ASKS $250,000 FOR BREACH OF PROMISE

NEW YORK, Jan. 10.—Elsie Eleanor Waldo, member of a well-known New York family, today filed a complaint in a breach of promise suit for $250,000 against Frederick Melvin Brown, a prominent New York lawyer. Miss Waldo declares Brown promised to marry her in December, 1907, and that he married Mabel Heloise Stokes in October, 1913, while she still believed he was engaged to her. "During seven of the best years of her life she clove to him," Miss Waldo's complaint added, "to the exclusion of other capable and honest suitors of high social standing and wealth." The plaintiff alleges Brown told her "that the satisfaction of being engaged to the plaintiff was fraught with so much happiness that he hated to break the charm." Miss Waldo said she first met the defendant in November, 1905, when she was 20 years old. Brown, who is a Harvard graduate and a prominent member of the Comité internationale De Droit Maritime, and vice-president of the Internationale Maritime Law Conference of Paris.

Comb Sage Tea in Faded or Gray Hair

IF MIXED WITH SULPHUR IT DARKENS SO NATURALLY NOBODY CAN TELL

Grandmother kept her hair beautifully darkened, glossy and attractive with a brew of Sage Tea and Sulphur. Whenever her hair looked on that dull faded or streaked appearance, this simple mixture was applied with wonderful effect. By asking at any drug store for "Wald's Sage and Sulphur Compound," you will get a large bottle of this old-time recipe, improved by the addition of other ingredients. This simple mixture can be depended upon to restore natural color and beauty to the hair.

A well-known downtown druggist says everybody uses Wald's Sage and Sulphur Compound now because it darkens so naturally and evenly that nobody can tell it has been applied—it's so easy to use, too. You simply dampen a comb or soft brush and draw it through your hair, taking one small strand at a time. By morning the gray hair disappears; after another application or two, it is restored to its natural color and looks glossy and beautiful.

But the part of the examination that most interested all concerned was the inspection of the various classes in all the rooms by Rev. T. W. Goodwill, Mr. James Pennington, Mr. J. A. Ready, Mr. J. F. Proffitt. The examination of the various rooms showed that the whole school is making much progress, and that the teachers have directed the best service that their capabilities afford, in developing the talents of their pupils in the various branches included in the curriculum and in maintaining the good discipline that is essential to all successful teaching. Highly complimentary remarks were made by the examiners of the classes and others present, all expressed of the keen satisfaction felt in the substantial progress that the school is making. The teachers and pupils wish thus to express their gratitude for the encouragement shown their work by those who attended the examination.

At the close, a vote of thanks was tendered Rev. Mr. Goodwill for his efficiency in discharging the duties of chairman. The four teachers were presented with appropriate Christmas gifts by the pupils which speak a language that is not written.—Y.

CONTRACT WITH WILDE CANCELLED

NEW YORK, Jan. 10.—The opening of the International Sporting Club has been postponed until the completion of its clubhouse, which is expected to be sometime late in the summer or in the early fall. In making the announcement Secretary Emple also stated that Jimmy Wilde's contract with the club has been cancelled, and the little Englishman will not have the honor of opening the new club, a club in the history of the American ring. Wilde's contract was cancelled because of his poor showing against Jack Sharkey, who defeated the little Britisher in a bout in Milwaukee a few weeks ago. Wilde was a disappointment and the officers of the International Sporting Club decided that he would not do for the opening attraction. A clause in the contract permits the club to cancel the match if Wilde's drawing power becomes affected. It was originally planned to open the club in temporary quarters in the Lexington Opera House with Wilde and Joe Lynch as the headliners. Now that the match has been called off, there will be no further attempt to hold bouts until the club is located in its own clubhouse.

Applications for the position as referee have been pouring in during the past few weeks. Many of these officials will be required, as bouts will be held practically every night in the week. So far there have been no appointments. Muscular Rheumatism subdued.—When one is a sufferer from muscular rheumatism he cannot do better than to have the region rubbed with Dr. Thomas Electric OIL. There is no oil that so speedily shows its effect in subduing pain. Let the rubbing be brisk and continue until ease is secured.

The Quality of Neilson's is not Strained

ONE, William Shakespeare, created a character, Portia, who said to Shylock, "The quality of mercy is not strained."

People who have read it have never forgotten it. But few reflect that the quality of anything is not strained. If it were, then it would cease to be quality.

What, then, do we mean by adapting it to Neilson's? Just this: that from the cocoa-beans of which we make our coatings, to the fruits, nuts, creams and other confections that we use for fillings, we use only the finest materials.

This quality is also paramount in our process of manufacture, and packing, because many a box of chocolates is bought on appearance. Although the artistry of our boxes may not appeal to all, it certainly will appeal to people of refinement.

And it is these people who will most appreciate the delicacy of flavour and unstrained quality of Neilson's Chocolates.

"The Chocolates that are Different"

COMBS INDICATE LAYING POWERS.

The ornamental appendage known as the comb is one of the chief considerations of the poultry fancier, but it is also an indicator of health and prolificness. Ailing fowls will quickly display a pale-colored and even an unsightly covering of white spots is sometimes seen. A pleasing contrast is the blood-red comb which adorns the head upon well conditioned fowls. Lack of nutrition or anaemia is followed by pale comb and wattles, and is remedied by generous diet and iron tonic, whilst ventilation or an increased supply of oxygen in the night house will soon improve matters. Disease of the liver or advanced cases of indigestion will alter the comb from red to purple or a dark red color. The cause is generally to be found in over-feeding on starchy food devoid of pel the birds to exercise. An exclusive corn diet will usually cure the trouble, and it cannot be too widely known that all poultry succeed best when fed in moderation on a spongy or bulky mash once daily (which are tasteless) will be of service, also green food (including finely chopped onion) and plenty of sharp flint grit. Empty grit boxes and ill-looking combs are usually closely associated, and unless the hen's rizzard is regularly supplied with grit the liver and digestive organs will quickly be impaired. In some flocks almost from the hatching day the tendency to liver trouble commences, the reason being too soon after hatching with soft food, instead of small flint grit, which should be the first meal of all chickens. Combs which show signs of scurvy are unsightly, whilst "famous" or white-comb is very destructive in poultry.
