SIX CHANGES IN NINE YEARS

Premier Borden took occasion, a few days ago, to read the Liberals in Parliament a lecture on the ease with which they changed their policies.

Mr. W. W. Buchanan of Medicine Hat had brought up the question of the transfer of the natural resources to the western provinces, which, he said, had been promised by Premier Borden in his Halifax platform and in the 1911 campaign.

He declared also that the natural resources question had been used as a bribe to force the people to vote Conservative.

Premier Borden retorted that "It might be well for the honorable member to take a look at himself and his friends before he throws charges as to our sincerity across the House."

As for the Conservative party it stood where it did in 1905. He was still in favor of handing over to the provinces their natural resources, but there were certain conditions to which the western provinces must assent, and the Maritime Provinces had to be consulted with regards to any changes which would be necessitated in the financial arrangements.

1. They declared that the financial terms which they made under the autonomy bills were much more advantageous than if the lands had been handed over to the provinces.

2. They claimed that the question had been settled over and over again by the people of Saskatchewan and Alberta when they returned to power Liberal administrations, thus gratifying the terms of the autonomy bills.

3. They questioned the sincerity and sanity of anyone who doubted the wisdom of their settlement.

4. They next asked that a portion of the natural resources be transferred to the provinces.

poses such action should only be taken as part of a general readjustment of financial arrangements in which all the provinces should have an opportunity to participate.

This clear cut statement made by Premier Murray was concurred in by Premier Matheson of Prince Edward Island and Premier Flemming of New Brunswick.

VIOLATING PLEDGED WORD

The action of President Wilson in seeking to repeal the section of the Panama Canal Act, giving free tolls to American Vessels, is being generally commended by the more responsible of the American newspapers and public men.

Mr. Henry White, who was secretary of the American Embassy at London in 1898 and in the absence of Ambassador Choate opened the negotiations for the repeal of the Clayton-Bulwer treaty, which the Hay-Pauncefote treaty superseded is quite decided on what the duty of Congress is.

"Nobody," said Mr. White, in an address before the students of George Washington University, "not in touch with diplomatic affairs could realize what a deplorable thing it was to know that this country was going back on its word. There never could be any doubt that the words 'all nations' included the United States. No one views with deeper humiliation the fact that we have no merchant marine. I would, therefore, do anything that could be done with propriety for the resuscitation of our merchant marine, but I do not believe in violating our pledged word."

That leaves little loophole for the President's opponents to get through. Mr. White's assertion is backed by Mr. Choate, the American Ambassador at the time the treaty was negotiated. Both Mr. Hay and Lord Pauncefote are dead, and apart from the permanent officials of the Foreign office, Mr. Choate is the only individual who had inside knowledge of the intentions of the two diplomats.

In a recent interview Mr. Choate says: "As the lips of both these diplomats and great patriots, who were true to their own countries and each regardless of the right of the other, are sealed in death, I think that it is proper that I should say what I think both of them if they were here today would say—that the clause in the Panama Toll Act exempting coastwise American shipping from the payment of tolls is in direct violation of the treaty."

I venture to say that in the whole of the negotiations of this particular treaty, no claim, no suggestion, was made that there should be any exemption of anybody.

MORE LIGHT NEEDED

Sir:—It seems as though the situation demands that certain things in reference to temperance matters be clearly brought out into the light. The temperance people have nothing to fear by publicity. That is all they need to prove the justice of their cause.

It is the policy of the rum party to cover up their deeds. They work in the dark, and their business is to deceive the public, who have suffered long and seriously in this respect. They cover up their real motives and try to work on the sentiments of the people. Sometimes good people are misled themselves to be led astray by false statements, which look plausible until the facts are known.

SHILOH quickly stops coughs, cures colds, and breaks the throat and lungs.

or motive that makes an action right or wrong. Beware of the ethical preaching of a rum-seller or anyone else who has an interest in this very evil business. Like the inhabitants of ancient Troy, "We fear the enemy even bearing gifts." The genius of the liquor traffic is deception. It promises if certain rights are given by law to respect these rights, and then violates them. Liquor men of this city have confessed that it is impossible for them to keep the law. They have asked for leniency on this very ground, and have tried to excuse themselves for their wrong doing in this way. But it is only another bad trick of a bad trade, and it does not have weight with intelligent people. If a man breaks the prohibition law he is a public wrong doer. He should not be excused by a lenient public, but he should be punished. He is not a good citizen who breaks the liquor law any more than he is if he breaks any other law of the province. People should look down on him and not countenance him. No one should try to get him free from punishment if he happens to have money and can influence certain people who ought to know better. He is a violator of law and a dangerous man. His influence is bad. Where respect for law is weakened or wanting in any community, it is on the road to degeneracy and ruin. It is a dangerous thing to encourage wrong doing in any form. The liquor traffic is the biggest culmination of wrong we have in the world today. It is associated with everything that is bad, and can never be cleaned up most unimportant always. Cutting off its tail will never kill it, unless the cut is made at the neck of the beast.

Temperance people say, "Let us have more light." They have an idea who it was that changed the charge in a certain case recently before the court from a second to a first offence. It was not the Alliance, it would look as if a certain well known offender, who is now evading the law of this province as a fugitive from justice, was being favoured by somebody, but the party is not the Temperance Alliance. They are determined to favour no one. They are not persecuting anyone. Their purpose is to have the law impartially enforced.

There are a good many other things, Mr. Editor, that need to come out into the light about the liquor traffic in our province. It is the intention of the Temperance Alliance to show up in the most public way the evils of this business and to expose those who persist in carrying on an illegal traffic. There is nothing that can stop them in this good work, because they are conscious that they are right. They are sure they are working in the best interests of the rum-sellers themselves, against whom they hold no spite or ill-will. They only wish to do them good. They want to get them out of a bad business as bad for themselves as for others. They have the interest of the people foremost in mind, and they will not allow a few individuals who are making money out of the blood of people to stand in their way. It is time for the rum party in this province to know that this is a fight to a finish for the vindication of temperance principles, and the enforcement of the prohibition law. In some respects our province leads the world in temperance legislation, and we shall not carry the standard back for liquor sellers or liquor drinkers, no matter what their position or influence may be. The Prince Edward Island Temperance Alliance is determined to have an impartial enforcement of the law.

WILL PAY DOCTOR'S BILL OF $635 FOR OPERATION AND CARE OF CLARENCE RICHESON

BOSTON, Feb. 28.—Dr. Howard Lothrop will be paid in full for his services in operating and attending to Clarence V. Richardson, while the later was in the Charles Street jail on a charge of slaying Avis Linnell.

Richardson wounded himself while in jail, and the wound required a delicate operation, which was performed by Doctor Lothrop, who had been summoned by Sheriff Seavey. Subsequently Dr. Lothrop put in a bill for $635 including $500 for an operation and the balance for services in treating the prisoner afterward. A question arose about the liability of the city for the bill.

Dr. Lothrop, through his counsel, John L. Hall, sued the estate of Sheriff Seavey as well as the city of Boston. Judge Hall of the Superior Court, who heard the case reserved his decision.

It was learned that the parties had effected a settlement under which the estate of the late Sheriff Seavey will pay $300 and the city of Boston the balance of $335, so the judge will render no decision and the litigation is ended.

GHOST IN THE TUNNEL

Canada's Fire Loss Is Higher Than Any Other Country in the World, According to the Report of the Conservation Commission at Ottawa

This should bring home to every property holder the necessity of Fire Insurance. Have you ever stopped to think how you would feel to have your accumulations suddenly obliterated? A fire may produce this result. The only absolute protection is Insurance. The cost is so trifling no one can afford to be without it. If you own any property, liable to be destroyed by Fire, it is a duty you owe yourself and to your family to insure it.

DEATHS

YOUNG.—At Earncliffe, Feb 21st, Mrs. Magdeline Young, age 90 years.

NEPHEW OF KING IS AT WORK ON A FARM IN ENGLAND

LONDON, Feb. 28.—Prince Erik of Denmark, a nephew of King Christian X. after working unobtrusively on an English farm at Fairfield, in Gloucestershire for some months will soon go to Holland and Belgium to continue his agricultural education.

It is said the stay of the prince in England is due to the advice of Minister of Agriculture Pedersen, who encouraged his own daughter to study domestic life as a maid servant here. It is well known that Denmark is facile princeps in dairy farming, but Mr. Pedersen, while visiting England some time ago, was impressed with the profitable English method of using waste lands in hog rearing, which he is alleged to have described as the best he has ever seen. Accordingly he urged Prince Valdemar, father of Prince Erik, to send the latter there.

The prince lives in a farmer's family on an equal status with its members. He works hard and for long hours. Occasionally he pays a visit to his aunt, Queen Mother Alexandra at Sandringham.
