

Kinsmen Hear Civic Candidates For Mayoralty

The two known candidates for the Mayoralty at the coming civic election, Councilors M. A. Farmer and N. W. Lowther, were guest speakers at the bi-monthly meeting of the Kinsmen Club held last night at The Charlottetown. The meeting was presided over by Kinsman Wes Storey. The interest in civic affairs was further enlivened by an impromptu talk by Mr. Walthen Gaudet, a Kinsmen Club member who will nominate for Councilor in Ward 5. Coun. Lowther outlined the benefits which the people derive from a Council in a municipality. He explained how the City was handicapped by rising costs while the rate of taxation has remained stationary since 1942. He congratulated the Kinsmen for their interest in civic affairs. Coun. Farmer reviewed the chief problems facing the Council. He stressed the financial problem, stating the revenue of the City to be approximately $475,000, and explained how the money was spent. "Several things would be provided for the City," he said, "but their provision rests with the people. If a thing is worth having it is worth paying for, but the people must be taxed reasonably, not burdensomely."

War Memories Recalled At 2nd Battery Reunion

At the 2nd Medium Battery anniversary dinner held last night in the Canadian Legion Hall, the following was the toast list: Major G. W. Craig, E.D., Chairman.

"The King." Remarks by His Honor the Lieut. Governor.

"Fallen Comrades." Responded to by Lieut. M. E. Campbell.

"The Battery." Responded to by Major W. J. Andrews.

Notes of thanks to the Ladies Auxiliary and the Legion by the chairman.

History of 2nd. Bty. -1914-1939: Lt. Col. P. S. Fielding, M.M., E.D.

History of 2nd Bty. -1939-1945: Major D. L. Mathieson.

Remarks by Padre, Capt., the Rev. W. G. Phillips.

The chairman ended on many other speakers who delivered timely and appropriate addresses.

His Honour Lieutenant Governor Bernard expressed his pleasure at having this opportunity of breaking bread with the members of the 2nd Medium Battery. Such an occasion, he said brings back memories—happy or otherwise—to all who took part in it. He stressed his pleasant connection with his aides, among them Lt. Col. Fielding and Bob MacMillan, and alluded to their great services in the wars, commending their example of fidelity, fortitude and courage to the rising generation.

But the whole 2nd Battery, he said, had furnished a like example in their valiant service to their country in the time of her peril and her need, which service could not be measured in dollars and cents or any other material medium. He also alluded to the valuable service given by those who could not go to a theatre of war, but served on the home front.

Lieut. M. C. Campbell made poignant reference to the comrades who were not with the Battery tonight and could never be again. These were:

Killed In Action P-14254, Bdr. Wilfred C. Watts-Italy, 1944.

Drowned on Active Service P-14361, Gnr. Ira L. Clark-Italy, 1944.

Died While On Active Service P-14342, Gnr. George F. Powell-16 Nov. 1939.

P-14161, Sgt. John R. MacKinnon-23 Nov. 1945.

P-14164, Sgt. John R. Docherty-20 July 1946.

P-59626, Gnr. Joseph E. Gillis-28 Jan. 1946.

Died Since Discharge P-14227, Gnr. Lloyd G. MacKenzie-13 Feb. 1945.

P-4556, Gnr. Wm. A. Chandler-30 Oct. 1949.

"What," Lieut. Campbell said, "would these our fallen comrades like us to do were they still with us? This wonderful reunion would delight them," he felt. "We should mark it down as 'D' day in the assault against foes who would divide and disrupt us."

One of the things which has brought the 2nd Medium Battery to the top was its wonderful spirit of unity. Lt. Campbell emphasized. He closed his address with a most appropriate quotation.

Major W. J. Andrew, in responding to the toast to the Battery, said he could not adequately deal with its deeds in half an hour—much less in ten minutes. He expressed his pride and pleasure at being at this reunion, and his hope and desire that such a reunion should be held every year. "If you told the 2nd Medium Battery there was a job to be done—it would be done and done right," he said. He felt the Battery, in fact, was carrying him along. They were never stuck—a wonderful battery. He described instances which showed their resourcefulness and coolheadedness in action. In closing he expressed the hope that the president, vice president and executive which had been appointed at the afternoon session would keep the thing bigger and better from year to year.

Maj. G. C. Mersereau, who had come from his home in Bathurst, N.B. to attend the reunion, said that even if he lived in Vancouver he would have come. He said there were some other boys in Bathurst who haven't heard of it, and would have come if they had. He brought greetings from members of the "1/5" Medium Regiment in Montreal. He again expressed his great pleasure at being privileged to be here, and said he would be back if at all possible, at any future reunion.

Maj. George Craig gracefully conveyed the thanks of the Battery to the ladies' auxiliary of the Legion for their splendid dinner and services.

Mrs. Ira Brown responded feelingly on behalf of the auxiliary.

Referring to Lt. Col. P. S. Fielding, the next speaker, Major Craig, told how, at the beginning of hostilities, Col. Fielding had come to him and offered to recommend him (Maj. Craig) to be Colonel in command of the P.E.I. Medium Brigade, as it then was, if he would consent to Col. Fielding reverting to Major, and taking command of the 2nd Medium Battery, lead it overseas. Maj. Craig could not consider this request.

Reviews History Col. Fielding, called on to speak, then paid a heartfelt tribute to his days of connection with the 2nd Medium Battery before and for some time after its mobilization on Sept. 1, 1939. Prince Edward Island, he recalled, had always been an artillery community, and has great cause for pride in it. The history of Canadian artillery, which, he said, is now being written by a Montreal officer, must of necessity be largely a history of the Prince Edward Island artillery.

Col. Fielding traced the many successive years in which one or other of the Island batteries had won first place in the artillery general efficiency contests. In the First Great War, one of the Island artillery units which went overseas was the 2nd Siege Battery. This was recruited and taken overseas by Lieut. Col. A. G. Peake, who later returned to Canada and recruited and took overseas the 5th, (later the 8th) Siege Battery, in command of which he remained until he was wounded in August, 1917, at Armentieres. He was succeeded in command of the 2nd Siege Battery by Lieut. Col. W. B. Prowse.

In 1921 the Artillery was reorganized and in this year the 2nd Battery won first place in general efficiency. In 1931 the Battery again won first place in general efficiency and in 1932 second place. And, though the rest of the Canadian Artillery were beginning to learn artillery proficiency from the Islanders, even in 1938 the 2nd Medium Battery won this place for general efficiency and in 1945, many of the incidents which he described were quite amusing.

Toughest of all their experience, he said, was their period of training in England with the "P.S." who put them through the mill—and how! But, he said, when we were through they respected them. He gave, too, an amusing description of some incidents which occurred when Maj. Craig was transferred, and a "social prestige Major" took over command. He then described some other humorous incidents during the Battery's period in Italy and in the States, in expressing his unbounded pride in belonging to such a splendid unit.

Capt. the Rev. W. G. Phillips made allusions to further instances, some amusing, others of a graver nature in the overseas career of the Battery. Like Maj. Mersereau he said that had he been in Vancouver he would have come to this reunion. The Padre said he wanted to pay a tribute to a young lad a signaler, who had come with him with a flashlight and helped him when he went out to gather up his broken boys out another unit who had had been in an enemy bombardment. But that splendid lad, young Grandfield, (the Padre didn't know his first name) was killed himself that same night with an Eighty-eight. He paid a tribute too, to all the boys who had helped to make the 2nd Battery the best in the whole show. He praised also the fine work of Percy Gunn, who, he said, was an Islander in heart and spirit though he came from another part of Canada—one of the boys of the L.A.D.

In closing the speaker said, "it will be too bad if we forget the job isn't done. They died for it; let's try and live for it."

The music of the dinner was provided by Messrs. Al Blanchard and Mr. Earl Weatherbie.

Heavy Loss In Ottawa Blaze

OTTAWA, Jan. 26 - (CP) - Wreckage of the Brennan building was razed today after an early-morning fire raged for six hours through the three-storey structure at the corner of Bank and James Streets.

The front wall of the building was leaning dangerously over Bank Street, main artery to the south of the city, when the Works Department ordered destruction of the shell of the building.

Defective wiring on a neon sign in front of the Canadian Tire Corporation, one of three stores on the building's ground floor destroyed by the fire - was blamed for the blaze.

There was no official estimate of the loss. Unofficial estimates placed it between $300,000 and $400,000.

The roof of the building and the rear wall collapsed at the height of the fire. The falling bricks sent three firemen to hospital.

Nine persons were herded out of top-floor apartments by police and firemen. One of them, 9-year-old David Sinclair whose leg was still in a plaster cast from a recent injury, was carried to safety by Fire Captain Arthur Nichols.

The stores of the United Refrigeration Sales and Service and the Colonial Art Glass Company also were destroyed. On the second floor was the National Labor Hall. Near by stores were damaged by smoke and flooded basements.

Frequent explosions shook the building during the blaze. They were believed caused by stocks of anti-freeze and oil in the tire company store.

Q.S.S. Pupils Hear Splendid Talk On Insurance

Yesterday afternoon another in a series of vocational talks was given in the Queen Square School hall. These addresses are sponsored by the School Improvement League of this City. The speaker for the occasion was Mr. Morton Dew, and his topic was Insurance.

During the course of his remarks he pointed out the various factors which help to determine the premium on fire insurance, such as the construction of the building, the business carried on there, the condition of neighbouring properties and the amount of fire protection in the community. He stated that the success of an insurance agent depends on his own efforts to sell his goods to the public. To do this he must have a complete knowledge of his subject.

At the conclusion of his address a vote of thanks was presented to him by the chairman, Arnold Mullins. Mover and second of the vote of thanks were Desmond Connolly and John Hughes.

The principal, Lt.-Col. L. F. MacDonald, also referred fittingly to the fine and most practical address given by Mr. Dew.

The senior pupils of Queen Square School are deeply indebted to Mr. Dew and other speakers who have given much splendid vocational advice during the school term.
