Capier Mache Bag Carried Clara Bow's Clothing On First Trip To Hollywood

By DUANE HENNESSY... When Clara Bow was 17 she never had ridden on a train.

She was an untamed, almost primitive person in those days, a graduate of a poverty-shadowed home in Brooklyn. Before her stretched the promise of a career in the films, a promise that came true.

Clara had a few independent pictures behind her and a contract that was taking her to Hollywood. All her belongings were in a paper mache bag. She wore a sweater and a skirt that once had been pleated.

This was the Clara Bow who met her manager in Grand Central station in 1925. Her parting with her father was rather lacking in sentiment. As for the father, Robert Bow, he had little to say, no word of caution to give. He trusted blindly as his daughter started West with the woman she had chosen as her manager.

It must not be forgotten that Clara had a portable phonograph as well as her suitcase. The phonograph ground out "The Parade of the Wooden Soldiers" all the way across the continent. And when any one complained that it was annoying, Clara just answered: "Aw, g'wan, you oughta enjoy music."

Two hundred miles of the long journey had not passed before Clara knew everyone on the train. She possessed a strange magnetism that attracted men—young, old, married, single.

The dining car was a revelation to Clara. She ordered so many salads and deserts at each meal that the table would hardly hold them. Her manager tried to show her how to use a salad fork.

and delighted Clara. She wore them out in a day and had to go back to the sweater and skirt. "The arrival of Clara Bow in Los Angeles, doorway to Hollywood, was to have been a gala affair. But when her woman companion saw the formidable array of publicity men, cameras and executives, she knew that she could not let them see Clara. She looked at the little red head; there she sat in the faded sweater and the skirt that once had been pleated. They slipped out of the station by a rear route.

B. P. Schulberg, who held Clara's contract for his independent company, telephoned the manager, and he was in no jovial mood.

"What happened?" he demanded. "I planned a big publicity break at the station."

"Come on over to the hotel and take a look at the girl and you'll see," said the manager. "Is this the girl?" he demanded. "Why, she's impossible."

"Give her a test—give it to her right now," the woman pleaded. They took Clara Bow into a barren studio stage. It was a silent, grim place. Thousands of girls have had the experience and many have failed because the tenseness of the moment got them.

But not Clara. She didn't even know she ought to be worried. She was too primitive.

"Laugh!" ordered Schulberg. She did.

"Cry!" he commanded. Tears drenched her cheeks.

"You win," he said, and the career that was to skyrocket was started.

SELF-MADE PRISONER TIRES OF JAIL FOOD

SUNBURY, Pa., July 9. (U.P.)—John Hicks, 55, the Kansas City man who stole a pair of shoes "because I could be sure of something to eat in jail" is tired of his bargain.

Jail fare is not to John's liking, it appears. He has written his protest to the warden of the jail here, claiming that he, a federal prisoner, was being treated "like ordinary prisoners."

Successful Graduate

The following clipping from a Waltham Mass exchange, will be of interest to many Islanders as Dr. N. W. Cousins is a native of Alexandria being a brother of Mr. Samuel Cousins and an uncle of Mr. W. C. Chester S. McLure, Charlottetown. The genial doctor who has an extensive practice in Waltham, Boston is one of our successful Islanders abroad and still takes a keen interest in all movements for the advancement of Prince Edward Island. Dr. Cousins and family have been frequent visitors to Alexandria and we trust that the habit may continue. It is a pleasure indeed to record the success of his talented daughter:—

Entering Wellesley College when sixteen years of age, Miss Olive Isabella Cousins, daughter of Doctor and Mrs. Nichola W. Cousins of 20 Adams Street graduated in June when she received the B. A. degree.

Miss Cousins who has majored in French has taken a prominent part in the Free Day Exercises in both Junior and Senior years and directed the programme of the annual Pageant with its beautiful interpretive dances. It is an unusual honor for a member of the Junior Class to hold the responsibility of planning the Free Day Pageant, but Miss Cousins proved her capability last year and was again chosen this year.

Miss Cousins is thoroughly conversant with music and her early instruction was given by Walter F. Starbuck of this city. Though not a trained singer Miss Cousins possesses a good voice of sweet tone.

Though she was one of the youngest to take the college board entrance examinations four years ago when she graduated from the Waltham School for Girls, Miss Cousins was ranked with the four highest in a group of four hundred girls. Her freshman year was passed with higher ratings in her studies as have been the three succeeding years.

Born in Waltham, Miss Cousins attended the public schools for several years, leaving when in the seventh grade to enter the Waltham School for Girls. She is of unspoiled and pleasing personality and is exceedingly popular with her associates in college and elsewhere. She plans to spend the summer with her parents and in Autumn will enter Columbia to study for her A. M. degree. And future plans include a year in France to take a French degree. It is her ambition to become a professor of French in which language she is already well trained having taken the most difficult course Wellesley offered in that language. May the most marked success attend the efforts of this bright young lady in her studies.

MOYSE-HART NUPTIALS

(Sackville Tribune July 9) A wedding of much interest was solemnized at 10.15 yesterday morning in the Sackville United church, when Miss Alice M. Hart, daughter of Mrs. T. D. Hart, and the late Rev. Mr. Hart, was united in marriage to Mr. Thomas Moyses, of Central Bedeque, P. E. I. The ceremony, which was witnessed by a large number of interested friends, was performed by the pastor, Rev. Dr. J. H. Phillip, assisted by Rev. J. A. Hart, of Malagash, N. S., brother of the bride, Prof. H. S. Hamer presided at the organ, effectively rendering the wedding marches. The altar was beautifully decorated with flowers. The bride, who was given in marriage by her brother, Dr. E. R. Hart, of Sackville, was charming in a dress of independent blue lace, with black picture hat, and carried a beautiful bouquet of roses. She was attended by her sister, Miss Lillian Hart, as bridesmaid, who wore a yellow suit, with black picture hat, and bouquet of pink carnations. Mr. Henry Moyses, brother of the groom, acted as groomsmen. The ushers were Rev. W. S. Godfrey and Mr. Murray Tower.

After the ceremony a wedding breakfast was served at the home of the bride's mother, with about forty guests present. The reception rooms were tastefully decorated with roses, snapdragons and peonies the color scheme being yellow and pink.

During the breakfast a charivari party, with the town fire engine, arrived on the scene to extend congratulations. The siren of the engine, shotguns, and fire crackers were all used to enhance the jollity of the occasion. The happy couple came to the door to acknowledge the tokens of goodwill, and were saluted with the firing of guns. The celebrants had a decorated car for the bride and groom, but they managed to get away unexpectedly in another car.

Mr. and Mrs. Moyses left for Saint John on a short wedding trip and on their return they will reside in Central Bedeque, P. E. I. The bride travelled in a white and blue ensemble. They were the recipients of numerous beautiful wedding gifts including silver, china, linen, etc. The bride was recently the guest of honor at several showers. She has been a member of the United church choir for some years and also music teacher in the local schools.

COVERHEAD AND STANHOPE

Mr. and Mrs. Louis E. Shaw of Charlottetown have taken up their residence for the summer in their beautiful bungalow on the old Shaw farm at Stanhope Beach.

Friends of Mrs. Ramsay Auld will be glad to hear that she has returned to her home greatly improved in health after spending three months in the P. E. Island Hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter MacDonald are rejoicing over the birth of a little daughter. Congratulations.

Mr. Frank McCabe has closed his residence here and has gone to the city for the summer. Frank will be greatly missed in our social circle of which he is a valued unit.

All regret that Miss Edith Cameron has resigned her position as teacher in our school. We appreciate the splendid work Miss Cameron has accomplished during the past two years and wish her very great success in her new sphere of usefulness.

Everywhere we see the promise of an abundant harvest, the hay crop especially being above par. The timely and delightful showers of the past week have been an inestimable boon to our farmers.

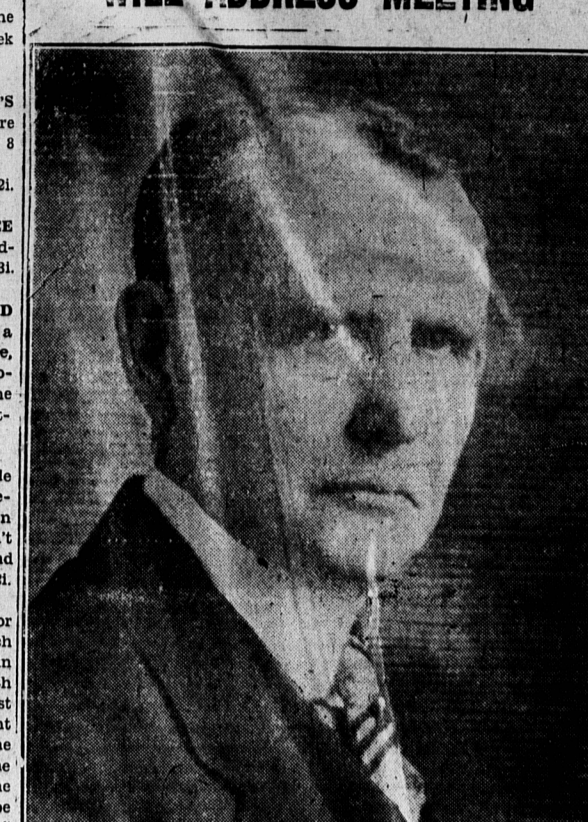

Our fishermen report an unusually large catch of lobsters—the largest for a number of years—Mackeral and cod are also plentiful.

Mrs. Gurney, our grand old lady, has returned to L'Isle Cottage for the summer. Although eighty-four years of age she is still hale and hearty, always taking a keen interest in the community life.

All of the schools in this vicinity have become vacant by the marriage of the teachers. Ha, ha. These teachers are great fishers of men.

Leaving certificates: Leonard Ayers, Grade X; Herbert MacKinnon, Grade X; Cecil Gaudet, Grade IX; Antonin DesRoches, Grade IX; Rita Arsenault, Grade VIII; Thelma Arsenault, Grade VI; Cedric MacKinnon, Grade VI; Marie Rose DesRoches, Grade VII; Norma Poirier, Grade VII; Eva Gallant, Grade V; Una Gallant, Grade IV; Louise Poirier, Grade V; Alden Small, Grade III; Ernest Arsenault, Grade II; Elizabeth DesRoches, Grade I—S. BUTTE TAMED AS GAS BOOM OPENED CITY

BY WILLIAM E. GAMMON United Press Staff Correspondent BUTTE, Mont., July 9. (U.P.)—Butte, once proud in its boast of being the widest of the wide-open towns, has been tamed.

Forebly, reluctantly tamed. It writhes under the orders which turned its gambling tables upside down and summarily stopped the window-tapping along Galena and Mercury streets.

The "greatest mining camp on earth," where liquor was strong and woman submissive, no longer is the city of a score of books and articles ranging in title from "The Perch of the Devil" to "Sin in the Desert." The "better element" long deplored the reputation the city had gained.

Then came depression. Mines were curtailed. Drought lowered agricultural returns. Vast industry came to the aid of the state. A long finger of pipe started from the Northern Montana gas fields to the industries of Southern Montana; another from the gas fields of Wyoming to the southern cities. And in their wake were groups known as "camp followers"—women and "tin horn" gamblers.

It was history repeating itself. Authorities, who had elected to "forget" Montana's gambling laws, were reminded sharply of them by the state's attorney general, L. A. Foot, who urged "prompt and vigorous action."

Not only in Butte, but elsewhere in the state, a sudden activity by county authorities resulted in the closing of scores of gambling halls. Federal prohibition agents co-operated, raiding in several counties along the right-of-way of the tenuous pipeline.
