Rotary Hears Other Fellow's Viewpoint

"The Other Fellow's Viewpoint" was the subject of a timely and instructive address given at the Rotary luncheon yesterday afternoon by Rev. R. V. MacKenzie, Professor of English at St. Dunstan's University, Rotarian R. H. Rogers was in the chair, and the guests were Hon. Newton W. Rowell, LL.D., Chief Justice of Ontario; Robert A. MacKay, Ph.D., Chairman of Political Science of Dalhousie University, Halifax; and Hubert Rogers of New York.

President Neil MacLean read a letter from the Canadian Legion commending the picture "Salute to Valor" soon to be shown here. He also read greetings from the Rotary Club of Rugby, England. Secretary Cooper read a letter from the secretary of the Rotary Club of Bridgeton, N.J., asking for the names of any Rotarians' sons and daughters aged between 10 and 16 who would like to correspond with children of Rotarians of the same age from the Bridgeton Club.

World politics seem to be in such a hopeless tangle, that we are tempted at times to wonder if anyone but ourselves has a bit of sense left, said Fr. MacKenzie. Are they not—Italians, Germans, Spanish, French, Russians, Japanese—all raving maniacs, who have thrown prudence, common sense, and reason to the winds, and gone on one grand political and economic spree? Still they can't all be dupes and fools. We know what an advantage it is "to see ourselves as they see us. It was free money a blunder free us, and fool details were too numerous to recollect. Again two other despotic powers, Japan and Germany had not been punished by sanctions when they struck for their wants. Italy saw no reason why she should be. I am not establishing any brief for Italy, I am merely trying to look through her glasses. Finally, Italy is intensely opposed to Communism. Now any opposition to Communism whether in England or in U.S. is immediately met with the cry of "it is if he could. But he couldn't sell anything. Traffic blocked him from France and U.S. How then could he pay the absurd sums demanded? True, Europe is essentially Christian, and ain, a free-trade country, bought Britain's gold and paid it to France and the U.S. Soon the crash came. Britain went off the gold standard and put up tariffs. German deflation followed, with falling prices, unemployment, pov- erty—stagnation in the wake. At this point, enter the Nazis headed by Hitler. A joke at first. But they appealed to national pride— intense national feeling. They gradually gained confidence, promised prosperity, work, food; what they armed secretly merely for breaking treaties; but they were accomplishing things and gave the people courage.

How has the Frenchman's outlook on Europe developed since the war? Why did he enter the Franco-Soviet Pact? The price of victory for France in the World War was very great. She expected not only continued applause, but support in her ambitions from other nations. This did not materialize; gradually she found herself almost alone. Yes, Britain was her ally, but Britain did not show sufficient enthusiasm; she began to suspect Britain. There were so many factions in the British parties—some cried for disarmament; some shouted "Hands off Europe". Perhaps such opinion would prevent Britain from coming to her assistance in need. She grew panicky. She never liked England's method of "muddling through" anyway. Then came the Abyssinia affair. Italy and France had been gradually becoming good friends, and now France could not see why England opposed Italy's African raid so vigorously, since she herself had urged Italy to go in there in the '90's in order to keep France out.

Thus the smiles of the Russian bear wooed the Fair Maid of France, and the Franco-Soviet Pact was born.

Dare I attempt to fathom the mentality of the Russian? Well I have been sufficiently rash already. I might as well continue in the same vein. The educated Russian, (a mere handful) is steeped in the philosophy of Carl Marx, and so he thinks and talks and argues and dreams of the downfall of capitalism. It is an unmitigated evil with him, and he can't see that it might, by purging itself of abuses, become an agent of good. The machine is a stranger to Russia since the Revolution, and it has completely captivated his whole being. There are some who say that he tries to make it all the place of the God he forces out of his life. He claims that his constant meddling in international affairs is in self-defence. He fears Japan, Germany and Italy. He will play any game or espouse any cause to get sympathy in this opposition.

The rejuvenation of Italy is one of the important political accomplishments of modern times. A broken nation fearful of neighbors, and even of themselves, without leadership, without ambition, without hope, was transformed into one of the world powers, ambitious, confident, perfectly composed.

Britain has claimed that her rule in India has been helpful not only to India, but to the world in general. And it's true. Italy made exactly the same claims about her intention in Abyssinia, but the details were too numerous to recollect. Again two other despotic powers, Japan and Germany had not been punished by sanctions when they struck for their wants. Italy saw no reason why she should be. I am not establishing any brief for Italy, I am merely trying to look through her glasses. Finally, Italy is intensely opposed to Communism. Now any opposition to Communism whether in England or in U.S. is immediately met with the cry of "it is if he could. But he couldn't sell anything. Mr. Mun McGrath, returned to his home in Lorne Valley after spending the past month in Quebec where he was engaged in lumbering.

A masquerade dance was held in Cardigan Hall Tuesday night, with a large attendance despite the heavy rain and very bad roads. Prizes were awarded to those in costume. Ladies first prize was carried away by Miss Bernadette Lewis, Cardigan, representing Christmas, a costume which was very artistically made. Second prize went to Miss Dorothy Leard, Lorne Valley, dressed in a very pretty blue representing Little-Bo-Boop. Gent's first prize was won by Mr. Jack McAulay, Cardigan Head, representing a Turk Second prize went to Mr. Eesty Burdett, Dundas, dressed in a clown suit. After the costumes were all judged lunches were served and the remainder of the night was spent in dancing with Webster's orchestra in attendance.

A number of men from this and surrounding districts have been engaged in work at Perth Station, where some graveling was being done. Among those working were: Mr. Francis McAulay, Mr. George McAulay, Cardigan Head and Mr. Mun McGrath, Lorne Valley.

Mr. Alvin Burke, Fortune Bridge, is visiting his uncle, Mr. Jack Webster, Cardigan Head and is assisting in the orchestra.

During the past week a small amount of shipping was done in this vicinity. On Thursday a quantity of lambs were loaded at 48 Road Station by Mr. James Shaw, Brudnell, and Mr. Rattery, Rosneath. Also some potatoes were trucked by J. A. McDonald and Co. to Montague where the S. S. Surf is being loaded for Sydney.

Miss Helen Smith, student at Notre Dame Academy, Charlottetown, returned to her studies on Tuesday after spending Thanksgiving with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Michael Smith, St. Theresa's.

Mrs. Sarah Sanphy, former resident of Baldwin Road, who has been spending her vacation for the past two months visiting friends and relatives in this vicinity, left Friday morning on return to her home in Beverley, Mass.
