STUDENT DOES HIS BIT.—A boy of young people assembled at the east bound train on Saturday afternoon last to bid a temporary farewell to their friend and class-mate, Mr. Jack Martin, who after a very successful year spent in U. C. College has decided that although he is not of military age, there is yet another way in which he can do his bit for his King and country and so, Jack, as he was familiarly known, has given up his studies for the time being and returned to his home in Grandview, to indulge in the strenuous art of greater food production. His many friends and class-mates wish him every success in his new field of labour.

ROUTE MARCH.—The soldiers composing the present draft in Charlottetown had a route march through the City yesterday. They are a creditably fine-looking body of men and notwithstanding their very brief period of training marched splendidly to the music of an improvised band of harmonicas and "bazooks" which music sounded first rate for the purpose.

FORTUNE ROAD WELCOMES RETURNED HERO.—On Thursday evening the 18th inst. a splendid reception was tendered Pte. C. J. Dwan at the home of his mother, Mrs. Patrick Dwan, Fortune Road. Pte. Dwan left here with the 105th Battalion and after being in the trenches for several months he contracted trench fever. After going through the Hospitals he was returned to Canada and arrived at his home last week. After Pte. Dwan was seated in the midst of his family, Mr. Thomas Larkin briefly explained the object of the gathering. The young hero was the recipient of a well filled purse in gold. The presentation was made by Mr. Lewis Burdige while Mr. Patrick Kelly read an appropriate address.

BARBARY SHEEP.—The dramatized version of M. Robert Hitchens' great novel "Barbary Sheep" in which Elsie Ferguson takes the part of Lady Wyvern, was the great attraction at the Prince Edward last evening and will be repeated at the matinee this afternoon and twice this evening. There was a crowded house, and everyone admired and enjoyed the production. The contrast between the typical English country hunting scenes, and the gorgeous pagantry and romantic scenery of the East was most effective, and appealed to the senses, and the gorgeous pagantry is to the story as it unfolds which even those who have not read the novel, thoroughly appreciated. The Pathe Weekly was unusually interesting and was repeatedly applauded.

Relations Strained

(Special to The Guardian)
LONDON, April 23.—The British foreign office according to the London News has learned that the relations between Holland and Germany are very strained. The dispute about the supply of gravel from Holland to Germany was said to have been the cause. Official and diplomatic circles in London were reported to look upon the situation with uneasiness. Rumors were that something in the nature of an ultimatum had been delivered to Holland by Germany.

IN MEMORIAM

MRS. GERTRUDE GILLCASH

The death of Mrs. Gertrude Gillcash, relict of the late Augustine Gillcash on the morning of March 14th removed from Glenwood one of its most valued residents. Deceased had been in her usual health until eight days previous to her death, when she was stricken with an attack of pneumonia and pleurisy. During her illness she was comforted by the presence at her bedside of her sons, William and Stewart of Glenwood. Medical skill and tender care proved of no avail, and her spirit passed peacefully away to Him who gave it. Her charity was generous and wherever sickness or sorrow came her heart was open to soothe the wound and console the afflicted. All who knew her esteemed her for her kindness and goodness and her death at the comparatively early age of fifty eight years leaves in the home and in the hearts of the people a vacancy that can never be filled. She was a kind and loving mother, of high ideals and excellent Christian principles. The funeral was held on the 21st in order that the absent members of her family might be present. In order to do so her daughter, Mrs. Emdon Cornwell of Dorchester, Mass., was compelled, owing to the abnormal condition of the trains, to travel by team from Port Borden, and her son Eneas from Charlottetown. There was no funeral service at the home owing to the fact that Lorne, the youngest son of the deceased, was critically ill with pneumonia and pleurisy. Service at the church was conducted by her pastor, the Rev. Robert Murray. The funeral was largely attended, friends coming from far and near to pay their last tribute of respect and esteem to one whom they all held dear. Her remains were laid to rest in the Presbyterian Cemetery at West Point. The deep sympathy of the whole community goes out to the sorrowing family in their sad bereavement.

You have gone from us dear mother, to that bright and shining shore. Where the light of Heaven shineth And life's sorrows are no more.

But your memory we will cherish While the dreary years roll on. For the darkest night is followed By the breaking of the dawn. 4734.

MISS ANNIE DYMENT

A sad event occurred at Knutsford on Thursday evening when the spirit of a young life departed for eternity, namely Miss Annie Dymont, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dymont. The deceased barely 18 years of age had just come home from attending the Prince of Wales College for the Eastern provinces when to all appearance all was well, being most punctual at the special services held during Holy week at Knutsford. She later on complained of her throat and was medicinally attended. All even then appeared to be going on as well as could be expected until a further change occurred when further aid was sought yet all in vain. Alas how true the words of the poet "God moves in a mysterious way" in thus taking away a young life which was just beginning to be of service to the world. Besides a bereaved father and mother she leaves behind two sisters to miss an older sister's care and protection. The many friends of the bereaved mourn with them in their sad loss.—W.

HERBERT A. MCKENZIE

On Sunday afternoon April 21st, were laid to rest the remains of the late Herbert A. McKenzie. Death in all cases brings with it its pangs of sorrow, but the sad circumstances attending the untimely death of the late Mr. McKenzie caused an exceptional shock of grief. He left home on Thursday morning in his usual health, to perform his duties in charge of the mails on the Charlottetown-Tignish route. While at Summerside, he suffered severe pains of indigestion, to which he was sometimes subject, believing, however, that his suffering would be a short duration, he continued at his work. At O'Leary he was advised to seek medical assistance, but rather than delay the mail, he resolved to fight off his sickness until he arrived at Tignish. This he did, and completing his duties at Tignish Station, he proceeded to his boarding house. Here he consented to have a Doctor called, although he felt no grave danger. Later in the night his suffering increased so intensely that about 3 a. m. he called for a Doctor and a Priest to be summoned in haste. Dr. McBride was first to arrive and was astonished to find that the case had developed to the last stages of acute indigestion. Rev. Father McDougall, and Dr. Johnson were quickly at his side, but Divine Providence had decreed that for the bodily ills of the sufferer, human aid was no avail. Shortly after four o'clock his trusting soul, fortified by the last Rites of the Church passed from this world. By his genial, though reserved manner Mr. McKenzie had formed a host of friends wherever he was known. To all of these his sudden demise has been the cause of most genuine regret.

Amherst Man Sustains Injury

(Special to The Guardian.)
AMHERST, April 24.—At midnight an extra freight, east bound, hauled in to Amherst yard stopping at the Spring street crossing to set off a car of freight and while so doing a young man, Walter Newcombe, who arrived at this point about the time the train was ready to leave, thought he would pass over the train couplers to save time and in so doing he fell to the track, the wheel passing over a portion of his hand and fingers. He was immediately rushed to the Highland View Hospital. The doctor says a portion of fingers and hand will have to be amputated on account of the bones being crushed.

Canadians Storm The Enemy

(Special to The Guardian.)
CANADIAN ARMY HEADQUARTERS, April 23.—Raided in no less than seven places, gassed with thousands of Lachrymatory and Leethal shells, pressed by special Artillery shots, his trenches swept by machine gun and rifle bullets, his front line hammered by trench mortars, the enemy for the past 12 hours has had a lively time at the hands of the Canadians. From dusk until dawn the whole front has been lively North and South of Lens. The ceaseless rumble of our heavies are neutralizing hostile batteries by concentrated and continuous gas shelling has been accompanied by the shaper chorus of our field artillery carrying out a particularly harassing fire programme.
