BURGESS BEDTIME STORIES

(By Thornton W. Burgess)
THE HARDEST TIME
Self-pity you will always find
To woes of others wholly blind.
—Old Mother Nature.

It was very early in the morning the beginning of the day. Mr. and Mrs. Quack were in the Smiling Pool which is as you know, in the Green Meadows some distance back from the Big River. It is on Farmer Brown's land. No shooting is allowed there. How the Quacks found this out I don't know. Perhaps it is because Mr. and Mrs. Quack are observing people. One who observes takes note of little things, of things that are different. Perhaps they had noticed that they never heard any dreadful guns around the Smiling Pool. Or perhaps they were smart enough to know that hunters with dreadful guns would look for them over on the Big River, not in so small a body of water as the Smiling Pool. Anyway there they were early this morning.

Bob White, flying across the Smiling Pool, saw them and stopped. He perched on a "No Trespassing" sign on the bank. "Good morning," said he. "So they haven't got you yet. I'm wondered about you when I have heard those dreadful guns over by the Big River. I hope you have had a pleasant journey so far. Why aren't you over in the rice along the Big River I don't believe you'll find much breakfast here."

"We are not here to eat, just to rest. We spent the night over in the rice, but came up here before daylight. That rice isn't safe for any Ducks in daytime, but there are no dreadful guns there after dark. As for the journey, all I can say is that we are here and thank you for here. You folks who don't have to make long journeys are lucky," replied Mrs. Quack. "You Ducks are the lucky ones. We Bob Whites can't make long flights, as you well know. If you find dreadful guns at one place you can fly to some other place far away. We can't. We have to stay. All we can do is to scatter and try to hide. Then Dogs smell us out and show the hunters where we are. Right around here we are safe, but for only a little while around here. He meant, Farmer Brown's farm where no hunting is allowed."

"Everywhere else Dogs and Hunters and dreadful guns are out day after day this time of year. This is a hard time for Bob Whites. I guess none have it harder," added Bob White. "Quack, quack, quack! Did you say a hard time?" If you want to know what a truly hard time is you should be a Duck" retorted Mrs. Quack. "Do you really think so?" asked Bob White mildly. "She certainly does and so do I," spoke up Mr. Quack. "To begin with you never have to go far. Unless an enemy makes you fly you don't have to fly at all. We Ducks must fly whether we want to or not. We must keep out of the reach of Jack Frost. We have to get where he can't freeze the water. If we didn't he would starve and freeze us to death. So with the first cold weather we must start for the Sunny South and keep ahead of him. That means flying and flying day after day with only short rests. It means knowing all the places where there is likely to be food, and being sure of reaching one before stopping to rest. That is something in itself, but when we reach such a place we must be sure, absolutely sure, that there are no dreadful guns waiting there for us. That isn't easy, especially when hunters have other Ducks to fool us."

Bob White cocked his head to one side. "Fool you? How?" he asked. "If you saw a flock of Bob Whites resting on the ground unafraid would you be afraid to join them? I mean would you suspect danger?" asked Mr. Quack. Bob White shook his pretty head. "No said he. "There would be nothing to fear." "There might be a hunter hiding near waiting for you," said Mr.

Quack. "But that never happens! Who ever heard of such a thing?" cried Bob White. "It happens to us Ducks. It is likely to happen at any of the feeding and resting places along the way. A lot of Ducks are fooled that way, and the dreadful guns get them," said Mr. Quack. "You should be a Duck to know who have the hardest times these days," he added.

Contract Bridge
By Josephine Culbertson

CLEVER PLAY

A beautiful executed strip-and-throw-in play brought home South's game contract in the following deal:

South dealer.
North-South vulnerable.

♠ 10 7 5	♠ 9 4
♠ J 10 9 8 5	♠ Q 4 3
♠ A 8 5	♠ 10 7 3 2
♠ 9 6	♠
♠ 8 3 2	♠
♠ A Q 8 3	♠
♠ K 7	♠
♠ K Q J	♠
♠ A K 7 4	♠

The bidding:
South West North East
1 ♠ Pass 1 ♥ Pass
2 NT Pass Pass Pass

West opened his fourth-highest spade. Dummy played the five, and the nine went to the queen. Now, since there was only one sure entry to dummy, declarer properly started the heart suit from his own hand, hoping that the defenders would be kind enough to take the king when it was offered to them. On the lead of that card, however, West shrewdly held up his ace—had he accepted it, declarer's problem would have become easy, since declarer had been ducked by West, lost to East's queen, and a spade was returned, declarer ducking and the trick going to West's jack.

West now made the best shift, to a diamond. Declarer won in his own hand and led a low club away hand, hoping that the defenders would be kind enough to take the king when it was offered to them. On the lead of that card, however, West shrewdly held up his ace—had he accepted it, declarer's problem would have become easy, since declarer had been ducked by West, lost to East's queen, and a spade was returned, declarer ducking and the trick going to West's jack.

MEANING HAS CHANGED

The French slang word "chic" meaning superficial smartness, dates from Louis XIV's reign, when it referred to lawyers who were masters of "chicane" or legal trickery.

The Importance of Teen-age Regularity

By helping to stimulate the action of the bowels, kidneys, liver and stomach, B.B.B. aids teen-agers over those unregulated periods. It aids in the elimination of wastes and impurities from the body. The result is often a smoother, clearer skin.
