BEAUTY OF CHARACTER.

There is always a certain amount of enchantment about a beautiful character. We all know what it is to meet those whose quality and beauty of character we admire and esteem. How it thrills us with the dignity of its gracious mystery, its rare delicate sympathy, its natural charm. Everyone in this transitory life of ours has in his or her mind the idea of what he or she would like to be, and the loftier the nobler the idea, the more godlike will the character become. Each character, with its beautiful thoughts and beautiful actions, is an exquisite proof, a living practical witness on earth of the power and the glory of God.

What are the effects of a strong and beautiful character upon those with whom it comes into contact? In the first place, it is the divine inspiration which it continually inspires in the hearts of others towards the love of moral beauty. In the second place, it is the example of such a character, with its tremendous influence for good, which cannot be over-estimated. It shines forth with radiant beauty like some bright serene star, guiding with the glory of its peradventure they stumble its light and footsteps of wanderers, through the darkness of the world.
