KELLY-POWER WEDDING

A very pretty wedding was solemnized at St. Patrick Church, Fort Augustus, on August 6th, when Rita Kelly, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Patrick Kelly of Pisiquid, was united in marriage to Ematt Jean Power, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph F. Power, Mr. Ryan. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Father Louis Callaghan, cousin of the groom.

As the bride's party proceeded up the aisle the wedding march was played by Mrs. John J. McCarthy and during the Mass hymns were rendered by Mr. John L. McCarthy, Mr. Leo Weatherbie, Miss Dorothy Weatherbie, and Miss Lima Weatherbie.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, was gown in blue crepe with matching accessories.

She was assisted by her sister, Miss Ruth Kelly, who wore a becoming dress of rust crepe with matching accessories. Mr. Joseph Gerald Power, brother of the groom was best man. After the wedding, the bridal party, Rev. Father Louis Callaghan, relatives and friends motored to the home of the bride's parents, where breakfast was served, after which the bridal party left by motor on a honeymoon trip to the Maritime Provinces.

On their return on August 8th, to the home of the groom's parents, supper was served to the bridal party, Rev. Louis Callaghan, relatives and friends, after which the remainder of the evening was pleasantly spent in music, dancing and singing until the "sweet snuggles" when all departed for their homes after wishing Mr. and Mrs. Power many happy days.

U. S. Will Call Naval Reserves

WASHINGTON, Oct. 6—(CP)—The United States Navy, being swelled almost weekly by new ships coming from the ways, will be brought up to the necessary strength in manpower through the calling out of reserves.

The Navy Secretary, Frank Knox, issued an order Saturday that will place 27,591 navy and marine reservists in uniform and increase to 239,281 the number of officers and men on active duty.

The order applied to the entire organized naval and marine corps reserves. It was described as in line with the policy under which recently the National Guard was summoned for a year's duty.

Knox issued the order after warning the Rome-Berlin-Tokyo alliance Saturday in a speech that "if a fight is forced upon us we shall be ready."

A navy spokesman said the call for the reserves was necessary because the fleet-construction program is five weeks to six months ahead of schedule.

Shortly before he issued his order, Knox said that the Japanese-German-Italian alliance "is directed at us" and that the United States will not be intimidated. His remarks were interpreted as a reply by the United States Government to Friday's assertion by Prince Konoye, Japanese Premier, that any challenge of the Axis would tumble the United States into a "fight to a finish."

"We are the largest obstacle in the path of the totalitarian powers," Knox said. "Should Great Britain fail to stem the tide of ever-advancing tyranny, we shall find ourselves surrounded of these international brigands, whose destruction never would be the destruction of the United States."

"Never understanding us, they suppose our people can be brought under their iron rule. Both as an American and as an official of the navy I know differently. If a fight is forced upon us we shall be ready for them. We have never lost a war yet."

Lutherans Meet In Convention

DE MOINES, Ia., Oct. 6—(AP)—Delegates to the first of three international conventions of the United Lutheran Church in America last night heard a plea that their church assume part of the burden of supporting missions relinquished by war-torn Europe.

This question, church officials declared, is one of four vitally important issues which will come before the Lutherans in the first international convention they have ever held west of the Mississippi River.

Dr. Conrad Hoffman, Jr., of New York, N.H., told the seventh congress of the Women's Missionary Society here that Lutherans must "get back to the new challenge to world enterprise because the Lutheran church, both in mission fields and fields of influence, has been hardest hit."

He pointed out the preponderance of Lutheran membership in Holland, the Netherlands, Germany and England, where war has forced a virtual abandonment of outside missionary endeavor.

The church is seeking to raise $500,000 outside its regular budget for the support of missions. A fund of $225,000 was raised for this purpose last spring, but church spokesmen say it will be exhausted Nov. 1.

The seventh congress of the women's group, which ended today in preparatory to the 11th convention of the same organization, Monday through Wednesday.

Another Lutheran group, the Brotherhood, is meeting in Omaha, Neb., simultaneously, while the largest gathering, the 11th general convention of the United Lutheran Church in America, convenes there Wednesday for a week's session.

Other important church matters scheduled for discussion include:

1. The question of union with the American Lutheran church with headquarters in Columbus, O., which meets in convention at Detroit, Mich. next Friday.
2. The question of "church and state" particularly relating to prohibition, the legal status of dictators and governments and the church's part in national defence and preparation.
3. The social problems of home missions and questions of social legislation as they affect these missions.

Dr. Hoffman, who is director of the international missionary council's committee on the Christian approach to the Jew, declared that yearly support of Protestant missions cost $200,000,000.

Of this, he said, continental Europe and Scandinavia contributed about $4,000,000 and Great Britain $10,500,000, the remainder, or about 50 per cent, coming from America.

3 Island Students Registered At Macdonald College

Figures released by the authorities at Macdonald College following a meeting of the Faculty of Agriculture on October 2 indicate a slightly increased registration in the degree courses in Agriculture and Household Science as compared with last year.

The number of first year students in the B.S.S. course is the largest on record, and a larger number of Agriculture students than usual have entered the third year, having taken the first two years of the course at the Nova Scotia Agriculture College, an affiliated institution.

Registration in the School for Teachers is approximately 50 less than last year, and a decreased attendance is also reported in the one year Homemaker Course in Household Science.

Students from Prince Edward Island are as follows:

Faculty of Agriculture (B. Sc. Agr.): Kenneth W. Anderson, St. Peter's Bay, P.E.I., Freeman O. Newton, Kingston, P.E.I., James C. Newton.

Business Man Tells Ordeal In Drifting Boat

Only Six Survive from 31 in Tossing Life Boat After Liner is Torpedoed.

AN EAST COAST CANADIAN PORT, Oct. 6—(CP)—Thirty-one persons tumbled into the lifeboat as the torpedoed child refugee liner City of Benares started her plunge to the bottom in a wild Atlantic storm. Six survived the night that seemed "as long as 10 lifetimes" to W. B. Forsythe, Toronto business man.

The suffering and death in the exposed lifeboat—and the heroism of its occupants—were pictured by Mr. Forsythe as he reached here Saturday aboard another British liner. He told of women and children slipping quietly into death after hours of uncomplaining torture, of courageous rescues, of sea burial after burial with an improvised committal service recited from memory.

He told the whole story briefly in these words: "There were 31 in our boat. Of that number, six survived. The water was icy cold. The boat was swamped, and we were sitting in water up to our armpits. We could do practically nothing for the children."

"The little ones couldn't stand the exposure... neither could most of the adults," Mr. Forsythe added.

He was just entering his cabin on the City of Benares about 10 p.m. on the night of Sept. 17 when there was a terrific explosion. "The cabin practically disintegrated before my eyes," he related.

Mr. Forsythe ran on deck. "The calm of the passengers was amazing," he said. "The ship's officers were truly wonderful."

"People were at the boats. The ship remained on an even keel for a few minutes, then started dipping by the stern."

The Toronto man said he did not know how many of the ship's compartment were killed in the explosion. "Most of them seemed to be at the boat stations," he said.

The fierce North Atlantic storm was churning up raging seas. "Several boats were swamped after they left the liner," he said.

Nine Washed Out of Boat

"One wave carried nine persons right out of our boat when it left the water," Mr. Forsythe recounted.

"We got them all back again. The little ones, however, couldn't stand the ordeal," he said. "Every once in a while, the tots would start to moan."

"One by one they died."

Mr. Forsythe took charge of their burial. "As the bodies were lowered over the side of the tossing lifeboat, he murmured what snapshots of the burial service he could remember."

"It was horrible, but that was all we could do," he said.

"It was impossible to provide any physical comforts for the children. They were numbed with cold. We tried to keep four of them warm with blankets. They lived until a destroyer came to our rescue (about 20 hours after the torpedoing), but two of them died as they were being taken aboard."

"Sometimes the seas breaking over our boat carried some of the weaker ones away," he declared.

"Sometimes we managed to get some of them back again... but not always."

Refugee One of First

One of those who died was the Baroness Von Inglesleben, a refugee who had survived nine months in a German concentration camp. "She was one of the first to die," said Mr. Forsythe.

Incidents of heroism shone out. One of the bravest was a British woman doctor, who was medical supervisor of the group of refugees. "All through the awful night,"

Japan's Three-Way "Big Stick"

The German bombardier, (top, left) his Italian cousin (opposite, below him), and the exultant Nipponese soldiers at right symbolize the three-part "big stick" which Japan's Premier Prince Fumimaro Konoye brandished when he recently threatened that Japan, Germany and Italy are "ready to display the power of their military alliance in case of necessity" (Rome-Berlin-Tokyo pact, uniting three most militaristic nations on earth), resulted from "unfailing American opposition to Japanese policies," Japanese say.

Marianne And France To Visit Maritimes

By Gladys Arnold
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA, Oct. 6—(CP)—Indications are that forthcoming fashions of Canadian women will be considerably influenced by two little French dolls now touring the Dominion. They are "Marianne" and "France" and permission to copy their clothes has been granted Canadian designers.

As it happens the dolls' hats and gowns were created in 1938. But the thing to remember is that one hat doesn't make a fashion and only one of everything in the extensive wardrobes of Marianne and France was made.

The dolls, presented by the children of France to Princesses Elizabeth and Margaret, are on tour of the Dominion under the auspices of the Canadian National Committee on refugees. They went on display in Montreal today.

In the wardrobes are to be found full and straight skirts, box and fitted coats, puffed and simple sleeves, large hats, small hats, crownless hats and tricorns.

Once questioned on the subject Paris' dean of couturier houses, Worth, said "fashion can regulate the length of a skirt, where the wastline shall be and the season's most popular colors—but nothing can regulate creative fancy."

"That's the reason that the model gown is a fashion and not a fad."

BETTER BONES FOR BABIES BORN IN FALL

STATE COLLEGE, Pa., Oct. 5—Scientific evidence that babies born in October and November have better bones on the average than those born in other months was announced today at Pennsylvania State College.

The study was made by the division of home nutrition.

It is not magic in the fall weather but diet and sunshine which account for the better bones. The excellent mother's diet is more varied in summer than any other season. Sunshine in summer makes up for lack of vitamin D, a motherhood essential often neglected in diet.

The fall babies have more mineral density and greater maturity. From November onward, the newborn bones are progressively worse in these two respects, until June or July.

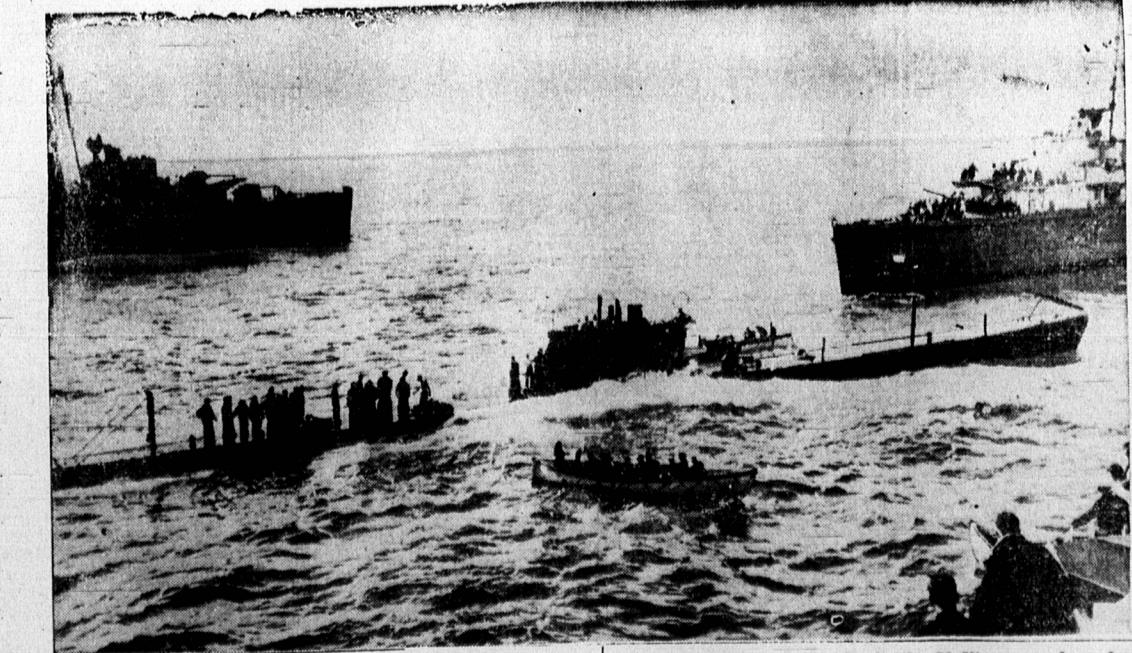

The practical importance of the Penn State discovery is in the possibility that better diet will bring infants or all months up to the bone standard of October and November.

ITALIAN SUBMARINE SURRENDERS TO BRITISH WARSHIPS IN MEDITERRANEAN

Favorite joke of English Comedian Will Fyffe these days is the one about Italian submarines. "I poked my head over the side of the ship and shouted 'Water!' he relates, 'and six Italian submarines broke the surface.' The scenes pictured here didn't happen quite so simply, but British naval units in the Mediterranean have found Mussolini's German fleet no problem. At LEFT, British warships surround a submarine, disabled and blown to the surface by depth charges, while lifeboats begin rescuing the crew. At RIGHT, British
