

KRUGER

MAY GO

To Holland Without Interference.

METHUEN'S CAPTURES.

Hilyard Takes Vryheid—50 Returned Canadians now at Quebec.

LORD METHUEN'S CAPTURES.

LONDON, Sept.—(Special).—Lord Roberts' telegraphs that Lord Methuen completely routed a Boer convoy at Hart River recapturing a gun lost at Colenso; also 25 waggons, 8,000 cattle, 4,000 sheep, 20,000 rounds of ammunition and 28 prisoners.

HILYARD CAPTURES VRYHEID.

Gen. Hilyard occupied Vryheid on the 19th, driving the Boers from a strong position.

COMMANDANT THERON DEAD.

Gen. Cleary captured one of Theron's scouts who confirms the report of Theron's death.

THEY DON'T WANT KRUGER.

Kruger's journey to Holland will not be interfered with by the British fleet.

50 RETURNING CANADIANS.

QUEBEC, Sept. 22.—(Special).—Fifty returning Canadian soldiers will reach here on Sunday in the S. S. Dominion.

NEW YORK STOCK LIST

Closing prices	Sept. 22.
American Sugar	114 1/2
American Steel and Wire	29 1/2
American Tobacco	86 1/2
Brooklyn Transit	50
Burlington	121
Continental Tob.	24 1/2
Federal Steel	30 1/2
Federal Steel Frit	nil
Louisville and Nashville	69 1/2
New York Central	129 1/2
Rock Island	103 1/2
St. Paul	111
Tennessee Coal and Iron	55 1/2
United States Rubber	21 1/2

A 5 cent plug of "Patriot Twist" chewing tobacco is 20 per cent larger than formerly.

Boys' pegged boots, 70 cents at Goff Bros' cheap sale.

Goff Bros. must give up W. H. Stewart & Co's store in a few days hence the boots must be slaughtered.

Auction prices at W. H. Stewart's stock of boots sold by Goff Bros.

Reductions—30%, 40% and half price for W. H. Stewart & Co's boots, being now sold out by Goff Bros.

Boot Store

to be closed.

Last chance for Bargains in W. H. Stewart & Co's Stock of Boots. Auction prices. Boots must go. Come and make an offer. See big ad. Sale conducted by

GOFF BROS.

REV. ROBERT F. WHISTON, Pastor Central Christian Church.

NEW CHRISTIAN CHURCH

Dedicated Yesterday.—Large Congregations Were in Attendance

REV. J. H. MOHORTER OF BOSTON PRESENT

And Preached the Dedicatory Sermon—The Afternoon Service Took the Form of Fraternal Greetings—$1000 Raised at Services and Partly Paid—Mr. Mohorter Will Address Meetings Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday of this Week.

The dedication of the new Central Christian Church took place yesterday. The congregations at all the services were large. At the morning service Rev. J. H. Mohorter preached and the Lord's Supper was dispensed by Rev. Donald Crawford.

The afternoon meeting was of fraternal greeting and Rev. J. H. Mohorter delivered a welcome address. The clergy of a number of the other denomination of the city were present.

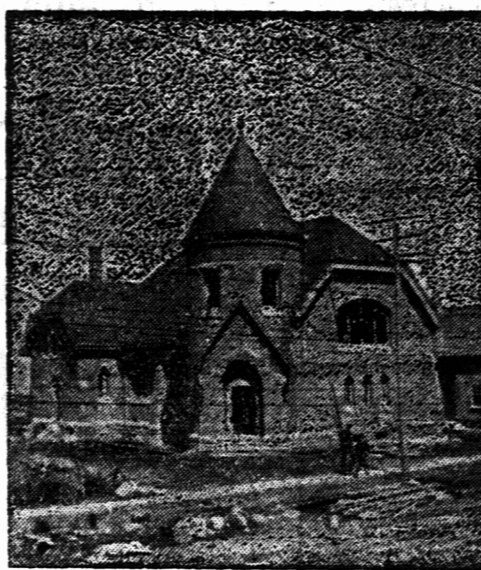

At the evening service Rev. J. H. Mohorter preached making a practical application of Luke 7:5. During day $1,000 was subscribed and partly paid.

SWEET POTATOES 4c. per lb. at J. D. McLeod & Co. 22 1/2

APPLES, plums and damsons for preserving, at J. D. McLeod & Co. 22 1/2

COOKING apples by the basket, selling cheap at J. D. McLeod & Co. 22 1/2

Wanted at Once.—Two bright girls learn millinery work. Apply to Miss Emma Tombs, head milliner with Moore & McLeod. 15 if.

CENTRAL CHRISTIAN CHURCH, COMPLETED SEPT. 22, 1900.

BUILDING COMMITTEE.

Alfred Dewar Murdock N. McLeod
Frank Beales George A. Stewart
Charles H. Chandler

ARCHITECT

W. C. Harris, F. R. C. A., Charlottetown

CONTRACTORS.

H. & S. Lowe, Charlottetown

BUILDING INSPECTOR

Rbbert Fennell, Charlottetown.

The following is a brief synopsis of the dedication sermon preached in the morning:

The church in the thought of God, developed and realized. Mark's 26-23.

The church is a plant of divine sowing and human husbandry. Some people reject it because they have not found its fruit as ripe and luscious as they had expected. They are disappointed and turn away from it. Others accept it and are fully content. They feel that no improvement is possible. They come into the blessings of the church or into possession of a flower, or fruit, instead of into possession of a seed that is to be cultivated. The result is neglect of husbandry. There are misapprehensions and are the result of delusions concerning the operations of grace, God's plan for saving man. To many the operations of Christianity are irrational. They do not expect it to work along rational lines. In nature the plant must unfold according to law. "The blade is full corn on the ear." The structure of the shelters man, his physical habitation, must grow gradually. The structure of Grace, the spiritual habitation must come to him all complete.

Man's physical and intellectual power must gradually unfold like the opening of a bud, while spiritually he is expected to spring full grown into existence.

This delusion will not disappear until we learn that the law of development runs through grace as well as through nature. We may not be willing to accept the ground of the evolutionist, that all life is from a single simple germ. From what we can know we see plainly present the law of development. In the vegetable world it is the blade, the ear and the corn. In the world of sentient being it is the child, the youth and the man and so we provide toys for infancy, object lessons for childhood and truth for manhood. Our text clearly recognises this law running through the Kingdom of Heaven. The church in the purpose of God, typified in Jewish national life and realized in Christ. This is what we might expect, a rational method for saving a rational being. We will first consider its development in thought. In the garden while the blight of sin in fresh and hence keenly felt the purpose of God is seen in the promise made to the woman. Here is seen the seed that shall bless all the earth.

When Abraham was called and the promise made that in him all the nations of the earth are to be best, the seed is not only cast into the soil, but indeed begins to grow.

In the selection of the Jewish nation and the formation of a covenant with them the blade begins to appear to view. God carefully hedged their people about with law, institutions, and by special providences cultivated them as a precious soil in which his holy purpose grew and ripened. After four thousand years of cultivation and patient waiting in the fullness of time Christ appeared. The purpose began to be realized. The fruit began to appear. After the history of Israel had shown that law, no matter how perfect, could not save; after the history of Greece had proven that with art, science, poetry and philosophy man will still be vile, after the history of Rome had proven that might can never make right, "the desire of all nations came." After man had sought in every field for bread and still perished Jesus came that we might have life. All the work of God previous to Christ's coming led to "Immanuel," God with us, God seeking to be among men. All the work of God since is that man may be with God. But in its realization is war and is a development. It began in weakness. Daniel saw it as a small stone rolling down the mountain side increasing until it filled the whole earth. The Saviour likened it to the leaven bid in the meal and the small mustard seed that became a mighty tree. And so it began in a handful of fishermen. For a time it had a marvelous growth until the bitter winter of ecclesiastical persecutions held it in cruel embrace. As the farmer's winter wheat seems lost, held in the frigid grip of winter, so for a thousand years the seed of God's kingdom seemed doomed in the relentless power of ecclesiasticalism of the middle ages. But at last the sun of God's providence broke this power and once more there were signs of life.

The voice of Luther lifted in behalf of religious liberty and the restoration of the word of God to its place, power and prestige over the conscience is the first sign of the return of life, and with Luther there appears John Calvin emphasizing the right of God to rule over the hearts of men. The fervent tender spirit filled Wesley speaking for the spirit of Godliness as well as the form is the growing blade. Here in this period the great Sunday school movement had its birth. Here the streams of Bible and Missionary Society usefulness took their rise. Then there came, in the early part of this century, that deep strong, earnest, loving protest against the evils of sectarianism. This was the appearance of the ear. For in this period have come into existence a multitude of union efforts that have brought incalculable blessings to the world. The Y. M. C. A., the C. E. movement, union missionary efforts, union Sunday school work, great union evangelistic efforts and above all a larger and more Christ-like charity and benevolence than the world ever knew have been and are some of the fruits. And still the full corn in the ear has not yet been realized. It is still our privilege to aid in contributing something toward bringing to the world the full fruitage of divine blessing. We may not know just what the church will be when it is fully developed. But whatever else it may be, it will be distinguished by these things, universality, unity and spirituality. The Saviour said, "Other sheep I have which are not of this fold; them I must also shelters man, his physical habitation, must grow gradually. The structure of Grace, the spiritual habitation must come to him all complete.

Man's physical and intellectual power must gradually unfold like the opening of a bud, while spiritually he is expected to spring full grown into existence.

This delusion will not disappear until we learn that the law of development runs through grace as well as through nature. We may not be willing to accept the ground of the evolutionist, that all life is from a single simple germ. From what we can know we see plainly present the law of development. In the vegetable world it is the blade, the ear and the corn. In the world of sentient being it is the child, the youth and the man and so we provide toys for infancy, object lessons for childhood and truth for manhood. Our text clearly recognises this law running through the Kingdom of Heaven. The church in the purpose of God, typified in Jewish national life and realized in Christ. This is what we might expect, a rational method for saving a rational being. We will first consider its development in thought. In the garden while the blight of sin in fresh and hence keenly felt the purpose of God is seen in the promise made to the woman. Here is seen the seed that shall bless all the earth.

When Abraham was called and the promise made that in him all the nations of the earth are to be best, the seed is not only cast into the soil, but indeed begins to grow.

In the selection of the Jewish nation and the formation of a covenant with them the blade begins to appear to view. God carefully hedged their people about with law, institutions, and by special providences cultivated them as a precious soil in which his holy purpose grew and ripened. After four thousand years of cultivation and patient waiting in the fullness of time Christ appeared. The purpose began to be realized. The fruit began to appear. After the history of Israel had shown that law, no matter how perfect, could not save; after the history of Greece had proven that with art, science, poetry and philosophy man will still be vile, after the history of Rome had proven that might can never make right, "the desire of all nations came." After man had sought in every field for bread and still perished Jesus came that we might have life. All the work of God previous to Christ's coming led to "Immanuel," God with us, God seeking to be among men. All the work of God since is that man may be with God. But in its realization is war and is a development. It began in weakness. Daniel saw it as a small stone rolling down the mountain side increasing until it filled the whole earth. The Saviour likened it to the leaven bid in the meal and the small mustard seed that became a mighty tree. And so it began in a handful of fishermen. For a time it had a marvelous growth until the bitter winter of ecclesiastical persecutions held it in cruel embrace. As the farmer's winter wheat seems lost, held in the frigid grip of winter, so for a thousand years the seed of God's kingdom seemed doomed in the relentless power of ecclesiasticalism of the middle ages. But at last the sun of God's providence broke this power and once more there were signs of life.

The voice of Luther lifted in behalf of religious liberty and the restoration of the word of God to its place, power and prestige over the conscience is the first sign of the return of life, and with Luther there appears John Calvin emphasizing the right of God to rule over the hearts of men. The fervent tender spirit filled Wesley speaking for the spirit of Godliness as well as the form is the growing blade. Here in this period the great Sunday school movement had its birth. Here the streams of Bible and Missionary Society usefulness took their rise. Then there came, in the early part of this century, that deep strong, earnest, loving protest against the evils of sectarianism. This was the appearance of the ear. For in this period have come into existence a multitude of union efforts that have brought incalculable blessings to the world. The Y. M. C. A., the C. E. movement, union missionary efforts, union Sunday school work, great union evangelistic efforts and above all a larger and more Christ-like charity and benevolence than the world ever knew have been and are some of the fruits. And still the full corn in the ear has not yet been realized. It is still our privilege to aid in contributing something toward bringing to the world the full fruitage of divine blessing. We may not know just what the church will be when it is fully developed. But whatever else it may be, it will be distinguished by these things, universality, unity and spirituality. The Saviour said, "Other sheep I have which are not of this fold; them I must also shelters man, his physical habitation, must grow gradually. The structure of Grace, the spiritual habitation must come to him all complete.

Man's physical and intellectual power must gradually unfold like the opening of a bud, while spiritually he is expected to spring full grown into existence.

This delusion will not disappear until we learn that the law of development runs through grace as well as through nature. We may not be willing to accept the ground of the evolutionist, that all life is from a single simple germ. From what we can know we see plainly present the law of development. In the vegetable world it is the blade, the ear and the corn. In the world of sentient being it is the child, the youth and the man and so we provide toys for infancy, object lessons for childhood and truth for manhood. Our text clearly recognises this law running through the Kingdom of Heaven. The church in the purpose of God, typified in Jewish national life and realized in Christ. This is what we might expect, a rational method for saving a rational being. We will first consider its development in thought. In the garden while the blight of sin in fresh and hence keenly felt the purpose of God is seen in the promise made to the woman. Here is seen the seed that shall bless all the earth.

When Abraham was called and the promise made that in him all the nations of the earth are to be best, the seed is not only cast into the soil, but indeed begins to grow.

In the selection of the Jewish nation and the formation of a covenant with them the blade begins to appear to view. God carefully hedged their people about with law, institutions, and by special providences cultivated them as a precious soil in which his holy purpose grew and ripened. After four thousand years of cultivation and patient waiting in the fullness of time Christ appeared. The purpose began to be realized. The fruit began to appear. After the history of Israel had shown that law, no matter how perfect, could not save; after the history of Greece had proven that with art, science, poetry and philosophy man will still be vile, after the history of Rome had proven that might can never make right, "the desire of all nations came." After man had sought in every field for bread and still perished Jesus came that we might have life. All the work of God previous to Christ's coming led to "Immanuel," God with us, God seeking to be among men. All the work of God since is that man may be with God. But in its realization is war and is a development. It began in weakness. Daniel saw it as a small stone rolling down the mountain side increasing until it filled the whole earth. The Saviour likened it to the leaven bid in the meal and the small mustard seed that became a mighty tree. And so it began in a handful of fishermen. For a time it had a marvelous growth until the bitter winter of ecclesiastical persecutions held it in cruel embrace. As the farmer's winter wheat seems lost, held in the frigid grip of winter, so for a thousand years the seed of God's kingdom seemed doomed in the relentless power of ecclesiasticalism of the middle ages. But at last the sun of God's providence broke this power and once more there were signs of life.

The voice of Luther lifted in behalf of religious liberty and the restoration of the word of God to its place, power and prestige over the conscience is the first sign of the return of life, and with Luther there appears John Calvin emphasizing the right of God to rule over the hearts of men. The fervent tender spirit filled Wesley speaking for the spirit of Godliness as well as the form is the growing blade. Here in this period the great Sunday school movement had its birth. Here the streams of Bible and Missionary Society usefulness took their rise. Then there came, in the early part of this century, that deep strong, earnest, loving protest against the evils of sectarianism. This was the appearance of the ear. For in this period have come into existence a multitude of union efforts that have brought incalculable blessings to the world. The Y. M. C. A., the C. E. movement, union missionary efforts, union Sunday school work, great union evangelistic efforts and above all a larger and more Christ-like charity and benevolence than the world ever knew have been and are some of the fruits. And still the full corn in the ear has not yet been realized. It is still our privilege to aid in contributing something toward bringing to the world the full fruitage of divine blessing. We may not know just what the church will be when it is fully developed. But whatever else it may be, it will be distinguished by these things, universality, unity and spirituality. The Saviour said, "Other sheep I have which are not of this fold; them I must also shelters man, his physical habitation, must grow gradually. The structure of Grace, the spiritual habitation must come to him all complete.

Man's physical and intellectual power must gradually unfold like the opening of a bud, while spiritually he is expected to spring full grown into existence.

This delusion will not disappear until we learn that the law of development runs through grace as well as through nature. We may not be willing to accept the ground of the evolutionist, that all life is from a single simple germ. From what we can know we see plainly present the law of development. In the vegetable world it is the blade, the ear and the corn. In the world of sentient being it is the child, the youth and the man and so we provide toys for infancy, object lessons for childhood and truth for manhood. Our text clearly recognises this law running through the Kingdom of Heaven. The church in the purpose of God, typified in Jewish national life and realized in Christ. This is what we might expect, a rational method for saving a rational being. We will first consider its development in thought. In the garden while the blight of sin in fresh and hence keenly felt the purpose of God is seen in the promise made to the woman. Here is seen the seed that shall bless all the earth.

When Abraham was called and the promise made that in him all the nations of the earth are to be best, the seed is not only cast into the soil, but indeed begins to grow.

In the selection of the Jewish nation and the formation of a covenant with them the blade begins to appear to view. God carefully hedged their people about with law, institutions, and by special providences cultivated them as a precious soil in which his holy purpose grew and ripened. After four thousand years of cultivation and patient waiting in the fullness of time Christ appeared. The purpose began to be realized. The fruit began to appear. After the history of Israel had shown that law, no matter how perfect, could not save; after the history of Greece had proven that with art, science, poetry and philosophy man will still be vile, after the history of Rome had proven that might can never make right, "the desire of all nations came." After man had sought in every field for bread and still perished Jesus came that we might have life. All the work of God previous to Christ's coming led to "Immanuel," God with us, God seeking to be among men. All the work of God since is that man may be with God. But in its realization is war and is a development. It began in weakness. Daniel saw it as a small stone rolling down the mountain side increasing until it filled the whole earth. The Saviour likened it to the leaven bid in the meal and the small mustard seed that became a mighty tree. And so it began in a handful of fishermen. For a time it had a marvelous growth until the bitter winter of ecclesiastical persecutions held it in cruel embrace. As the farmer's winter wheat seems lost, held in the frigid grip of winter, so for a thousand years the seed of God's kingdom seemed doomed in the relentless power of ecclesiasticalism of the middle ages. But at last the sun of God's providence broke this power and once more there were signs of life.

The voice of Luther lifted in behalf of religious liberty and the restoration of the word of God to its place, power and prestige over the conscience is the first sign of the return of life, and with Luther there appears John Calvin emphasizing the right of God to rule over the hearts of men. The fervent tender spirit filled Wesley speaking for the spirit of Godliness as well as the form is the growing blade. Here in this period the great Sunday school movement had its birth. Here the streams of Bible and Missionary Society usefulness took their rise. Then there came, in the early part of this century, that deep strong, earnest, loving protest against the evils of sectarianism. This was the appearance of the ear. For in this period have come into existence a multitude of union efforts that have brought incalculable blessings to the world. The Y. M. C. A., the C. E. movement, union missionary efforts, union Sunday school work, great union evangelistic efforts and above all a larger and more Christ-like charity and benevolence than the world ever knew have been and are some of the fruits. And still the full corn in the ear has not yet been realized. It is still our privilege to aid in contributing something toward bringing to the world the full fruitage of divine blessing. We may not know just what the church will be when it is fully developed. But whatever else it may be, it will be distinguished by these things, universality, unity and spirituality. The Saviour said, "Other sheep I have which are not of this fold; them I must also shelters man, his physical habitation, must grow gradually. The structure of Grace, the spiritual habitation must come to him all complete.

Man's physical and intellectual power must gradually unfold like the opening of a bud, while spiritually he is expected to spring full grown into existence.

This delusion will not disappear until we learn that the law of development runs through grace as well as through nature. We may not be willing to accept the ground of the evolutionist, that all life is from a single simple germ. From what we can know we see plainly present the law of development. In the vegetable world it is the blade, the ear and the corn. In the world of sentient being it is the child, the youth and the man and so we provide toys for infancy, object lessons for childhood and truth for manhood. Our text clearly recognises this law running through the Kingdom of Heaven. The church in the purpose of God, typified in Jewish national life and realized in Christ. This is what we might expect, a rational method for saving a rational being. We will first consider its development in thought. In the garden while the blight of sin in fresh and hence keenly felt the purpose of God is seen in the promise made to the woman. Here is seen the seed that shall bless all the earth.

When Abraham was called and the promise made that in him all the nations of the earth are to be best, the seed is not only cast into the soil, but indeed begins to grow.

In the selection of the Jewish nation and the formation of a covenant with them the blade begins to appear to view. God carefully hedged their people about with law, institutions, and by special providences cultivated them as a precious soil in which his holy purpose grew and ripened. After four thousand years of cultivation and patient waiting in the fullness of time Christ appeared. The purpose began to be realized. The fruit began to appear. After the history of Israel had shown that law, no matter how perfect, could not save; after the history of Greece had proven that with art, science, poetry and philosophy man will still be vile, after the history of Rome had proven that might can never make right, "the desire of all nations came." After man had sought in every field for bread and still perished Jesus came that we might have life. All the work of God previous to Christ's coming led to "Immanuel," God with us, God seeking to be among men. All the work of God since is that man may be with God. But in its realization is war and is a development. It began in weakness. Daniel saw it as a small stone rolling down the mountain side increasing until it filled the whole earth. The Saviour likened it to the leaven bid in the meal and the small mustard seed that became a mighty tree. And so it began in a handful of fishermen. For a time it had a marvelous growth until the bitter winter of ecclesiastical persecutions held it in cruel embrace. As the farmer's winter wheat seems lost, held in the frigid grip of winter, so for a thousand years the seed of God's kingdom seemed doomed in the relentless power of ecclesiasticalism of the middle ages. But at last the sun of God's providence broke this power and once more there were signs of life.

The voice of Luther lifted in behalf of religious liberty and the restoration of the word of God to its place, power and prestige over the conscience is the first sign of the return of life, and with Luther there appears John Calvin emphasizing the right of God to rule over the hearts of men. The fervent tender spirit filled Wesley speaking for the spirit of Godliness as well as the form is the growing blade. Here in this period the great Sunday school movement had its birth. Here the streams of Bible and Missionary Society usefulness took their rise. Then there came, in the early part of this century, that deep strong, earnest, loving protest against the evils of sectarianism. This was the appearance of the ear. For in this period have come into existence a multitude of union efforts that have brought incalculable blessings to the world. The Y. M. C. A., the C. E. movement, union missionary efforts, union Sunday school work, great union evangelistic efforts and above all a larger and more Christ-like charity and benevolence than the world ever knew have been and are some of the fruits. And still the full corn in the ear has not yet been realized. It is still our privilege to aid in contributing something toward bringing to the world the full fruitage of divine blessing. We may not know just what the church will be when it is fully developed. But whatever else it may be, it will be distinguished by these things, universality, unity and spirituality. The Saviour said, "Other sheep I have which are not of this fold; them I must also shelters man, his physical habitation, must grow gradually. The structure of Grace, the spiritual habitation must come to him all complete.

Man's physical and intellectual power must gradually unfold like the opening of a bud, while spiritually he is expected to spring full grown into existence.

This delusion will not disappear until we learn that the law of development runs through grace as well as through nature. We may not be willing to accept the ground of the evolutionist, that all life is from a single simple germ. From what we can know we see plainly present the law of development. In the vegetable world it is the blade, the ear and the corn. In the world of sentient being it is the child, the youth and the man and so we provide toys for infancy, object lessons for childhood and truth for manhood. Our text clearly recognises this law running through the Kingdom of Heaven. The church in the purpose of God, typified in Jewish national life and realized in Christ. This is what we might expect, a rational method for saving a rational being. We will first consider its development in thought. In the garden while the blight of sin in fresh and hence keenly felt the purpose of God is seen in the promise made to the woman. Here is seen the seed that shall bless all the earth.

When Abraham was called and the promise made that in him all the nations of the earth are to be best, the seed is not only cast into the soil, but indeed begins to grow.

In the selection of the Jewish nation and the formation of a covenant with them the blade begins to appear to view. God carefully hedged their people about with law, institutions, and by special providences cultivated them as a precious soil in which his holy purpose grew and ripened. After four thousand years of cultivation and patient waiting in the fullness of time Christ appeared. The purpose began to be realized. The fruit began to appear. After the history of Israel had shown that law, no matter how perfect, could not save; after the history of Greece had proven that with art, science, poetry and philosophy man will still be vile, after the history of Rome had proven that might can never make right, "the desire of all nations came." After man had sought in every field for bread and still perished Jesus came that we might have life. All the work of God previous to Christ's coming led to "Immanuel," God with us, God seeking to be among men. All the work of God since is that man may be with God. But in its realization is war and is a development. It began in weakness. Daniel saw it as a small stone rolling down the mountain side increasing until it filled the whole earth. The Saviour likened it to the leaven bid in the meal and the small mustard seed that became a mighty tree. And so it began in a handful of fishermen. For a time it had a marvelous growth until the bitter winter of ecclesiastical persecutions held it in cruel embrace. As the farmer's winter wheat seems lost, held in the frigid grip of winter, so for a thousand years the seed of God's kingdom seemed doomed in the relentless power of ecclesiasticalism of the middle ages. But at last the sun of God's providence broke this power and once more there were signs of life.

The voice of Luther lifted in behalf of religious liberty and the restoration of the word of God to its place, power and prestige over the conscience is the first sign of the return of life, and with Luther there appears John Calvin emphasizing the right of God to rule over the hearts of men. The fervent tender spirit filled Wesley speaking for the spirit of Godliness as well as the form is the growing blade. Here in this period the great Sunday school movement had its birth. Here the streams of Bible and Missionary Society usefulness took their rise. Then there came, in the early part of this century, that deep strong, earnest, loving protest against the evils of sectarianism. This was the appearance of the ear. For in this period have come into existence a multitude of union efforts that have brought incalculable blessings to the world. The Y. M. C. A., the C. E. movement, union missionary efforts, union Sunday school work, great union evangelistic efforts and above all a larger and more Christ-like charity and benevolence than the world ever knew have been and are some of the fruits. And still the full corn in the ear has not yet been realized. It is still our privilege to aid in contributing something toward bringing to the world the full fruitage of divine blessing. We may not know just what the church will be when it is fully developed. But whatever else it may be, it will be distinguished by these things, universality, unity and spirituality. The Saviour said, "Other sheep I have which are not of this fold; them I must also shelters man, his physical habitation, must grow gradually. The structure of Grace, the spiritual habitation must come to him all complete.

Man's physical and intellectual power must gradually unfold like the opening of a bud, while spiritually he is expected to spring full grown into existence.

This delusion will not disappear until we learn that the law of development runs through grace as well as through nature. We may not be willing to accept the ground of the evolutionist, that all life is from a single simple germ. From what we can know we see plainly present the law of development. In the vegetable world it is the blade, the ear and the corn. In the world of sentient being it is the child, the youth and the man and so we provide toys for infancy, object lessons for childhood and truth for manhood. Our text clearly recognises this law running through the Kingdom of Heaven. The church in the purpose of God, typified in Jewish national life and realized in Christ. This is what we might expect, a rational method for saving a rational being. We will first consider its development in thought. In the garden while the blight of sin in fresh and hence keenly felt the purpose of God is seen in the promise made to the woman. Here is seen the seed that shall bless all the earth.

When Abraham was called and the promise made that in him all the nations of the earth are to be best, the seed is not only cast into the soil, but indeed begins to grow.

In the selection of the Jewish nation and the formation of a covenant with them the blade begins to appear to view. God carefully hedged their people about with law, institutions, and by special providences cultivated them as a precious soil in which his holy purpose grew and ripened. After four thousand years of cultivation and patient waiting in the fullness of time Christ appeared. The purpose began to be realized. The fruit began to appear. After the history of Israel had shown that law, no matter how perfect, could not save; after the history of Greece had proven that with art, science, poetry and philosophy man will still be vile, after the history of Rome had proven that might can never make right, "the desire of all nations came." After man had sought in every field for bread and still perished Jesus came that we might have life. All the work of God previous to Christ's coming led to "Immanuel," God with us, God seeking to be among men. All the work of God since is that man may be with God. But in its realization is war and is a development. It began in weakness. Daniel saw it as a small stone rolling down the mountain side increasing until it filled the whole earth. The Saviour likened it to the leaven bid in the meal and the small mustard seed that became a mighty tree. And so it began in a handful of fishermen. For a time it had a marvelous growth until the bitter winter of ecclesiastical persecutions held it in cruel embrace. As the farmer's winter wheat seems lost, held in the frigid grip of winter, so for a thousand years the seed of God's kingdom seemed doomed in the relentless power of ecclesiasticalism of the middle ages. But at last the sun of God's providence broke this power and once more there were signs of life.

OLD SOL

REQUIRED

To Present Himself During the Present Week.

EVERYTHING SHAPING

For the Largest Exhibition in the History of the Province.

To make the exhibition of 1900 a success it is necessary that the directors receive favorable weather. Bright and charming weather is the essential requisite towards the success of any exhibition. A fine week for the fair will be extremely welcome after the disagreeable conditions of the past few days.

On Saturday the exhibition grounds presented a lively appearance. Exhibits were being received and were being placed just where they would be the most attractive. The tables have been daintily decorated with colored trimming and are very pretty.

Today the exhibit will be seen at its best and with the elaborate decorations yet to be placed on all sides the swaying masses of happy faces of the next few days will present an animated and cheerful scene.

In the main building the displays while not complete indicate excellence of quality and no doubt will be superior to those of former years. Flags and bunting in large array give the interior of the building a magnificent appearance. In addition to the food for the eye Messrs. Miller Bros. promise an almost continuous supply for the ear. The oldest pipe organ in the province for many years silent, will break forth as in the early days of the Milton congregation. The simply so antique that its a wonder. The Heintzman, Dominion and Whaley Royce, ably assisted by the mammoth graphophone with its new records, will furnish a program that will drive away the cares of life.

The work of preparation which was curtailed to some extent on Saturday because of the weather, will be prosecuted with vigor to-day.

If entries count for anything the exhibit of horses and cattle will give interest in stock raising. A number of the former arrived on the grounds on Saturday.

Mr. Mustart is in the city with his merry-go-round, which will be erected upon the exhibition grounds to-day.

Messrs. Kelly and Ashby, the most amusing of all comedy actors, are at the Queen Hotel. Saturday they were at work preparing for their great comic acts and side-splitting show to be given during the exhibition of the present week.