THE ARMISTICE IS NOW ENDED

Thibetans Refuse to Treat and War will Go On Closure in the Commons Followed by Disorderly Scenes—The Police Called In.

THIBETANS WON'T TREAT. LONDON, July 5.—(Special)—No Tibetan overtures were made today and the armistice terminates tonight. THE WAR TO BE RESUMED. A signal gun will announce the fact and a half hour's further grace for the removal of the women and non-combatants will follow. CLOSURE IS ENFORCED. The Government carried through Premier Balfour's closure proposal despite the heated declarations of members of the Opposition. MANY DISORDERLY SCENES. Disorderly scenes without precedent took place in the lobbies which were invaded by the public and by deputations seeking to influence members to vote against the Government. THE POLICE TAKE A HAND. The police finally forced the crowd into the open courtyard adjoining the House. BE IN EARNEST. Be in earnest about your health. Do not suppose that the headaches, backaches and other symptoms from which you suffer will pass away of their own accord instead of developing into serious and chronic disease. If you are subject to kidney, liver and bowel derangements there is a preparation which will be so helpful to you as Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills. One pill a dose.

THE LARNER FUND.

Contributions still come in daily for the Larner Fund. SONS OF THE SOIL BUT KINGS OF EARTH

Are Intelligent Farmers Says, Duncan Anderson at Middleton Yesterday—Successful Agricultural Meeting Held in that Beautiful Settlement.

The agricultural picnic in the beautiful settlement of Middleton yesterday was a great success from an educational point of view as well as affording an outing to many farmers and their wives and families to spend a pleasant afternoon. The only drawback to the day was the heavy wind which necessitated the addresses being given in the hall and the tea in the schoolhouses instead of as first intended in the open air. Among those present besides many prominent men from the immediate vicinity were Hon Jas Richards, Hon S E Reid, Walter Simpson, Dr Doherty, John Anderson, L O Fowler, Theodore Ross B A., J W Callbeck, G M Reid and representatives of The Guardian and The Patriot. When the meeting in the schoolhouse was called to order by appointing Charles Craig, Middleton to the chair, the hall was filled to the doors, the audience including many ladies who listened with great interest to the excellent addresses. Major Sheppard was the first speaker. He referred to some opinions he had heard in Ontario, P. E. I. He had his impressions of this province. He saw no signs of a grinding poverty—the people are getting along as well as any place in Canada. In the soil there is, practically speaking, no bad land, in great contrast to the large barren wastes of other provinces. The soil is very fertile and easily worked. It yields readily to the influence of the farmer and gives good results. Ontario in part may have better soil but there are thousands of acres of barren. Among the defects here is that there is too much sold off to make, for the best progress—too much raw material being sent away. Speaking of local conditions he said there were no more beautiful sections, even on the banks of Niagara, which is next to the Garden of Eden. There are hundreds of things that can be done here if the people only thought so. No better potatoes or apples can be grown on the face of the earth than here. In cherries there are also great possibilities for expansion. With regard to the farm houses and surroundings compared with the best of Ontario he said that P. E. I. was somewhat primitive and without ornamentation, but regarding the barns they are much neater, though not so large as the best of the Ontario farmers. In Ontario, farmers do not use paint on their outbuildings and had the old inartistic buildings that speak of no-hing but ugliness. Too many houses here have no surroundings in trees which go to make the home look snug, tidy and pleasant. Trees are particularly useful if the farmer wishes to go into fruit growing. In New York again the Americans far exceed us in the neatness of their homes. With regard to farming operations upon one or two crops. Seeding and ploughing of course will give a far better country and greater returns for labor. Keep your cattle well and feed them well. Mr. Sheppard in concluding presented a chart showing the seed investigations in 1903 in P. E. I. from clover and timothy seed purchased in different parts of the Island. The investigation refuted the statement that poor seed was given only at lowest prices. To remedy the poor seed grievance farmers must take the matter in their own hands; they must examine the seed they buy, and thus show the seller that they are interested and thereby spur him on to secure a better article. Duncan Anderson was the next speaker. He addressed himself to the young men and young women of the audience. He showed them the farm was a good place for them to live. With a humorous introduction he brought before the audience the greatest national question of the day—"How can we keep the farm fertile?" He quoted figures showing that the agricultural industry was our most important industry by long odds. Our mines, our timber, our fisheries cannot be increased while the farm lands if they are intelligently cultivated will increase and increase. The farmer will be valued as he values himself. Then remember you are sons of the soil but kings of the earth. There is now more room for intelligent brainy boys on the farm than ever before. Let us get our education where we will it must enable us to do our work in the best possible manner or it is no education at all. The farmer has his living on the land at little expense, and has endless opportunities for putting intelligence into his work. If there be one thing he would say to the farmers of Canada it is this, the farmer must be a business man. He contrasted the man who went into the professions and has been crowded out by the younger man, with the farmer who put intelligent effort into his work and at middle life has independence, and regardless of the conditions of business that may change, is still the same. In all lines of business there are constant changes but science will never take from the farmer the power of producing. Capital can never take possession of the land and farm it successfully. Hon. James Richards spoke of the remarks of the preceding speakers which were calculated to inspire every farmer with pride. Great progress is being made and the people are going forward. He was glad to meet the people of Middleton and enjoy their hospitality. Theodore Ross, B A urged that the elder people give the young an opportunity to learn to apply their labor intelligently on the farm. Walter Simpson, Bay View emphasized the remarks of the previous speakers. He pointed out that the old man became of little use in all professions except in farming. He believed the decrease in the population was owing to the unproductiveness of the farm, which drove away many of the young. The only remedy is to farm more intelligently and bring more science into our work. Hon. S E Reid was the last speaker. He had come to listen and learn not to teach. The impartation of such men as have spoken is one of the great benefits of Institute work. He suggested that farmers grow their own seed thus knowing what is pure. He hoped soon to be present again at a meeting in Middleton. In closing Mr. Reid referred to the Macdonald Rural schools which were in the vicinity and would prove an admirable object lesson. At this point the ladies retired to prepare tea and J W Callbeck reviewed the recommendations regarding the marketing of bacon hogs. He read extracts from a letter written by a leading pork factory manager in Ireland which showed the methods there are similar to those proposed here. The system had been endorsed by F W Hodson, Live Stock Commissioner, who offered to supply a suitable inspector. He detailed the different steps taken 'up

RAILWAY ACT AMENDMENTS

Important but Do Not Affect Government Roads

More Soldiers Sent to Sydney—Question of Commission to Inquire or for Arbitration.

AN IMPORTANT AMENDMENT. OTTAWA, July 5.—(Special)—In the Railway Committee, Lennox's Bill to amend the Railway Act was adopted. The first clause provided that no agreement could be made with the employee of a railway to relieve the company from liability by personal inquiry. WILL NOT APPLY TO L. C. R. The other clause to make the Bill applicable to the Government road was defeated. The Bill will be referred to the Supreme Court to ascertain the power which Parliament has to deal with the subject. MORE SOLDIERS FOR SYDNEY. SYDNEY, July 5.—(Special)—The situation is unchanged, and the strikers quiet, but they continue to turn back all men seeking to enter the works. Two hundred soldiers are coming from Halifax to-night. A MATTER FOR ARBITRATION. Mr. Moffatt, President of the P. W. A. wired Sir William Mulock asking that the Government appoint a Commission of inquiry but Mulock advises unconditional arbitration and is urging this on the Company. till the present time in the matter by the different institutes. Duncan Anderson showed what education along the line of the bacon hog had done for Ontario. After further discussion Mr Callbeck's recommendation was unanimously adopted and also was it agreed that the inspector visit the shipping stations twice every year to give object lessons from the inspection of the hogs. After partaking of an excellent tea prepared by the good ladies of the district the people departed to their homes well pleased with the day's outing. PITYFUL HELPLESSNESS. Victims of nervous diseases are most pitied because their ailment usually terminates in mental or physical helplessness. Paralysis, locomotor ataxia and insanity can only be avoided by building up the nervous system at the first signs of trouble and there is no preparation so well suited for this purpose as Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, the great nerve restorative

FIGHTING IN MO TIEN PASS

Russians Lose and Attempt to Regain it

They are Repulsed and Burn their Supplies—Probable Explanation of the Affair.

AGAIN AT MAS TIEN. LONDON, July 5.—(Special)—General Kuroki has occupied Mao Tien Pass and the Russians have abandoned Tien Shan Quan, burning their supplies. RUSSIANS AGAIN REPULSED. The Russians were repulsed in an attack on the Japanese at Mao Tien Pass. [The above is the third report of the occupation of Mo Tien (or Mao Tien) pass by the Japanese. This is on the road to Liao Yang, and in the mountains. Lien Shan Quan or Kwang, where the Russians are reported to have burned their supplies, is on the same road ten miles to the southeast of the pass, and must have been captured by the Japanese before they entered the pass. The report is therefore probably an echo of what took place some days since. As the Mo Tien Pass is some miles in length, and probably defended by the Russians at several points one after the other, it seems probable that previous reports of the capture of the pass by the Japanese may have referred to their entering it, having afterwards to fight their way through.]
