a voluminous one, outlining amongst other things the work done in his tour of Europe wherein he had travelled over 20,000 miles, held 150 interviews, addressed 20 conferences and committee meetings, spoke at 28 public meetings, the attendance ranging from 200 to 2,000. He attended the Grand Division of London and Birmingham, England, where he was addressed as the Head of the Order in the World, and was asked to install the officers, which he did. The World Prohibition Federation and London Grand Division tendered him a reception on June 2nd and the National Lodge, I. O. G. T. held an open meeting for him. As the outcome of this tour the standing of the order as the oldest temperance organization on the American Continent has been more fully established and we are now affiliated with the World's Federation. The National Council and other powerful associations active in working out the problems of prohibition for the benefit of and amongst the great workers of the nation. He is also in close touch with and a full member of the American Alcohol Education Association and the Dominion Committee on Liquor Legislation.

The M. W. P. made reference to the efforts of the liquor interest, through the medium of their respective governments to force, either the means of education or more drastically by trade instructions and commercial force their goods upon prohibition countries. One instance of this propaganda was directed in France to Canada, where it was enjoined that the hygenic teaching here should run along the lines of convincing our people that wine was a healthful drink, In Iceland, where liquor imports were prohibited the Government of Spain compelled them to permit the entry of Spanish wines, in barter for the privilege of selling their fish in Spain. Austria had to bend to a similiar force from Hungary, who put an export embargo on meats, and the Russian Soviet were forced to permit Italian wines by a commercial treaty, while their own "vodka" at home was prohibited. France also secured a clause in the Versailles Treaty admitting French wines free of duty in the occupied areas.

Efforts are now being made by international combination to control the liquor business on the high seas, so that prohibtion countries will be able to prevent this means of evading the instructions of their various acts. At the present time such an arrangement has been made between Canada and the United States, with regard to liquors along our national bordes and is woking admirably.

The meeting was well attended by delegates and the public. Rev. A MacLeod, of Amherst, Most Worship Associate, presided. Other speakers at the meeting were Rev. John Pringle, who extended greetings to the delegates on the visit to Cape Breton, G. W. P. Taunton, of Prince Edward Island, G. W. P., H. B. Wood, of Rhode Island, G. W. P., L. Hohenthal, of Connecticut, Rev. J. W. Kirby, G. W. P., of New Brunswick and Henry N. Solley, G. W. P., of Pensylvania.

Rev. Dr. Pringle welcomed the visitors. He declared he had joined a Temperance Band of Hope of the S. of T. 64 years ago. The Band was in Britain. At 10 years of age he became one of the I. O. G. T. in P. E. I. and had had the temperance cause at heart ever since. He believed in law. Law is the expression of the moral sence of our people, placed on the statute books. Sometimes a law is obtained by the efforts of moral reformers and deadened by the neglect of others. Our prohibition laws are the result of the work of such as the Band of Hope and Temperance Division. He believed that the visitors were sincerely welcome to all the people of Sydney except a few "bootleggers." He hoped that their deliberations would be guided by the Divine Will. When our purposes are sincere and our work in earnest, the result lies wholly in God's hands. Victory must attend righteousness. His experience in all classes of society, in all sections of the Dominion, and especially overseas, was that liquor traffic always degrades and depresses. He had always been a "temperance crank" but ten times more so after his experience in the army.

Geo. A. McLeod, G. W. P., of N. S., replied on behalf of the Grand Division of N. S. He appreciated the kindness and courtesy of Sydney's people. He spoke strongly for Dominion wide prohibition. The temperance cause was annually gaining momentum. He belonged to a division in Halifax that had met weekly for seventy-five years. Drunkenness in Halifax now was very little compared with a few years ago. The N. S. temperance act was very successful. A prominent M. P. P., from Milford who was in the room, had along with others, done valuable work for prohibition. The Sons of Temperance work in training the young in temperance principles and in good citizenship generally was of inestimable value to the nation. There must be a clean Dominion, as one of the pillars of a temperate world.

G. W. Patriarch of Pennsylvania, Harry N. Solly, Judge of the Juvenile Court, Philadelphia, replied for his state, giving its greetings. Pennsylvania's Sons of Temperance were working devotedly to bring up the young in the way they should go. The S. of T. were not numerous enough. As one who worked with juveniles every day in the year, he saw the great need of temperance work. The early New Englander had builded well, when he placed the home between the church and school.

Rev. W. J. Kirby of Moncton, G. W. P., of N. B., was the next speaker to reply to the address of welcome. He pointed out that the attack of the liquor forces had changed is nature lately. It was now more stealthy and deceitful. But he knew that conditions were much better now than ever before. If the men who govern would stand by their own laws conditions would soon be much better. He eulogized the work of the Dominion Temperance Alliance and its provincial branches.

L. Hohenthal, G.W.P., of Connecticut, son of the Most Worthy Patriarch replied for the Grand Division of Connecticut.

Lewis Tanton, G. W. P., of P. E. I., replied for his province. Re temperance in P. E. I. he said that the P. E. I. government had sought to make money by taxing the interprovincial liquor traffic by taxing the five wholesale distributors of liquor $5000 each. But a lot of liquor imported there recently disappeared from the government warehouse. The spirits have not been discovered, and two persons convicted of stealing them and sentenced to three years each in penitentiary also disappeared soon after their conviction. Still P. E. I. was comparatively sober.

Nation's Industries Slowly Paralyzed. Shortage of Heat and Light Threatened Within Few Days. Damage Has Already Run into Millions.

(Special to The Guardian.)

WASHINGTON, D.C., July 21—Slowly paralysing the Nation's industries, threatening widespread shortage of light and heat within a few days, causing increasing disorders, loss of life and property, damage already running into millions, the combined rail and coal strikes have brought on an industrial crisis the magnitude of which was revealed in reports today from all parts of the country. Not only are wheels slowing up on the country's transportation systems but public utilities are closing down and actual suffering, because of shortage of coal, is not far off, advices indicate.

Disorders are reported from coast to coast. New England carries announcements of increasing sabotage on many lines. Pacific Coast roads report kidnapping and beatings and trouble is feared in Western Pennsylvania, West Virginia and Ohio, as mines are reopening. State troops are out in New Hampshire, Pennsylvania and Ohio.

(Special to The Guardian.)

CHICAGO, July 21—Chairman Ben W. Hooper of the United States Railroad Labor Board left Chicago for Washington at the request of President Harding to confer on the rail strike. Moves to end the nation-wide coal strike which is growing more serious each day were under way in Congress today.

A sweeping Congressional investigation to determine the cause and to fix the blame for the coal strike with the ultimate purpose of enacting legislation to prevent future war in the industry will be initiated shortly by Senator Borah. In the meantime President Harding let it be known that he is only waiting to see what progress the Non Union Bitumincus Operators are making toward stimulating production before taking his next step. It is understood that he will give them two weeks to show results.
