The Union Commercial College has won the enviable title "The School that has won the Confidence of the People" solely on its own merits. Every advertised claim is conscientiously fulfilled to the letter. The chief aim is to produce graduates who are not only a credit to the U. C. C. but to the firm employing them, and their native towns.

A course in the U. C. C. is a short cut to commercial success and prominence. No matter how smart you may be naturally, there are business rules—systems—methods—commercial law—and a hundred and one other factors that will hold you back if you're not familiar—nor prepared.

The U. C. C. will prepare you for any position you may select—bookkeeper, correspondent, banker, stenographer, office clerk, Civil Service, Commission merchant or broker, office manager. For modern, "meaty" interesting courses of study, explained and demonstrated by expert, popular and capable teachers, in bright, airy, clean and modern—appointed class-rooms—ideal congenial environment—why there is nothing a college should have that you don't enjoy at the U. C. C.

LOCATION

This college is situated in the most up-to-date office building in the Province—the Royal Bank Building, corner of Richmond and Queen Ss. The college occupies the entire third floor. In the Western corner is located the Shorthand department which is separated from the typewriting room by a glass partition. There is also entrance to the Typewriting room from the main hall. The Commercial room faces Queen St., is 47 feet each way, a delightfully bright and inviting looking apartment where is located every modern device used in actual business. From the windows may be had a splendid view of the square, harbor and principal business streets. On the north side are the cloak rooms and lavatories, the latter finished in the most up-to-date manner, with marble bases and barlapped walls. Glass partitions separate the Shorthand and Commercial rooms, while bright, airy skylights at the top of the stairways and halls throw in plenty of light from the world outside.

With the large and splendidly appointed quarters in the capital city and the branch school on Water St., Summerside, there is no reason why the prospective student should stay away because of lack of accommodation.

Each student receives personal and individual attention from Mr Moran, the principal and assistant teachers.

Parents and prospective students looking for a school that secures good results in shortest possible time will do well to write today for the annual year book and prospectus.
