SURPRISE PARTY

On Monday evening, August 3rd, a very enjoyable social evening was held at the home of Mrs. Bridget Kenny, St. Teresa's, in the form of a surprise party...

A gold piece, which was given in behalf of the St. Teresa's Women's Institute, was presented by Celeste Gormley, and the presentation address was read by Dorothy McInnis.

Miss Kenny, in her own gracious manner, thanked the members for remembering her. Miss Kenny has been teaching in our school for the past two years, she also was a member of the Women's Institute.

The remainder of the evening was spent in dancing. A buffet lunch was served by the members, assisted by Mrs. Patrick Ryan, of Cardigan, a sister of the honor guest.

In the wee small hours of the morning, all departed to their respective homes in good cheer.

Following was the address: Dear Angela:—We the members of the Women's Institute wish to tender you a fond farewell. Need we say how greatly we shall miss you.

Your going away leaves a vacant place, not only in our Institute, but in our hearts as well. Your conscientious and untiring effort among us will be always remembered and appreciated.

On parting, let me present to you in the name of the Institute, this small token of appreciation.

May we ask you to always remember us and when you are praying to our Divine Lord, ask his blessing on your many friends in St. Teresa's.

Good-bye and God bless you. Always your friend, the Women's Institute. Patriot please copy)

GREEN IS SHORT ON LONG GREEN, SAYS MRS. GREEN

The following clipping is from the New York World. Mr. Green referred to is a son of Charles Green, of Summerside, and his wife, Constance Kelly, is a daughter of the late Judge Kelly, also of Summerside.

Another American alimony tragedy is scheduled to unfold tomorrow in Supreme Court, Manhattan, when George Stanley Green, millionaire manufacturer and yachtsman of Bronxville, will try to tell why he should not be held in contempt for failure to pay his wife, Constance, $560 in back alimony.

In 1924 Mrs. Green won herself a decree of separation and $150 a week alimony. At that time Green was found to be an erring husband, and prominent mention was made of the youthful Miss Ray Alpl.

Because he was enjoying an income which Mrs. Green placed at more than $100,000 a year, and had a yacht, Green was ordered to pay $7,500 alimony.

GREEN IS SHORT ON LONG GREEN, SAYS MRS. GREEN

The following clipping is from the New York World. Mr. Green referred to is a son of Charles Green, of Summerside, and his wife, Constance Kelly, is a daughter of the late Judge Kelly, also of Summerside.

Another American alimony tragedy is scheduled to unfold tomorrow in Supreme Court, Manhattan, when George Stanley Green, millionaire manufacturer and yachtsman of Bronxville, will try to tell why he should not be held in contempt for failure to pay his wife, Constance, $560 in back alimony.

In 1924 Mrs. Green won herself a decree of separation and $150 a week alimony. At that time Green was found to be an erring husband, and prominent mention was made of the youthful Miss Ray Alpl.

Because he was enjoying an income which Mrs. Green placed at more than $100,000 a year, and had a yacht, Green was ordered to pay $7,500 alimony.

The yachtsman did this willingly enough, but then got a Reno divorce so that he might marry the third angle in the triangle.

In 1928 Green had the alimony reduced to $4,000 per annum. Whereupon Mrs. Green countered through her attorney, Daniel Fischer, of 551 Fifth Ave., with, "Because the husband maintains a second establishment, it is fair that the wife should be forced to accept crumbs from his table!"

Undaunted, Green came back to court last year and told a pitiful tale of lost fortune and a $50 a week job. The alimony was then reduced to $25 a week.

For the last twenty weeks, Green has failed to pay.

"Are you engaged to Bob?" "Yes, I have promised to marry him as soon as he has made his fortune."

"That isn't an engagement, that's an option."

LOOKING 'EM OVER

CRICKET SPECTATORS HANDLE UMPIRE

The opinion has been generally held that cricket is a game played by and before gentlemen, one in which the best traditions of sportsmanship are rigidly observed by both those on the pitch and those in the grandstand. To "crab" or defy the decision of an umpire is as unheard-of as bringing one's lunch to a levee at Buckingham Palace.

LOOKING 'EM OVER

Godfrey and Carnera have met once before, the Italian winning in a foul in the seventh round. Following the fight, Godfrey was barred from boxing in a number of American states. Since that time the colored heavyweight has taken to wrestling, at which game he has proved himself a formidable opponent for some of the best wrestlers.

DEMPSEY'S COMEBACK

The New York American says that Jack Dempsey told Tom McArdle, Madison Square Garden match-maker over the telephone that he will be ready to face first class opponent in his comeback campaign some time in December.

The garden offered Dempsey a fight, in September and his choice of Paulino Uzcudon, Johnny Risko, Jose Santa or Jimmy Braddock as opponents.

In reply Dempsey is quoted as saying: "I'm not ready yet, but I will be. I'm not fighting top-notchers until I'm in top notch condition. I'm booked solid on exhibitions until the latter part of November."

NOT TRYING FOR RECORD

"Shipwreck" Kelly, flag-pole, or any kind of pole sitter par excellence, is seen perched on top of a pole at Toronto. When Kelly arrived from New York he thought it would be great fun to perch on a pole and drink beer—being, he said, on his place of domicile. However, the police stepped in and he still drinks water.

RUTH STILL SHOWS THE WAY

"Babe" Ruth may be a little slower in the legs than a few years ago. The scythe of Father Time swings first at the under-planting of an athlete. But "Babe" Ruth could be rolling to his place in the outfield of the Yanks in a wheel chair and still hold his place on the payroll through his efforts with the hickory.

Tuesday he biffed his thirty-seventh home run into the bleachers at Chicago. In his other four times to the plate he was given a walk and caught three balls for two singles and a double.

Ruth now leads his team mate Gehrig in the race for home run honors. He has a three-run margin on the younger and huskier first baseman. A wonderful ball player, Ruth, and the most natural showman in America's greatest athletic circus big league ball.

DON ARRIVES TO RACE WITH WOOD

Kaye Don, king of the world's speed boat drivers, has arrived in Detroit to pit his nerve skill and his Miss England against the iron-jawed silver-hatched Gar Wood, former monarch of the fast waterways. Don was met by a reception worthy of royalty, a committee that included the mayor, chief of police and fire departments, Gold Cup officers, the British consul, and a host of minor officials.

Don's career has been spent in terms of speed. After his discharge from the Royal Flying Corps, with whom he served on the western front, he stepped into the saddles of racing motorcycles in England. From there he climbed behind the wheels of fast automobiles and between 1922 and 1929 he established hundreds of fast machine records, many of them over the famous Brookland track.

HOLDER OF HUNDREDS OF RECORDS

After the death of Sir Henry Seagrave, Don was asked to pilot Miss England. In Argentina he put Miss England II over a measured and approved course at the rate of 133.49 miles per hour. Later over the waters of beautiful Lake Garda in Italy, he drove the same boat at 110.23 miles an hour.

The craft that he will pilot in the Harnsworth Trophy race is the most powerful machine driven boat in its class, ever constructed. It is powered by two engines that deliver 4,000 horsepower to a single propeller, geared to turn 12,000 revolutions a minute. When Don steps down on the accelerator he rides with Destiny as his companion. A log in his course, a defect in the hull, a weakening of any part of the engine or structure means a quick, sure shot into eternity. What the excessive speed or the shattering records may mean in the scheme of things is difficult to appreciate.
