

Nations Of The World Observe Armistice Day

Armistice Day No. 13, commemorating the end of the world's most colossal armed conflict, passed into history in an atmosphere inflamed by armed fighting and lulled by words of peace.

Tokyo—Emperor Hirohito ordered a fresh brigade of troops to replace detachments from Korea, and four destroyers sent to Manchuria, where a struggle already has cost the lives of at least 1,197 Chinese and Japanese soldiers.

London—While Queen Mary watched from the windows of Whitehall, the Prince of Wales laid a wreath at the foot of the cenotaph in observance to Britain's war dead. Big Ben ushered in two minutes of silence and afterwards a crowd of many thousands sang "O God, Our Help in Ages Past."

Washington—Armistice services were observed and President Hoover in an address warned that peace was not assured 13 years after the close of the world war and that it could not be maintained by resolution and injunction alone.

Geneva—League of Nations officials looked hopefully toward the next meeting of the Council on Monday for a solution to the Manchurian dispute.

Paris—President Doumer, whose four sons were sacrificed to the war, placed his token of homage on the tomb of the unknown Soldier of France at the Arch of Triumph.

Berlin—Germany dedicated the day to atonement of what she regards as the "war guilt lie" in the Versailles Treaty.

Moscow—Deep in her five year plan, Russia had spent her patriotism in marking the 15th birthday of the October revolution and had no time for Armistice.

Halfway across the Atlantic—Foreign Minister Dino Grandi said it was a day "twice dear to the hearts of Italians"; down in Buenos Aires allied flags swing in the breeze and at Rio De Janeiro Brazilian sailors stood at attention for two minutes.

Nanking—A mob of some 3,000 men and women students paraded the streets of the Chinese capital demanding that war be declared on Japan and economic relations be severed.

"Sky Raiders" Air Thriller

Could you rescue your best girl from highwaymen of the air lanes? Well, that's what the hero of "The Sky Raiders," the Columbia sensational aerial melodrama now at the Capitol Theatre today, is up against—and up against it high! But nothing daunts this young daredevil and he snatches his sweetheart from the leader of the air mail robbers and frustrates their sky high hold up in a manner that promises to make your hair stand on end and your blood tingle with excitement.

Lloyd Hughes plays the daring rescuer—a pilot of the trans-continental air express, that group of intrepid fliers who d-d-ly de'y all sorts of hazardous conditions in order to deliver their cargo safely and quickly. Marceline Day is the heroine who unknowingly becomes involved with the leader of the group of air bandits that preys upon the air route and pillages planes of valuables. How the fearless hero defeats their purposes forms the basis for much of the film's action.

There must be a magazine called "Exchange," and it gets quoted more than all the others combined.—Sunshine Magazine.

Youths Sent To Supreme Court

(Special to the Guardian)

Two young men, named Fred Wedge of Ebbfleet and Thomas Cannon, of Miminigash, came before John E. Campbell, J. P., at the Court House, Summerside, on Thursday afternoon, on a charge of breaking and entering the store of Messrs Gallant and Co. at Woodstock, and stealing therefrom a quantity of goods valued at $50.

Magistrate Logan said he was not going to dismiss the informations. Only two witnesses were heard this afternoon. They were Sergeant D. P. Guphill, of the provincial police, and Captain A. J. Mulcahey, port warden and Lloyd's local agent.

Sergeant Guphill's testimony concerned the seizure of the "Telephone" and the events which led up to it. At one point, when Mr. Ryan was cross examining him, he asked protection of the court. The defense counsel was questioning him about the connection which William Dean, of Musquash, had with the seizure. Sergeant Guphill said any understanding he had with Dean was police work which he would not disclose unless the court ordered him to.

IN MEMORIAM

THE LATE DR. T. B. FOLEY

Word was received in this city yesterday of the death in Boston, yesterday morning of Dr. Thos. Brinsley Foley, a former well known resident of this city, being a son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Thos. Foley and who will be kindly remembered by numerous friends here.

The late Dr. Foley received his early education in Queen Square School, later attending St. Dunstan's University. After graduating at the latter he entered Queens University, Kingston, Ont., where he entered the medical class.

After graduating with the degree of M. D., Dr. Foley still further pursued his studies in England and Ireland. After completing his studies here, he, with Doctors McKinnon and Bayfield, also of this City, left for Australia as ships physicians.

On his return he visited his native city and then went to Boston, where he practised his profession with marked success and it was Dr. Foley who was credited some years ago of discovering a case of leprosy in that city.

Dr. Foley has been ill about twelve months, but attended to his duties until last July when he was forced to take a rest, and although the leading physicians and specialists were consulted no relief was obtained and he gradually became weaker until the end came yesterday morning.

While at St. Dunstan's he was a prominent member of the football squad and many reside in the different sections of the province who were associated with him on the gridiron and will regret to learn of his passing.

One sister, Mrs. Shearman (Ethel) of Poughkeepsie, survives. To the relatives, a number of whom reside in this city the Guardian extends heartfelt sympathy.

MRS GEORGE MACDONALD

Friends in this city and throughout the province heard with regret of the passing of Mrs. George MacDonald, Cornwall, at 130 Wednesday afternoon. The deceased who was ill only a short time, suffered a serious attack on Saturday and despite medical attention and tender nursing failed to recover.

The late Mrs. MacDonald, who was an active member of the Cornwall York Women's Institute, will be remembered as a pioneer in this work and was one of the number of women who worked indefatigably for the erection of the Provincial Sanatorium, being a member of the committee which presented the proposition to the Government.

She was also a pioneer member of the Catholic Women's League to which Society she also devoted considerable time.

Besides a sorrowing husband, she leaves to mourn the following sons: Leo, Principal of Queen Square School; Leonard, of the P. E. Island Egg and Poultry Association; George attending the Seminary at Quebec; and Louis, at home. Three children, Mary, Victor and Claire predeceased her.

Two sisters also survive, viz: Mrs. Theresa Reid, Hope River, and Mrs. Margaret McManus, Winnipeg.

To all of the bereaved, the Guardian extends heartfelt sympathy.
