

The Western Guardian

Eastern Guardian Hollywood

Film Shops

We take more than usual pride in announcing GOTHAM GOLD STRIPE SILK STOCKINGS are now sold exclusively here

SHEER SERVICE: Silk to the Gold Stripe, French Heel, cotton foot and hem, new cradle type foot. $1.50

HEAVY SERVICE, OUTSIZES, silk to the Gold Stripe, cotton foot and hem, cradle type foot, French Heel $2.00

Special this week A new high grade Chiffon Stocking $1.00

You will see these displayed in our window, and the splendid hose, on sale in the new hosiery department, front of store as you enter.

Full lines of Orient and Kayser Silk Stockings

Price list for stockings: $1.00, $1.50, $2.00, $1.00, $1.25, $1.50, $1.95

Moore & McLeod Limited

4613-5-14-31

BORDEN SCHOOL

Honor Roll for April. Grade X—Genevieve MacDonald, Grade IX—Leigh Sharpe, Grade VIII—1, Nellie Sexton; 2, Anne Paquet; 3, Alice McInnis, Grade VII—1, Frank Brennan; 2, Earl Clark and Kenneth McAleer, (equal); 3, Anna McInnis, Grade VI—1, Beryl Dorsey and Raymond Richard, (equal); 2, David Baird; 3, Margaret Baird, Grade V—1, Jean McIsaac; 2, Olive Clark; 3, Wanda Campbell, Grade IV—1, George McInnis; 2, Doris Noonan; 3, Rita Bernard, Grade III (a)—1, Geraldine Richard; 2, Pearl Stewart; 3, Blair Burch, Grade III (b)—1, Lloyd Clark; 2, Vernon Campbell; 3, Charles Sexton, Grade III (c)—1, Dorothy Hennessy; 2, Glenn Sharpe; 3, Lillian McLeod, Grade III (d)—1, James Dorsey; 2, Frank Dorsey; 3, John McKenzie, Grade II—1, Bertha Gallant; 2, Velda Noonan; 3, Catherine McInnis and Emery Richard, (equal), Grade I—1, Doris Bernard; 2, Ruth McDonald and Winnie Chappell, (equal); 3, Lloyd Gaudet and Jack McDonald, (equal), Perfect attendance—Leigh Sharpe, Alice McInnis, Nellie Sexton, Frank Brennan, Kenneth McAleer, Anna McInnis, Earl Clark, Arnold Baird, Beryl Dorsey, Raymond Richard, Billy Brennan, Billy McAleer, Jean McIsaac, Doris Noonan, Milo Noonan, Margaret Gallant, Charlie Sexton, Frank Dorsey, James Dorsey, Ralph Dorsey, Dorothy Hennessy, Millie McKenzie, Emery Richard, Catherine McInnis, Bertha Gallant, Jackie McIsaac, Doris Bernard, Aileen Cantwell, Teacher.

ARKANSAS ATHLETE RIVALS "FRANK MERRIWELL"

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark., May 13—(U.P.)—Horatio Alger, Jr., famed boy writer, would have to give consider-

ROBIN HOOD FLOUR sold and guaranteed by leading dealers everywhere.

BLACK, GALVANIZED and copper screen wire, sold at Brace's. 4611-5-14-21.

DONT MISS SEEING the all Drama by the Travellers Rest Dramatic Club in Freetown Hall Friday evening, May 15th. 4617-5-15-11.

TIGHTLOCK heavy No. 8 Farm Fencing, 7 bar 38 in. special spaced 4 1/2, 5 1/2, 6, 6 1/2, 7 1/2, 8 sold right at Brace's. 4611-5-14-21.

THE POPULAR three act Comedy Drama "Dearies" will be presented by Summerside Talent on Wednesday, May 20th, in Clifton Hall. 4622-5-15-11-11.

J. H. C. CRESSWELL wishes to announce to the public the big Auction Sale on May 15th of R. J. Dunn, North St. Eleanor. All his stock, crop and implements and household furniture. Terms made known at sale. 4564-5-13-31.

ENTERTAINMENT IN EP-WORTH HALL—The ladies of Maple Leaf Rebekah Lodge of Summerside repeated their play "Dearies," in Epworth Hall on Monday evening in aid of the Missionary Society of Trinity United Church. The players all took their parts splendidly, each one being particularly suited, so it appeared to the audience, for their roles. Specialties between the acts were two solo numbers by Mrs. Jack McLeod and Mr. Lowell Hancock. The pianist was Miss Bessie Smallman. Selections from the Young People's Orchestra were played during the evening. The players were Miss Smallman, pianist, Miss Jean Gordon, mandolin, Miss Rita Huestis, guitar, Mr. Roy Smallman, violin, and Mr. Arnold Bryant, traps. S.

PRINCE COUNTY CHILDREN'S AID MEETING—The regular monthly meeting of the Board of Management of the Prince County Children's Aid Society was held in the town hall, Summerside, on Tuesday. Miss Eleanor Green, the Secretary who had been a delegate to the Social Service Council at Charlottetown on April 15th and 16th gave a very interesting report of the proceedings. The members of the Society thought the idea advanced of a central jail for the Province was an excellent one, as they felt that there was altogether too many visitors admitted to the Summerside Jail and this would be done away with if the jail was located beyond the reach of the towns. The Truant Officer stated that in the last month he had just two hard cases of truancy to contend with. Some boys had been staying home to sell fresh herring around the town but they were all got back to school with the loss of a few days. One of the members reported that there was a family in Summerside in distress, the mother having been obliged to go to the hospital and eight children under ten years of age were living in one room and they were sleeping on the floor. The agent was instructed to investigate the case and report to the Secretary. Three children had been sent back from St. John belonging to a former resident of the town and they had been placed in the St. Vincent Orphanage at Charlottetown. S.

PERSONALS

Mr. G. E. Shaw of Charlottetown was a visitor to Summerside on Wednesday.—S.

Her many friends are pleased to see Miss Lucy Gillis out again after her recent operation in the Prince County Hospital.—S.

Mrs. David Bell of Stanley Bridge is visiting her daughter, Mrs. G. M. Baker of Summerside and is being cordially welcomed by many old friends.—S.

Rev. Mr. Coleman of Port Hill was among those who were in Summerside on Wednesday attending the funeral of the late Mr. H. T. Begg. Other clergy attending were Rev. R. H. Stavert of Hunter River, Rev. Dr. Ashdown of Kensington and Rev. Mr. Aitken of Lot 16.—S.

LEFT FOR GEORGETOWN—The S. S. Auder left Summerside for Georgetown on Wednesday morning with 25 car loads of 12,000 bags of potatoes for the Potato Growers Association. She will finish loading at Georgetown and from there will sail to New York.—S.

REPORT FROM LONDON FUR SALES—The C. N. S. F. B. A. received news on Wednesday from Mr. J. S. Wright their representative attending the London Fur Auction sales that prices are firmer than at the opening day of the sales. Messrs Huth's and Co. are maintaining the prices advanced earlier in the week.—S.

WEDDING BELLS—A quiet but pretty wedding was solemnized in the United Church parsonage, Bedeque, by Rev. A. J. Reynolds at 1 p. m. Wednesday, May 13th, when Miss Verna Weeks, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Weeks of Carleton, was united in marriage to Mr. James Sterling Gillespie, son of Mr. and Mrs. William E. Gillespie of Summerside. Only the immediate relatives were present. The happy young couple will make their future home in Summerside where a host of friends wish them every happiness.—S.

PRINCE COUNTY CHILDREN'S AID MEETING—The regular monthly meeting of the Board of Management of the Prince County Children's Aid Society was held in the town hall, Summerside, on Tuesday. Miss Eleanor Green, the Secretary who had been a delegate to the Social Service Council at Charlottetown on April 15th and 16th gave a very interesting report of the proceedings. The members of the Society thought the idea advanced of a central jail for the Province was an excellent one, as they felt that there was altogether too many visitors admitted to the Summerside Jail and this would be done away with if the jail was located beyond the reach of the towns. The Truant Officer stated that in the last month he had just two hard cases of truancy to contend with. Some boys had been staying home to sell fresh herring around the town but they were all got back to school with the loss of a few days. One of the members reported that there was a family in Summerside in distress, the mother having been obliged to go to the hospital and eight children under ten years of age were living in one room and they were sleeping on the floor. The agent was instructed to investigate the case and report to the Secretary. Three children had been sent back from St. John belonging to a former resident of the town and they had been placed in the St. Vincent Orphanage at Charlottetown. S.

WASHINGTON, May 14.—(U.P.)—Georgia, in teaching 118,102 persons over 10 years of age how to read and write, has made greater progress in the campaign to reduce illiteracy than any one of 20 states for whom census returns now are available, the National Advisory Committee on Illiteracy has reported. In 1920 there were 328,853 persons above 10 years of age unable to read and write, which represented 15.3 per cent of Georgia's population within that age group. The committee has reported that under the leadership of State Superintendent of Schools M. L. Duggan, the number of illiterates has shrunk to 210,736, until now but 9.4 per cent of the population above 10 years cannot read and write. The committee also reported much progress among the Blackfeet Indians in Montana. Within two weeks of instruction, 236 adult Indians between 22 and 84 years of age acquired some ability in reading and writing. Mississippi ranked second to Georgia in progress. That state reduced illiteracy by 4.1 per cent of the population. The National Advisory Committee was organized in 1926 by Secretary of Interior Wilbur with the approval of President Hoover.

GEORGIA LEADS STATES IN WAR ON ILLITERACY

WASHINGTON, May 14.—(U.P.)—Georgia, in teaching 118,102 persons over 10 years of age how to read and write, has made greater progress in the campaign to reduce illiteracy than any one of 20 states for whom census returns now are available, the National Advisory Committee on Illiteracy has reported. In 1920 there were 328,853 persons above 10 years of age unable to read and write, which represented 15.3 per cent of Georgia's population within that age group. The committee has reported that under the leadership of State Superintendent of Schools M. L. Duggan, the number of illiterates has shrunk to 210,736, until now but 9.4 per cent of the population above 10 years cannot read and write. The committee also reported much progress among the Blackfeet Indians in Montana. Within two weeks of instruction, 236 adult Indians between 22 and 84 years of age acquired some ability in reading and writing. Mississippi ranked second to Georgia in progress. That state reduced illiteracy by 4.1 per cent of the population. The National Advisory Committee was organized in 1926 by Secretary of Interior Wilbur with the approval of President Hoover.

WASHINGTON, May 14.—(U.P.)—The glass, mostly Stiegel, was originally collected by Leslie Buswell and recently purchased by Mrs. William G. Walker. The majority of early American glass is the products of one of two well known glass centres, Stiegel's at Manheim among the Pennsylvania Germans, or Wister's and other south Jersey plants. The distinctive features of the Stiegel output are the more or less sophisticated treatment and form, while the glass from the Wister and South Jersey factories was usually of a cruder design. Wisterberg glass was frequently made with several colors to obtain the desired decorative effects.

BEAVER, Utah, May 13.—(U.P.)—Farmers, not deer, are in need of protection, according to a general complaint of ranchers who said deer were trampling down fences and damaging alfalfa fields.

FOR SALE—Farm consisting of twenty-one acres, good buildings, just out of Town Limits. Will be sold at a bargain. For further particulars apply N. J. Nicholson, Montague, 4618-5-15-31.

SAVAGE HARBOUR—The S. H. W. I. continue to hold their regular monthly meetings and endeavour to do their little bit for the good of humanity. The March meeting was held at the home of Mrs. William Pigott, with a large attendance present. The President, Mrs. McCormac, was in the chair. The meeting opened with singing and the roll call was answered with the name of "My First Beau," many preferring to be fined rather than divulge their secret. During this month, the sick committee visited and brought fruit to the sick. Mrs. P. L. Coffin and Mrs. Victor E. Coffin were appointed delegates to attend the convention at Charlottetown in July. An interesting program, consisting of readings, recitations, music and song and a dainty lunch served by the hostess, Mrs. Pigott and Mrs. Campbell, brought this meeting to a close. The April meeting, which was a very interesting one, was held at the home of Mrs. A. J. McKay. The meeting opened by repeating the Creed and the roll call was answered with "The Name of a place and what it is noted for." During this month, almost all of the members visited one of the young members who was very ill. The needs of the School were also kept in view and a new window shade was provided. New committees were appointed and after partaking of dainty refreshments served by the hostess, and singing the National Anthem, the meeting was brought to a close. Next meeting will be held on Wednesday evening, May 13th at Mrs. N. McCormac's.

Mr. Cyril A. Horton, of Lower Montague, a graduate from Acadia University this year, was appointed by the Truro School Board recently to fill a vacancy on the Academy staff next term. Mr. Horton has had four years experience in teaching and was highly recommended for the appointment.

JUST THERE TO SEE THAT JUSTICE WAS DONE CRANSTON, R. I., May 13—A witness was on the stand during hearing of a civil suit in district court. "Did you see the automobile coming east?" asked Justice Louis W. Dunn. "Who, me?" asked the witness, "Yes, you." "No, sir." "Did you see the automobile coming west?" "Who, me?" "Yes, you." "No, sir." "Then why are you here?" demanded Justice Dunn. "I am here to see justice done." "Who, me?" asked Justice Dunn. "No, sir," replied the witness, who was dismissed.

NEW YORK, May 13—Theodore Dreiser describes how he yielded to temptation and stole from his employer in an article in June Cosmopolitan Magazine. For the first time the novelist reveals how, as a young man, he was tempted by the large sums of money that passed through his hands when he was a bill collector in Chicago. His salary was only $14 a week, yet he daily collected $50 or $60, he says in an article entitled "Tempted, I Stole." And he wanted a new hat and overcoat very badly. New clothes, he thought, would give him courage to talk to the beautiful girls whom he admired from a distance but did not dare face. But most of his little salary had to go to support his family. So he finally decided to withhold $25 intending to pay it back gradually, he writes. His employer discovered the discrepancy in his accounts, however, and discharged him, Dreiser says.

TEMPTED, I STOLE, SAYS THEODORE DREISER

"This matter of twenty-five dollars was a rueful affair, which sprang from my desire for a really good-looking overcoat and hat," he writes. "Yet no way of getting it out of my savings. And October already here. Worse, as I walked here and there in downtown Chicago, I saw such fascinating coats in the windows of the great stores—those perfect things hung with cards and set under lights that bring out every last detail of the fabric. "My thought was that if I could once obtain such a coat, with a handsome satin lining, and also a pair of good gloves and a cane, I would be practically irresistible. Some one of those beautiful girls upon whom I was always gazing with Dantesque solemnity would look at me and say: "Isn't he handsome?" He withheld the $25 and bought the coat, he writes. But before he Staff Correspondent) HOLLYWOOD, May 11—(U. P.)—When production was started on the stage play "Rebound," at R-K-O-Pathe studio, an argument also started with Noah Webster, Ina Claire, Donald Ogden Stewart and Edward H. Griffith as the principals. Miss Claire is the star of the picture.

Stewart wrote the play. Griffith is directing the picture. Webster decided some years ago, that the accent should be on the last syllable, he sent the following telegram to Stewart in New York: "Please settle argument regarding pronunciation of rebound, you wrote the play and we will abide by your decision. Webster says accent the second syllable. Picture cast put accent on Re. How do you pronounce it?"

The humorist replied: "Better pronounce it Ina's way unless Webster is Pathe executive."

The owner of a cantina in Monterey, Mex., is richer by $1.50 because Ken Maynard, cowboy film star, who made a trip there recently, didn't agree with the Mexican on when and why a phonograph should be played.

Maynard stopped at the Ancira Hotel for several days to restock his supply of saddles, leather goods and cowboy wardrobe. The owner of the cantina across the way had at least one record, possible not more and it was "You're Driving Me Crazy." "We used to go to sleep to the tune of it and hear it all day long," Ken said. "One morning, after we were kept awake by troops making prisoners clean up the streets, the cantina man began to play his record."

Maynard sent his chauffeur across the street and the record changed hands for $1.50. Once in possession of the disc, Ken dropped it out the front window of his room on the second floor of the hotel. "You should have seen that Mexican try to catch his favorite as it dropped," Maynard said. "He didn't."

Minard's Liniment relieves corns.

NEW YORK, May 13—Theodore Dreiser describes how he yielded to temptation and stole from his employer in an article in June Cosmopolitan Magazine. For the first time the novelist reveals how, as a young man, he was tempted by the large sums of money that passed through his hands when he was a bill collector in Chicago. His salary was only $14 a week, yet he daily collected $50 or $60, he says in an article entitled "Tempted, I Stole." And he wanted a new hat and overcoat very badly. New clothes, he thought, would give him courage to talk to the beautiful girls whom he admired from a distance but did not dare face. But most of his little salary had to go to support his family. So he finally decided to withhold $25 intending to pay it back gradually, he writes. His employer discovered the discrepancy in his accounts, however, and discharged him, Dreiser says.

NEW YORK, May 13—Theodore Dreiser describes how he yielded to temptation and stole from his employer in an article in June Cosmopolitan Magazine. For the first time the novelist reveals how, as a young man, he was tempted by the large sums of money that passed through his hands when he was a bill collector in Chicago. His salary was only $14 a week, yet he daily collected $50 or $60, he says in an article entitled "Tempted, I Stole." And he wanted a new hat and overcoat very badly. New clothes, he thought, would give him courage to talk to the beautiful girls whom he admired from a distance but did not dare face. But most of his little salary had to go to support his family. So he finally decided to withhold $25 intending to pay it back gradually, he writes. His employer discovered the discrepancy in his accounts, however, and discharged him, Dreiser says.

NEW YORK, May 13—Theodore Dreiser describes how he yielded to temptation and stole from his employer in an article in June Cosmopolitan Magazine. For the first time the novelist reveals how, as a young man, he was tempted by the large sums of money that passed through his hands when he was a bill collector in Chicago. His salary was only $14 a week, yet he daily collected $50 or $60, he says in an article entitled "Tempted, I Stole." And he wanted a new hat and overcoat very badly. New clothes, he thought, would give him courage to talk to the beautiful girls whom he admired from a distance but did not dare face. But most of his little salary had to go to support his family. So he finally decided to withhold $25 intending to pay it back gradually, he writes. His employer discovered the discrepancy in his accounts, however, and discharged him, Dreiser says.

NEW YORK, May 13—Theodore Dreiser describes how he yielded to temptation and stole from his employer in an article in June Cosmopolitan Magazine. For the first time the novelist reveals how, as a young man, he was tempted by the large sums of money that passed through his hands when he was a bill collector in Chicago. His salary was only $14 a week, yet he daily collected $50 or $60, he says in an article entitled "Tempted, I Stole." And he wanted a new hat and overcoat very badly. New clothes, he thought, would give him courage to talk to the beautiful girls whom he admired from a distance but did not dare face. But most of his little salary had to go to support his family. So he finally decided to withhold $25 intending to pay it back gradually, he writes. His employer discovered the discrepancy in his accounts, however, and discharged him, Dreiser says.

NEW YORK, May 13—Theodore Dreiser describes how he yielded to temptation and stole from his employer in an article in June Cosmopolitan Magazine. For the first time the novelist reveals how, as a young man, he was tempted by the large sums of money that passed through his hands when he was a bill collector in Chicago. His salary was only $14 a week, yet he daily collected $50 or $60, he says in an article entitled "Tempted, I Stole." And he wanted a new hat and overcoat very badly. New clothes, he thought, would give him courage to talk to the beautiful girls whom he admired from a distance but did not dare face. But most of his little salary had to go to support his family. So he finally decided to withhold $25 intending to pay it back gradually, he writes. His employer discovered the discrepancy in his accounts, however, and discharged him, Dreiser says.

NEW YORK, May 13—Theodore Dreiser describes how he yielded to temptation and stole from his employer in an article in June Cosmopolitan Magazine. For the first time the novelist reveals how, as a young man, he was tempted by the large sums of money that passed through his hands when he was a bill collector in Chicago. His salary was only $14 a week, yet he daily collected $50 or $60, he says in an article entitled "Tempted, I Stole." And he wanted a new hat and overcoat very badly. New clothes, he thought, would give him courage to talk to the beautiful girls whom he admired from a distance but did not dare face. But most of his little salary had to go to support his family. So he finally decided to withhold $25 intending to pay it back gradually, he writes. His employer discovered the discrepancy in his accounts, however, and discharged him, Dreiser says.

NEW YORK, May 13—Theodore Dreiser describes how he yielded to temptation and stole from his employer in an article in June Cosmopolitan Magazine. For the first time the novelist reveals how, as a young man, he was tempted by the large sums of money that passed through his hands when he was a bill collector in Chicago. His salary was only $14 a week, yet he daily collected $50 or $60, he says in an article entitled "Tempted, I Stole." And he wanted a new hat and overcoat very badly. New clothes, he thought, would give him courage to talk to the beautiful girls whom he admired from a distance but did not dare face. But most of his little salary had to go to support his family. So he finally decided to withhold $25 intending to pay it back gradually, he writes. His employer discovered the discrepancy in his accounts, however, and discharged him, Dreiser says.

$200 Friday and Saturday The Mens Store Offers A List of Interesting Special Values for Men and Boys

Last week we offered you some wonderful items at 98c. Hundreds of buyers took advantage of the opportunity. This week you are offered another, this time at 82.00. READ! SEE WHAT YOU NEED! COME

Useful Savings FOR MEN

- Men's Medium weight Combinations. Per suit ... $2.00
Men's Two Thread Balbriggan Shirts and Drawers. Per Suit ... $2.00
Men's Hatchway Combinations, fancy buttons Per Suit ... $2.00
Men's Fancy Shorts with Silk Shirts. Per suit ... $2.00
Men's fancy Negligee Shirts, 2 separate collars each ... $2.00
Men's Fancy Collar Attached Shirts. Each ... $2.00
Railway Men's Shirts, navy, khaki or blue chambray. Each ... $2.00
Men's Tan Cape Gloves. Pair ... $2.00
4 pairs Men's Fancy Socks for ... $2.00
Men's very fine all Linen Handkerchiefs, 4 for ... $2.00
Men's plain Broadcloth Shirts, white, cream or Blue. Each ... $2.00
Men's fancy V Neck Pull Over Sweaters. Each ... $2.00
Men's Plaid Windbreakers, all wool. Each ... $2.00
Combination Overalls, blue or khaki, all sizes Suit ... $2.00
Fleece lined Khaki Windbreakers. Each ... $2.00
Fleece lined Khaki Pants (to match above) pair $1.50
Heavy weight Overalls and Jumpers blue or black. Each ... $2.00
Tweed Pants, greys or browns. Pair ... $2.00
Auto Wraps or Lounge Covers (fancy). Each ... $2.00
New shapes and colors in Men's Caps. Each ... $2.00
Men's Snap Brim Hats, pearl gray shade. Each ... $2.00

$2. FOR BOYS $2.

- Boys' Sweaters: V necks, polo collar and sweater coats, pure wool, plain and fancy patterns. Sizes 22 to 34 ... $2.00
Child's all wool two piece knit suits, in three shades, navy, powder blue and red. Sizes 22 to 26 ... $2.00
Boys' pure wool plaid Windbreakers. Sizes 24 to 34 ... $2.00
Boys 1st longs in brown and grey tweeds. Sizes 26 to 36 ... $2.00
Boys Navy Cheviot Bloomer Pants and Blue Botany Serge straight knee pants, sizes 22 to 32 ... $2.00
2 Boy's fancy broadcloth shirts, sizes 12 1/2 to 14. $2.00
4 boys fancy Broadcloth Blouses. Sizes 6 to 14 $2.00

Moore & McLeod Limited

could pay the money back his employer discharged him. For a time the young man was terrified by the thought, that he would be arrested, he says. But his employer did not prosecute.

He was turned out jobless on the streets ten days before Christmas, however. But he managed to keep the secret of his discharge even from his father, and eventually obtained a job with a rival collection firm. "And need I add that this experience was a lesson to me?" he writes. "Since that time never has temptation been so great—and more than

EYESIGHT EXAMINATION

Fitting and supplying Glasses. OPTOMETRIST Office Connected With H. J. MABON Druggist Montague, P. E. I.

George McManus

BRINGING UP FATHER

