Winsloe Players At Kensington

On Friday night, May 13th, the Winsloe players presented their two delightful one-act plays to a capacity audience in King George Hall. The Caledonian dances between acts by two lassies from the Scottish Highlands were special features of the ensemble.
 Part 2 — One act play, "Savings Dad." Scene: office of Tom Walker. Aunt Jerusha (sister-in-law) — Mary Rodd; John Walker (his son) — Heath McLean; Tom Walker (young at 50) — John Rodd; Mary Rogers (stenographer) — Dorothy Taylor; Mrs. Jane Rogers (Mary's mother) — Sally Rodd. The capable histrionic ability of the players was obvious to the large and appreciative audience which was generous with vociferous and long continued applause. The singing and accompanying gestures by youthful Leith Stuenkel of Charlottetown was quite a revelation to Kensington play goers. He sang many songs and was still encored. The entertainment was sponsored by the Kensington School and the proceeds will be used for playground equipment.—K

By Alan Harvey

LONDON, May 18 — (CP) — Mrs. Jean Mann, who delights the House of Commons with many a crackle of dry Scots' wit, takes Britain's new budget in her stride. Housewives shouldn't be dismayed, she says, just because it means higher prices for meat, cheese, butter and margarine. They can get around that by taking the extra pennies out of the pocket money they gave their husbands.
 Mrs. Mann, a tiny, grey-haired Glasgow housewife who sits as Labour member for Coatbridge, made the suggestion in a Commons debate. It was in line with her pet theory — women should have tighter control of household purse-strings.

Marital Police?

Recently she introduced a private bill which would allow housewives to keep any money they save out of housekeeping. It was lost in the shuffle, but Mrs. Mann is going to keep on trying.
 "There are some burglar husbands about and for them we need a policeman," she says.
 One of her favorite stories concerns a serviceman's wife who saved "every penny" of her allowance during the war. Then the husband went off with a blonde — and all the savings.
 But Mrs. Mann, who has been "happily married" 36 years and is the mother of five children, also puts in an occasional plug for husbands. In the budget debate, she had this to say:
 "I have been brought up with the working class, and I know the custom among the lower-paid income groups.
 "On pay day, the husband comes home and lays all his wages at his wife's feet!"

Re-opening Of St. Stephen's Church At Burlington

St. Stephen's Anglican Church at Burlington was filled to the doors on Sunday evening, May 15th with members of the congregation, substantially augmented with friends from many other communities and churches. After an extensive renovation of the interior, the church was officially re-opened at this service.

Two new windows, letting more light into the sanctuary, were dedicated, to the glory of God, and to the memory of the late William J. Paynter, a faithful member of the church and warden for twenty-one years. This was the gift of his wife and family. The rector, Rev. Sidney J. Davies, B. A., conducted the service and preached the sermon. Taking for his text the words, It is written, My house shall be called the House of Prayer, Matt. 21:13, he gave a forceful and dramatic presentation of some reasons for worshipping in God's house, and putting God first in daily life, which should leave no doubt in the minds of his hearers that the primary and final purpose of life was to be the glorification of God at all times in the daily round, and at certain times in God's house. The choir, assisted by St. Mark's choir, Kensington, with Mrs. S. J. Davies at the organ, led in the singing of specially chosen hymns, and a solo, "Moment by Moment," was beautifully rendered by Mrs. Kenneth Pidgeon, Kensington.

A bouquet of beautiful flowers on the communion table, was the gift of Mrs. William J. Paynter and family, in memory of the late Mr. Paynter. Two bouquets of daffodils were the gift of Lt.-Col. and Mrs. E. W. Johnstone. The rector paid tribute to the splendid spirit of co-operation shown by the professional decorator, Mr. Ken Bremner, recently of England, whose many hours of painstaking work, coupled with the labour of almost every member of the congregation, had brought about the transformation of the interior of the church.

The people of St. Stephen's are deeply grateful to all who contributed to the beauty of the service, and also for the most generous offering received.

At the beginning of the service, the rector regretfully announced the death of the late Mrs. L. M. Larkin, organist, Mrs. Lorine Campbell, and of the Rev. Benjamin Fream, Cra-paud, who was to have preached the sermon. Rev. Mr. Fream's absence was especially disappointing, as he is a former beloved rector of this parish, and having been appointed assistant at St. Paul's Church, Halifax, will be leaving the island, early in June.

The sacrament of Holy Communion was administered at the morning service at St. Stephen's by Rev. Mr. Davies, who preached from the words found in the first verse of the 122nd psalm, I was glad when they said unto me, let us go into the house of the Lord. Looking back over the years, he commended the vision of those who had built the body of the church, almost one hundred years ago, on their choice of location and name, conveying the thought, "St. Stephen's-on-the-Hill."

Through the years a great heritage has been passed from generation to generation. The chancel was added less than fifty years ago, and only last year, a furnace was installed.
 Referring to the present renewal of the house of the Lord, he said, in substance, that the sacrifice of time, labour and money, was not too much, for He gave us all we have. The time and talent spent on the undertaking was an offering of love, freely given, for no other building, in the community, must be cleaner, better or more beautiful than the house of God.
 The successful completion of the task, is in a large part, due to the untiring zeal of the rector, whose unflinching energy and tactful cheerfulness, appeared to have the effect of welding together, the many and various elements, needed for such an undertaking.—Bur.

A recent and interesting guest at "Treholme", Kensington, was Mr. L. Rankin, whose home address is Mt. Desert, Maine, but who is seldom to be found there. Mr. Rankin spends his time travelling, and as a result is a very interesting conversationalist. He came to the island from Florida, and on leaving here will visit Halifax, Montreal, and other centers.—Bur.

—HOCKEY SEASON OVER — Members of Kelvin Grove hockey team and their friends celebrated the closing of the hockey season with a lobster supper, prepared and served by the Women's Institute. A toast to the King, proposed by the manager, Mr. Horace Paynter, was responded to with the National Anthem. The captain, William Caseley, on behalf of the team, thanked the members of the W. I. for the bountiful and appetizing repast and Mrs. Harold Laird, president of the W. I., replied. Other speakers were Messrs. Art Larkin, Anacrus McEntee and Horace Paynter. The banquet was held in the new school, and was followed by a dance in the old school, when Messrs. Norman Mill and Johnny Inglis furnished the music.—Bur.
