BABY'S FACE

LOOKED LIKE RAW MEAT. Our baby's face and neck was all raw meat, and something awful to look at. The way that child suffered, mother and child never had any rest day or night as it constantly itched, and the blood used to flow down her cheeks. We had doctors and the dispensary with no result. By using CUTICURA RESOLVENT, CUTICURA (ointment), and CUTICURA SOAP, the child was entirely healed. Mrs. GARNJOSS, 213 Nassau Ave., Brooklyn.

How Rudyard Got His Name.

(Kansas City Star.)

Into noisy, drunken, soldierly Chattanooga there came one day a rosy, tweed-clothed Englishman with a rich and marvellous accent. His name was J. Bourne Pinder, and he was a salesman for the wares of the Doulton pottery, Staffordshire, Eng'land. He was a breezy sort of chap, lacking the reserve attributed to all travelling Englishmen, but the fact that he was a 'bagman' had, perhaps, something to do with it. At all events he was soon on speaking terms with the little group of newspaper men in the hotel and told some very amusing and instructive tales about England and other places to which he had journeyed.

One evening I sat chatting with him about unimportant things when he divulged this interesting fact:

"Do you know where Kipling got his first name? Most people do not. I have never seen the story of it in print. To begin at the beginning, my father was Thomas Pinder, of the pottery firm of Pinder, Bourne & Co., now Doulton's, in Burslem, Staffordshire. In the pottery was a young man named John Kipling, a designer of decorations. He was a very clever young man, although somewhat eccentric. He used, I remember as a boy, to carry pet mice attached to him by fine chains. He was a very vigorous man and full of amusing stories and could do innumerable clever tricks. When I was a boy he made casts of my face. He made paper quills and put them in my nostrils, greased my face and then covered it with wet plaster. It was no fun. I can tell you, but he was a good sort of chap and used to tell me stories and sing songs and make things with a jack knife for me, so I let him do it. He was a constant visitor at our house, and both my mother and father were fond of him.

One day my mother gave a picnic to the young people of the neighborhood at a pretty little English lake between the villages of Rudyard and Rushton, not far from Burslem. John Kipling went, of course, and there he met a pretty English girl, Mary McDonald, the daughter of a Methodist minister at Endon. Kipling fell in love with her at once. They met very often at my mother's house, and it grew into a love affair on both sides. Then John Kipling went to the art schools in Kensington, and was afterward sent out to direct the art schools of the Madras presidency in India. When he went to India he took pretty Mary McDonald along as his wife.

In the fulness of time a son was born to the Kiplings in Bombay. Their first meeting at Rudyard like must have been the pretty bit of sentiment of their lives, for when they named the son they took for him that of the little lake on the banks of which they first saw each other.

John Kipling came back afterward to the old potting country, and when they built an insitute for the people where Wedgewood first started potting, Kipling modelled the freeze for the building. The freeze describes the potter's art with figures of the thrower, the plate maker, the cup maker and all the others. It was a work of love. Rudyard Kipling is himself very fond of the Staffordshire countryside and has written the dialect, which he knows well, of his mother's people.

This is the story of the origin of Rudyard Kipling's Christian name, told by the son of the man under whom Kipling's father started on his art career.

DEAR SIRS.—I was for seven years a sufferer from Bronchial trouble and would be so hoarse at times that I could scarcely speak above a whisper. I got no relief from anything till I tried your MINARD'S HONEY BALSAM. Two bottles gave me relief and six bottles made a complete cure I would heartily recommend it to any one suffering from throat or lung trouble. J. F. VANBUSKIRK, Fredericton.

The New Baking Powder.

It is a well known fact beyond dispute that the much advertised brands of Baking Powder are sold at an excessive price, far beyond their actual value. In offering you DEARBORN'S PERFECT BAKING POWDER we guarantee that it is an absolutely Pure Cream of Tartar Baking Powder. Practical Bakers and Cooks state that they have proved it to be equal to the best Baking Powders known in this market. We have testimonials kindly offered us by Mr. S. J. Lanchner, the well known baker of this city; Mr. Raymond of the Royal Hotel, St. John, N. B.; and Mr. Wilson, manager of the Grand Hotel, Yarmouth. N. S. Tests have shown that DEARBORN'S PERFECT BAKING POWDER contains 12.80 per cent. of available carbonic acid gas, which is more than that contained in Royal Baking Powder according to the U. S. Agricultural Department Bulletin, No. 18, page 599, which is 12.74 per cent.

DEARBORN'S PERFECT BAKING POWDER retails at about half what other first class powders do and will give equal results. By asking for and insisting on having DEARBORN'S PERFECT BAKING POWDER you will not only benefit your own pocket but also encourage a home product. The following are the prices at which it is retailed: In Quarter-pound Tins, 10c; Half-pound Tins, 20c; and Pound Tins, 38c. Compare these prices with what you are paying. Our aim is to give you the best article obtainable at a reasonable price.

Table: COMPARATIVE STRENGTH AND COST. Available Carbonic Acid. Cost. Dearborn's perfect 12.80 per cent. 38c. per lb tin. Royal 12.74 per cent. 60c. per lb tin. The Saint John Coffee and Spice Mills. Established 1883.
