Novelist Booth Tarkington Dies

INDIANAPOLIS, May 19.—(AP)—Booth Tarkington, 76, novelist and playwright, died in his home here tonight after an illness of two months. Mr. Tarkington was twice winner of the Pulitzer prize for literature. The author of "Seventeen," "Papa and Son," "Wanted," and "The Cat on the Hat," Tarkington had been nearly blind for several years but he had been dictating a new novel in his last days and it was nearly completed. The book, not named, concerned the people of a typical American city. Mr. Tarkington was a sparkling figure in the Indiana golden literary era which also produced James M. Smith and George Ade. Only Meredith Nicholson remains. Donald Jameson of Indianapolis, a nephew, said Mr. Tarkington died quietly in his bed at 8 p. m. C. D. T. and the direct cause of death had not been determined. The author had been confined to his bed by declining health for the last two years.

Sask. Holidays Act Becomes Effective July 1

(By The Canadian Press) REGINA, May 19.—First of its kind in Canada to provide two weeks vacation with pay, Saskatchewan's annual holidays act will go into effect July 1. Labor Minister Charles C. Williams announced Saturday. The act, originally passed in 1944 by the Provincial Legislature, could have been passed earlier had it not been for the war. Dominion controls were amended several times during the war. Mr. Williams said that after July 1, two weeks' holidays with pay must be given everyone employed in one place for a year, and who has had no holiday. The act applies to all employees except farm laborers.

Food Conference Will Open Today

(By The Associated Press) WASHINGTON, May 19.—Experts from 18 countries, trying to overlook Russia's rather cringing absence, meet here tomorrow to see what can be done about a world food crisis that may last another five years. The conference will aim at an agreement among most major food-producing countries on a 1946 crop. Attempting to get the biggest harvest in history next year. Setting up an international organization to deal solely with the aspects of continuing hunger in many lands. The meeting was called by Sir John G. C. Brown, director-general of the United Nations Food and Agriculture Organization. It was he who told a press conference that "Russia is a little difficult" but Soviet failure to attend was "rather surprising." But the rest of the big agricultural countries, he said, must work out a long-range food program "before they cut a blade of grain" of this year's crops. He urged a 1946 harvest will help meet the immediate crisis. Sir John told

War Cut Deeply Into Stocks Of Minerals

(By ALEX PRINGLE) TORONTO, May 19.—(CP)—Directors and shareholders of mining companies have been figuring up wartime production in terms of the depletion of their mineral resources, a stock-in-trade that cannot be replaced. President Robert C. Stanley of the International Nickel Company of Canada announced at the company's annual meeting recently that during the war the company produced more nickel than in all the previous 54 years of its operations. Production of other non-ferrous metals to go into the war effort was almost on a proportionate scale. Total copper production from the start of such operations in 1906 to the end of 1945 was 5,000,700 short tons and in the same years the output was 1,750,568 short tons, or 35 per cent. Canada has been mining lead since 1887 and to the end of 1945 production totaled 4,454,283 tons. Of this total 1,297,376 were taken
