NORMA TALMADGE

in David Belasco's great stage success "THE DOVE"

A colorful cabaret in a forgotten land! A gorgeous dancing girl! A bragging bully! A romantic Romeo! Add a dash of spice, a sprinkling of pep, spoonfuls of gun powder, adventure and love and you have—the finest film Norma has ever made!

Nearly 400 brides in England last year were 70 or more years old. Mill girls in Japan now receive an average of $15 a month wages.

Church Services

ZION CHURCH

The minister, Mr. Fulton, preached at both services yesterday. The Historical Sermon of the morning was listened to by a good congregation. This was the first of a short series on "Foes of Early Christianity." "Heathenism" was the topic of the morning.

The afternoon Bible Class was well attended. Arrangements are being made for holding two special services of song in the Churches, when a speaker and a special musical programme will be provided.

The evening sermon, "Is a lie ever justifiable" was of unusual interest. We are glad that so many were present, especially the young, to hear this fine discourse.

At the morning service the choir sang the anthem "Praise ye the Father," by Gounod.

In the evening, the anthem was "Hast thou not known," by Flinger. Messrs. Leonard Sutherland and Malcolm MacKinnon took the tenor and bass solos respectively in this.

There will be a special meeting of the Boy Scouts this (Monday) evening at seven o'clock. The Assistant-Commissioner of Boy Scouts, Ottawa, will visit our Province in the near future.

TRINITY UNITED CHURCH

Rev. Dr. Clarence MacKinnon, principal of Pine Hill Divinity Hall, one of the old guard, an outstanding figure in the United Church in the Maritime Provinces and a man greatly beloved, was the speaker at both services yesterday and was listened to by the large audiences present with intense satisfaction.

Next Sunday will be Children's Day, when a special programme will be carried out in the Church Auditorium at 2.45 p. m.

THE BAPTIST CHURCH

Rev. A. C. Vincent, spoke to large congregations morning and evening. His morning theme was "The Lure of a Lost World," suggested by the vision of St. Paul. "And a vision appeared to Paul in the night—come over into Macedonia and help us."

Looking back over history one cannot escape being impressed by certain great days, great decisions and their great consequences. That was a great day when Noah was called to offer salvation. Moses to lead out a people, David from the flocks on the hillside to a throne, Solomon to establish a temple for the worship of God.

FAMILY LONGEVITY

Sir,—In the Patriot of the 27th inst., there appeared an item, under the heading "The Elliotts Heard From," dated Peterborough, Ontario, to the effect that "Peterborough is the home of the family that is collectively the oldest living family in Canada, there being years enough to span more than six centuries and a half contained in the total of the ages of 11 living brothers and sisters. The total of the 11 living brothers and sisters is 668 years, eclipsing the figure of the former record claimed by the Campbell family in Ontario and Vancouver by 150 years."

Now the Elliott family is far from being the oldest living family in Canada. Your readers, within the last few days have read the published records of the Gallant and Doull families, both of which far surpass the Elliott family. The Gallant aggregate for 10 living brothers is 739 years, while the Doull aggregate for 10 living brothers and sisters is 706 years. So there can be no doubt that the Gallant family easily leads, followed by the Doull family and leaving all others so far heard from, far in the rear.

I also noticed in the Patriot of the 25th inst., that W. P. Doull refuses to concede that the Gallant family eclipses the Doull family record. He claims that in one point only, (the aggregate), it surpasses the Doull family, while in a number of points it falls short. In order to make this statement plausible he has to resort to an elaborate system of averages and percentages, at the end of which he triumphantly exclaims: "However, the supreme test is the aggregate of ages." Of course, that is the supreme test; why then, the laboured calculations? However, to comply with Mr. Doull's request, and in order that your readers may be in a position to judge for themselves, I shall briefly state the case for the Gallant family.

Sixteen children were born to the mother of the Gallant family. She lived to be nearly 80 years of age, while the father reached his 86th year. Two of the children died when only a few days old. The other 14 children grew up, married, and had families. So the Gallants raised up to manhood and womanhood the same number of children as the Doull family. Today ten brothers of the Gallant family and ten brothers and sisters of the Doull family are still living. So far, therefore, there is no advantage for either family. Now, the aggregate of ages of the ten living Doulls in 706 years, that of the ten living Gallants is 739 years an advantage of 33 years for the Gallant family—a very great difference, when we consider the very great aggregate ages of both families. Next, let us consider the total number of years lived by both families. Mr. Doull states that the aggregate for the 14 members of the Doull family is 827 years. In the Gallant family the ages of the four deceased at the time of passing were: 28, 63, 66, and 67 respectively, or a total of 224 years, which added to the 739 years of the living, gives a total of 963 years, or 36 years greater than the aggregate years lived by the 14 members of the Doull family. Is that conclusive enough for Mr. Doull?

But although Mr. Doull distinctly states that "the aggregate is the supreme test," yet he wants to decide the question by reducing the aggregates to averages! Strange consistency is Mr. Doull's. To illustrate the absurdity of the method suggested by Mr. Doull, permit me to cite the following example: I know an only child who will soon celebrate his 90th birthday. If we follow Mr. Doull's suggestion and decide the question according to average years, this only child is in a position to say to Mr. Doull: "My family record easily surpasses that of either the Gallant or the Doull families; the average age in our family is 90 years." Mr. Doull would refuse to accept such a conclusion, and rightly so.

But in order to make the comparison between the two families still more complete, let us pursue their history a little further. Therefore I now ask Mr. Doull to state the number of children born to the 14 Doull families. The number of children in the 14 Gallant families in order of seniority is respectively as follows: 2, 7, 5, 12, 13, 10, 7, 8, 11, 8, 7, 2, 4, 12, a total of 108 children for the 14 families. What is still better is the fact that nearly all these children ranging in age from 17 to 87 years, are living, and with surprisingly few exceptions are "going strong." Furthermore, several of these families are still intact. One of seven members already boasts of an aggregate of 324 years, or, as Mr. Doull would have it an average of 46 years per person; another of ten members, has an aggregate of 400 years, or an average of 40 years per person. Is there anything more required to prove the continued vitality and longevity of the Gallant family?

Now Sir, I must apologize for so trespassing on your valuable space, but I trust that after Mr. Doull has thoroughly digested the contents of this letter, that he will gracefully acknowledge that his family is second to the Gallant family and that he will cheerfully "yield them the palm."

I am Sir, etc.

LETTER OF SYMPATHY

To Mrs. Murdoch Buchanan, Mrs. John Cutcliffe, Mrs. Phoebe Stewart.
Dear Sisters:—We on behalf of the members of Pleasant Valley Women's 'Missionary Society' feel we must express in some way our heartfelt sympathy to you in the great sorrow you have recently been called upon to bear.

In these bereavements, which come to us from time to time, we wonder why we are so stricken, but we commend you to God, who has promised to bind up the broken hearted and give joy to those who mourn.

There are some sorrows which seem too tender for words and yet we realize that loving sympathy from true hearts often helps to lighten the burden of grief. We cannot understand why these sad separations are permitted but by and by, when our life here is ended, all the dark things will be made plain, the parting from those we love will only be for a little time, while the joyful reunion will be forever and ever.

Not now but in the coming years, it may be in the better land, We'll read the meaning of our tears, And there, up there, we'll understand.

Signed, Mrs. Golden Weeks, Mrs. Percy Howatt, Mrs. James McSwain.

When fond parents in Berlin, Germany, recently arranged an illustrated lecture for their children they did not sense the demands of modern youth. As soon as the 200 young hopefuls learned that the pictures were old-fashioned magic lantern slides instead of an up-to-date film they started a riot. As the lecture started to tell how the coal was obtained from the earth they threw empty bottles and glasses at him and at employees of the theatre, they started to demolish the interior decorations of the place. Police were called and drove the youthful rioters from the place.
