'IRISH EYES' IS DELIGHTFUL COMEDY DRAMA

Crowded House Greet St. Patrick's Day Play.

Every seat in the Prince Edward Theatre was filled last night at the premiere of the delightful play "Irish Eyes" given under the auspices of the benevolent Irish Society and under the most capable stage direction of Mr. J. Austin Trainor.

The occasion was graced by the presence of His Worship the Mayor and Mrs. Yebo. His Honour Lieutenant Governor Heartz was unable to be present, as he had gone to Borden to meet Mrs. Heartz and Miss Ruth Heartz on their return from Europe.

The story is a most winsome one, replete with wholesome sentiment. Eileen Brady, daughter of John Brady, who spent his early life as a fisherman on the coast of Galway in Ireland is in love with Shane O'Brien a young attorney. The first scene is laid in Brady's house in New York, and Brady, who has got on in the world, does not want his daughter to marry O'Brien, as he does not think him good enough.

Her uncle, Dan Riley, learning of this takes the daughter's part, and to convince him of the rightness of his stand, recalls to his mind their life in Ireland many years ago.

The remaining scenes of the play, except the last, deal with this. Riley was in love with Kathleen Barry, daughter of the Earl of Bray; but her father opposes the match, and wishes her to marry Capt. Percy Danforth a young fop. She gives him back a book of poems, his gift to her, which act he interprets as a token that she declines his suit. This is done before her father and she has no chance to explain. Riley, his sister Peggy who has just married Brady, and Brady himself leave for the United States.

The final scene is laid in John Brady's apartment in New York once more. He now acknowledges that he was wrong, and withdraws his opposition to Eileen's marriage with O'Brien. And, to complete every one's happiness, Kathleen Barry appears on the scene, and tells Riley that she left a note for him in the book she gave him asking him to call for her later, and take her away with him. This note he had overlooked, and, as each had never cared for anyone else the conclusion is obvious.

The cast of characters is as follows: John Brady—Bernard Hughes. Lanty Langan, a Butler and an old Irish Piper—George L. Clow. Eileen Brady, John Brady's daughter—Bernadette Gaudet. Dan Riley (Eileen's Uncle)—J. E. Cameron.

Shane O'Brien, (a young Attorney)—Percy Hapenny. Kathleen Barry, (The Earl's Daughter)—Mrs. Parker Hooper. Judy, (Dan Riley's Aunt)—Mrs. Arthur Henry.

Peggy Riley, (Dan's Sister)—Aileen Murray. The Earl of Bray—Dr. George Green. Capt. Percy Danforth—Clarence Howatt.

All performed their parts admirably, Mr. J. E. Cameron took the leading role of Dan Riley particularly well, playing it with much artistic insight and feeling as did also Mrs. Parker Hooper, who was Kathleen

JOINS FOREIGN OFFICE DEPT.

(Special to the Guardian)
LONDON, Mar. 18.—Having worked himself up in the admiralty, Prince George, third son of the king, has joined the foreign office staff in order to gain administrative experience. The question has been asked whether he will be paid a salary. This is not very important because foreign office clerks are paid very modest salaries.

His business will be to read dispatches from British representatives abroad and he will minute each dispatch giving his views on what actions should be taken on the matter concerned. The minutes will then go to a senior official for confirmation or revision. It is expected that the Prince will go to a western department which deals with western European countries.

Barry, the constant and winsome colleen to the life.
The St. Patrick's day salutations and greetings were charmingly delivered by Miss Aileen O'Neill, daughter of Mr. John O'Neill, a former president of the Benevolent Irish Society.

Miss Mary Trainor danced an Irish folk dance most gracefully. While the vocal solos "Ashore" given by Mr. Victor Coyle, and "Macushla" by Mrs. W. E. Fletcher, were splendidly rendered, and much appreciated by the audience who encircled these talented vocalists heartily. The singers were accompanied by Mr. W. E. Fletcher in his usual artistic and sympathetic manner.

The Irish airs so beautifully played during the entr'acts by an orchestra composed of Miss Thelma Burns, Mr. Alf. McKearney, Mr. Thomas MacFarlane and Mr. Archie Nelson added in no small degree to the evening's enjoyment.
The performance will be repeated tonight.

Capt. Campbell Will Assault Speed Record

CAPETOWN, South Africa, March 18.—Captain Malcolm Campbell, north British auto speed driver, said today he was determined to set a new world's record on the Verneuk Pan, a flat desert stretch in the Kenhardt district of the northern part of the Cape, despite any efforts to persuade him to give up the attempt.

Campbell reiterated his determination to make the speed attempt in connection with reports that his relatives had requested him to return home in view of the disaster which took the lives of two men in the speed tests at Daytona Beach, Fla., this week.

"I have a wife and family," said Campbell. "I have no intention of committing suicide. Gloomy forecasts may cause my English relatives unnecessary worry, but I am going to make the attempt."

Says Canadian Broadcasting Compared Favorably With That Of Any European Country

(Special to the Guardian)
TORONTO, March 18.—Canadian broadcasting has advanced to the point where it compares favorably with that of any in Europe, says Sir J. Aird, chairman of the Canadian Royal Commission on radio, who returned to Toronto Saturday, after a tour of the United Kingdom, Switzerland, Germany, Holland and France.

Great Britain, Sir John said, was in the forefront of broadcasting methods overseas. The British select their material and limit the character of the matter they broadcast. Talent employed, usually is of the best. The policy of government control, Sir John added, was well organized and fitted, particularly to the nature of the country and the auditors reached. Density of population and compactness of the country were contributing factors.

He mentioned one country school he visited where between 60 and 70 pupils were receiving instructions from a studio in London. Sir John met Premier Baldwin, the Marquis of Salisbury, Lord Jellicoe and others on the trip.
According to present plans, the radio commission, in the near future, will visit the principal broadcasting centres in the nine Canadian provinces. After visits to New York and Washington, they will begin work on their report. This, it is expected, will be ready in about two months.

Budget Debate Resumed By Hon. J. L. Ralston

(Canadian Press)
OTTAWA, March 18.—The budget debate was resumed in the house this afternoon by Hon. J. L. Ralston, Minister of National Defense. Hon. Hugh Guthrie, he said, had taken the attitude that because revenues under the liberal government had been higher than under the Conservative regime, the burden of taxation was greater. He had not, however, taken account of the ability of the people to pay it.

It would necessitate in considering such a matter to refer to the volume of business. During the years 1919-21 under the Conservative government the index of business in Canada had been 83.1. During the last four years of the Liberal government from 1925-1928 the index was 141.8. Accordingly, Mr. Ralston continued, there was an increase of 50 percent in the volume of business and an increase of only 15 percent in revenue. It should be recognized that comparison was being made to a different Canada entirely.

Dealing with the Duncan Report, Col. Ralston declared that although the interests of the coal and steel industries of the Maritimes were "inextricably bound up and absolutely intertwined," they were not unified. The demands for relief for these industries had met with consistent opposition. Further, final briefs on behalf of the companies requesting bonus for their products had only been filed before the tariff advisory board in November, 1928. It was important to the industry of Canada to have a steel and coal schedule, but it had been physically impossible to have such a schedule framed in time for the present budget.

The tariff advisory board had had two experts present their views, both of which were men favorable to the Nova Scotia coal and steel industry. They were D. H. MacDougall and J. Dicks Fraser. They had agreed upon the impossibility of drawing up a schedule at the moment. He was glad to say that conditions were better than ever and that in coal alone the increased production in February had been over 60,000 tons, while steel productions had increased by 18 percent.

Col. Ralston cited the various recommendations of the Duncan report which the federal government has implemented.
W. G. Ernst, (Conservative, Queens Lunenburg), charged the minister of national defense with having interceded on behalf of James Fraser of Halifax, in an attempt to secure the entry into a Nova Scotian port of two Spanish trawlers in 1927. The trawler's cargo of fish was to be landed in Nova Scotia and reshipped to Spain. There was a duty on this and declared Mr. Ernst, the minister had made representation to R. W. Bredner, commissioner of customs in Ottawa, telegraphing him that such a course could have no prejudicial effect on the fisheries of Canada.

The minister had wired that he was sure there must be "some way out of it." This action would have meant the loss of a valuable market to the Nova Scotia fishermen. Fortunately, said Mr. Ernst, the commissioner of Customs had refused to comply with the minister's request. Was this the policy of the government or the minister of national defense? Mr. Ernst's question to allow trawlers of foreign origin to use our ports as shipping bases in competition to an equal footing with our own fishermen?

"Yes, Mr. Ernst proceeded and under our regulations the shipment of fish in question to Spain was liable to payment of one cent per pound. Yet the minister of national defense had submitted in his wire to the commissioner of customs that there must be some way out of it. The minister, Mr. Ernst continued, was adopting the same policy in respect to the Duncan Report, namely, that there must be some way out of it."

"What was done in respect to the shipment of this fish?" Col. Ralston enquired. "Mr. Bredner stood by his guns and the minister was refused," Mr. Ernst replied. "I am quite sure," Mr. Ernst said, "that the fishermen of Nova Scotia will require quite a bit of explanation in this matter from the minister of national defense."

Will Face Trial On Two Separate Counts

(Canadian Press)
OTTAWA, Mar. 18.—Louis K. Auger, member of parliament, charged with committing a serious offence against a young girl, will face trial on two separate counts at the spring assizes of the supreme court of Ontario which opened here today. After deliberating for three and one half hours the assizes grand jury returned a "true bill" in the case early to night. The bill was divided into two counts, both of a criminal nature. Possibility of the case being proceeded with immediately was removed when Dr. Gordon Henderson, counsel for the accused, asked His Lordship, Mr. Justice Wright for authority to elect. This would afford counsel the opportunity of asking for trial by judge, without the intervention of a jury. His Lordship decided to hear Mr. Henderson's argument on this night. The bill was divided into two points when the case is called.

Royal Commission Report Exonerates London Police

(Canadian Press)
LONDON, Mar. 18.—The royal commission which has been investigating police procedure in London since Miss Irene Savidge charged Scotland Yard with having used third degree methods to extract information from her has completed its report. It is understood that this report exonerates the police from allegations of using third degree in dealing with suspected persons.

Meeting Of The Summerside Town Council

At an adjourned meeting of the Summerside town council held last night a dozen or so applications for a position on the police force were read, but Mr. T. D. Murray was appointed as chief and Mr. Henry Jamieson as police officer. Mr. Gilbert Arsenault was appointed town treasurer.

After some minor business had been conducted including the decision to place a transmitter on the electric service supplying the fox ranches out at the east end of Dr. Cunningham and Messrs Harman and Pope to improve their supply of current, Councillor Schurman, chairman of the light and power committee read a communication from the Maritime Electric Co.

The following are essential points in the communication. The Maritime Electric Co would pay the town in cash the amount now in the sinking fund for the retirement of the electric light bonds, $15,000 to $17,000 and pay off the remainder of the bonds at their due date, the amount now in the sinking fund to remain intact towards that purpose. The company would furnish the street lighting at approximately the same cost as at present and handle the town water pumping, under existing conditions at no greater cost than now. The company would agree to pay a fair amount of taxation estimated by them at about $850 a year. The company is confident that sound economic dictate the wisdom of the recommendations of Summerside being supplied from the Charlottetown plant which would render a service second to none at fair rates at a saving to the consumers of Summerside of approximately $4,000 a year.

Envoy Addresses Canadian Club

TORONTO, March 18.—The entire existing between British and French, first established by King Edward VII, who was known to the French as the first of the Parliaments, was vital to the maintenance of peace and the developing of civilization and humanity, declared M. Jean Knight, envoy extraordinary and minister plenipotentiary of France in Canada, when he addressed the Canadian Club here today.
The difficult post-war questions which arose and faced Britain and France were settled three years ago satisfactorily and completely, he said. And with their settlement and the understanding between the nations there came a sense of happiness and relief to all the world. Such was the power for good in a friendship be-

OTTAWA, Ont., March 18.—According to data received by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics from the departments of agriculture of the three prairie provinces, the acreage prepared for the 1929 crops in the three provinces is shown as 17,453,153 acres as compared with 16,295,969 acres prepared for the crops of 1928.

The Suez Canal was another result of this co-operation. For it was a Frenchman, Lesseps, who built it. He gave this example to prove the efficiency of the spirit of goodwill. Mr. Knight said.
